SPEED PLAN FOR U.S. SHIPS TO AID WAR CHILDREN

Bill Wins Approval of House Group.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 26.—The house foreign affairs committee today unanimously approved a bill amending the neutrality act to permit American ships to transport refugee children out of European war zones.

Representative Thomas C. Hennings Jr. [D., Mo.], said he will report the measure to the house on Monday and urge immediate consideration by the rules committee, the next step before it can be brought up for passage.

Representative Hennings explained when he introduced the proposed amendment earlier this week that it was designed primarily to speed evacuation of children from the British Isles before the first German onslaughts. Its terms, however, provide that children under 16 years of age may be removed from any European war zone.

Requirements for Safety.

The foreign affairs committee sought to insure the safety of the refugee ships by inserting requirements that the American flag be painted plainly on the sides of the vessels and that such ships be well lighted at night.

The vessels would not be armed and would not be in convoys. Only adults necessary to man the vessels and care for the children would be permitted aboard.

[London newspapers last night published news of the action of the house foreign affairs committee on their front pages. Hopes of thousands of British parents to remove their children from the war zone were reported to have been revived. These hopes, however, were dimmed by the recent announcement of the sinking by a German torpedo boat of the French steamer Meknes with a loss of more than 300 lives. The Meknes was engaged in repatriating French sailors. It was disclosed that Britain had failed to notify the Germans, thru France, that the ship was to sail. Details appear on page 5.]

Roosevelt Is Questioned.

President Roosevelt was asked about the plan at his morning press conference and replied that he thought it would be a big responsibility to send American ships for European children in the absence of reasonable assurance of safety. The British government's attitude and this country's attitude, said the President, spring from a deep desire to do everything possible for the safety of the children.

But the real crux of the problem, he explained, is to have reasonable certainty we can get American flagships in and out of the war zones without being torpedoed.

Points to Recent Sinking.

Asked what he would consider reasonable assurance, the President replied by citing the case of the sinking a few days ago of a French vessel taking Frenchmen home from England. The ship was sunk with the loss of 300 lives, he recalled, and the British, he said, claimed the ship had been guaranteed safe passage, while the Germans said they had guaranteed no such thing.

Well, the President asked, suppose we get assurances from other governments? It still may be taking a chance.

Meanwhile, said the President, a list of about 10,000 children is being made up in England with passports and everything ready. He said he supposed the next step would be to ask the British what they can do with their ships and the attitude of the British government toward sending children to this country or to Halifax or Montreal.

'Flat Foots' Cop Quartet Title; Swat the 'Bar Flies'

New York, July 26 (AP).—Four Oklahoma City policemen fought it out with an equal number of Bartlesville, Okla., "bar flies" at the world's fair tonight and as usual, the cops won—The barber shop quartet singing championship of the United States. The "Flat Foot Four," all policemen, won the title by eliminating the 1939 winners, the "Phillips 66 Bar Flies" in the finals of a contest sponsored by the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America. Thirteen quartets participated.

YANKS TROUNCE WHITE SOX, 10-2, BEFORE 48,104

The Yankees snapped the White Sox's winning streak at seven last night when they trounced the south siders, 10 to 2, before 48,104 in Comiskey park. Spud Chandler, Yankee pitcher, hit two home runs, the second with the bases full in the ninth. Score:

Batteries—Chandler and Rosar; Smith, Appleton and Tresh.

The Cubs won the first game of their series with the Giants in New York yesterday, 14 to 1. Larry French, the winning pitcher, drove in four runs with three singles.

BRITISH BATTLE RISING MENACE OF SEA RAIDERS

Convoy Bombed Off Coast of Ulster.

LONDON, July 26 (AP).—Britain and the Frenchmen under her flag manned for sea tonight a powerful squadron of French men-of-war to meet the new and spreading menace of flotillas of marauding Nazi torpedo motor boats.

The admiralty disclosed that "a number of French ships of varying sizes are now being manned and prepared for sea" both by men of the "free French naval forces" and by British seamen. At least one of these, it disclosed, already has been operating "successfully."

This new maneuver was disclosed as the admiralty acknowledged the loss or crippling of half of a 21 ship convoy by combined Nazi air and torpedo boat attack in the English channel.

Strike at Back Door.

Moreover, the German bombers struck for the first time today at a convoy off the coast of Northern Ireland, Britain's vulnerable back door. Shore watchers saw fighting between the ships and the attackers, while British fighters sped to the scene. One German plane appeared to have been shot down.

During the night one person was killed, a house wrecked, and others damaged when German flyers dropped bombs at isolated points in southwest England, Wales, and northeast Scotland, the air ministry announced. One enemy bomber was shot down off the southeast coast of England, the communique stated. Gunfire and explosions also were heard near the mouth of the Thames, it was said.

Intent on sapping the basic strength of the German air force, British planes again blanketed Germany's industrial areas with bombs, Thursday night. Oil storage dumps in half a dozen cities were reported set afire, fourteen airdromes in Germany and Holland were blasted and plane factories, docks, blast furnaces and other military objectives were bombed. The raids cost the British five planes.

Take Over Two Battleships.

The number of French ships and French sailors fighting for the British was kept a secret. The admiralty said the ships being manned arrived in British harbors before the French-German armistice.

On July 4 Prime Minister Churchill announced the British had taken over, in British ports, two French battleships, two light cruisers, a number of submarines, including the Surcouf, largest in the world; eight destroyers, and 200 mine sweepers.

This is virtually all that is left of France's active fleet since the British wrecked some of her warships off Algeria and immobilized others at Alexandria early this month.

The admiralty said the "free Frenchmen" who are sailing on the French warships are under Vice Admiral Emile Musilier, appointed by Gen. Charles De Gaulle, whom Britain recognizes as the leader of Frenchmen "not in bondage."

Will Fly Two Flags.

French ships "which cannot be manned by free French naval forces are being manned chiefly by British crews assisted by a nucleus of French ratings," said the communique. The men-of-war will fly both the tricolor and the white ensign of the British naval forces.

The attack on the 21 ship convoy occurred yesterday, but the German dive bombers were over the south and southeast coast and channel reaches again today.

Twenty-eight German raiders were shot down yesterday—but there were hundreds of them. Today, bombs in one southeast town killed one person and wrecked some houses, and other raiders penetrated to the southwest coast and to Wales.

In all, the admiralty said, the Germans yesterday sank five ships in the convoy, totaling 5,104 tons, damaged five others, and hit two British destroyers. A trawler, the fourth to be lost in two days, also was sunk by the dive bombers, and a second trawler damaged.

Report Swedish King Has Nazi Terms of Peace

BY CAPT. M. M. CORPENING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, July 26.—According to reports from reliable sources heretofore correct, German peace terms are now in the hands of King Gustav of Sweden to be transmitted to Great Britain. Outstanding points of the proposal include:

King Gustav.

1. The British empire is to stay out of Europe proper.

2. The Cameroons and the former German East Africa are to be returned to Germany. Former German Southwest Africa is to remain with the South African union.

3. The Belgian Congo is to go to Germany.

4. Germany guarantees the British empire protection of its colonies from the "yellow peril."

Norway to Be Province.

5. Norway is to remain a German province.

6. Belgium is to become a protectorate under King Leopold.

7. Germany is to keep that part of France now occupied except Paris.

8. Holland is to be a protectorate with no molestation of the Dutch foreign possessions.

Italy is to have a free hand in the affairs of Spain and Greece under German supervision. In addition, Italy is, to be given all the Adriatic coast.

Sources close to the German high command indicate that if England refuses the overture the British Isles are to be attacked as soon as the weather permits.

Predict Victory in 30 Days.

The same sources expressed much confidence in the German high command and the ability of Germany's army to conquer Britain within 30 days. In addition to air bombing and navy attacks, it is indicated that long range coast guns will be used and a new gas will be introduced for the first time.

Reports have reached Switzerland that Germany's chemical plants were working at capacity to produce the new gas. This chemical, it is said, resembles smoke screen gas and is not poisonous. The gas, contained in bombs, blankets the ground and lies close to it for some time.

Report No Terms Received.

LONDON, July 26.—Authoritative circles in London tonight said no peace terms have been received from Germany, either thru King Gustav of Sweden or any other medium. However, it was said that this statement does not necessarily rule out the possibility that such terms might have been received and are being kept secret among a few members of the war cabinet.

The Swedish legation also said no such peace terms had been conveyed thru it to the British foreign office.

The British, reliable sources said, will refuse the terms if they have been submitted. Prime Minister Winston Churchill and Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax in recent speeches stressed Britain does not intend either to surrender or to make any peace with the Nazi government—especially a peace which would leave Germany in charge of Europe.

Radio in Mexico Accused of Subversive Campaign

MEXICO CITY, July 26.—Gen. Dizan R. Gaytan, military commander for the state of Morelos, today informed the secretary of national defense that a powerful radio sending station owned by a German citizen is operating in Cuernavaca in defiance of law. He said it was transmitting "political and subversive propaganda."

BOMBERS ROAR OVER PANAMA CANAL IN A TEST OF DEFENSES

BALBOA, Canal Zone, July 26 (AP).—Scores of "enemy" naval bombers swept over the isthmus tonight in surprise maneuvers simulating simultaneous air raids on the Atlantic and Pacific entrances to the Panama canal.

The "attacking force," made up of United States naval planes, dropped flares to indicate bombs. Antiaircraft batteries strung along the canal sprung into action within minutes after the first warning was received but there was no official report on the results of the sudden maneuver.

The defense apparently gave a good account of itself. One field outpost on the Pacific side reported a score of bombers flew overhead and that searchlights caught each one separately in the glare. The "battle" lasted 45 minutes.

1 Slain, 1 Shot by Gang; Laid to Bookie Feud

Investigators last night turned to a theory of a south side bookmakers' war to account for the shooting of two men who were attacked by a carload of masked gunmen yesterday afternoon in front of a crowded A. & P. food store at 2232 West 95th street.

One of the victims, John McLeod, 37 years old, who recently resided with relatives at 5117 Wells street, died in the Little Company of Mary hospital a few hours after he had been wounded. He had been struck in the head. The other, James C. Ryan, 41 years old, identified thru finger prints as an ex-convict, was in a serious condition. He gave several addresses, all of which were fictitious.

Both Known to Police.

Both men were well known to the police, Ryan as a former employé of the disbanded Nationwide News Service [handbook information purveyors], and McLeod as a one time guard in a gambling house near 69th and State streets.

The shooting was wild and several slugs crashed thru the store window, endangering the lives of women shoppers and employés. A clerk, Peter Mannos of 6802 Langley avenue, was cut on the shoulder by flying glass.

Witnesses said that Ryan and McLeod had purchased about $8 worth of groceries, which they carried out to Ryan's car. They had just gotten into it when the gunmen's car, headed west, drew up alongside and the shooting started. After it was over the attackers drove west to Oakley avenue and then north.

Linked to McGovern Slaying.

Police said the shooting might have been an aftermath of the slaying June 14 of Michael J. McGovern, brother of Stubby McGovern, prohibition era bootlegger, and James McGlade. They were shot to death in an automobile near 69th street and Wabash avenue, supposedly over troubles growing out of attempts to put in a new racing information service to replace that abolished by Moses L. Annenberg.

Detectives of the Woodlawn district disclosed that they had been seeking Ryan for questioning since the double slaying. Last night it was theorized that he and McLeod were leaving town and had purchased the groceries to take with them to a summer resort hideout.

Ryan's police record shows that he was sent to Pontiac reformatory for larceny in 1921, that he was twice paroled and each time violated the parole conditions. He was released finally in 1930.

WILLKIE DRAWS UP PLAN TO WIN SOUTHERN VOTES

40,000 TO RIDE SPECIAL TRAINS TO HEAR WILLKIE

One of the largest passenger movements in the history of middle western railroad operations will take place Saturday, Aug. 17, when more than 40,000 persons will travel by train to join the throng attending the Wendell L. Willkie acceptance ceremonies at Elwood, Ind.

Sixty-five special trains will carry Republicans eager to hear their Presidential nominee. Some will come from distant points, such as New Orleans, Birmingham, Ala., Denver, and New York. But the heaviest train travel is expected from Chicago and other centers in the middle west.

Elwood is served by two railroads, the Pennsylvania and the Nickel Plate, but other lines will share in the movement thru connections with these roads. Most Chicagoans are expected to travel via the Pennsylvania. The Nickel Plate will draw heavily on a territory extending eastward from Indiana to New York state. However, the New York Central will run at least two trains out of Chicago which will make connection at Handy, Ind., with the Nickel Plate.

Fare Is $3.25 to $9.55

Round trip fares from Chicago will be $3.25 in air conditioned coaches and $9.55 in Pullman trains.

The handling of so many passengers in a day is creating operating problems for the railroads. The Pennsylvania alone will have 350 to 400 extra workers on duty.

The Pennsylvania expects to run between 35 and 40 special trains, 12 or more from the Chicago district, carrying some 25,000 persons to Elwood. The 27 or 28 Nickel Plate specials are expected to carry more than 16,000 and the two New York Central-Nickel Plate trains about 2,000.

"Intermediate stops will be eliminated so far as possible," said a Pennsylvania official. "We are putting in extra facilities for icing and watering the trains. All important crossings will be specially protected to insure safe operation."

Special Station at Elwood.

The Pennsylvania is establishing a special station at 9th street, Elwood, to handle trains arriving from the north. Trains from the south will use the regular Pennsylvania station.

The first Pennsylvania train will leave Chicago at 7 a. m. Chicago time and departures will be at 20 minute intervals thereafter. The trip will be made in 3 hours 50 minutes. Most of the Pennsylvania trains will leave the Union station. A few will be made up at Englewood.

Each train will carry a diner, but the majority of the coach passengers will be served lunch boxes because the large crowds will make it difficult to seat them. Each special will carry from 12 to 14 coaches. All the Pennsylvania trains will be pulled by high speed locomotives.

Start Back After Speech.

Departure from Elwood will be started immediately after the Willkie speech. Special arrangements will make it easy for all to find their trains.

Among the Chicago area groups that will have special trains will be the Republican central committee, Union League club, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Illinois Democrats for Willkie club, Illinois candidates and Kane and Du Page County Willkie clubs. The Gary and Calumet district will send large delegations.

Acts to Form Party of Independent Democrats.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Colorado Springs, Colo., July 26.—Under the name of the Independent Democratic party, the Unity Democratic party, or a similar appellation, Wendell L. Willkie, Republican Presidential nominee, plans to set up in certain southern states an aggressive campaign organization to reap the votes of those who want to remain in the Democratic party and who yet believe in the Willkie Republican principles.

This development of campaign strategy today, one of the most important moves yet to come from Willkie headquarters, indicates the growing hope of the Republican nominee that he can break the solid south and carry the border states.

The southern campaign will be set up under the management of the group of Democrats and independents headed by Lewis W. Douglas, former director of the federal budget, and John W. Hanes, former undersecretary of the treasury.

Has His Eyes on Texas.

In just what states the third party will be set up is undetermined. It depends on state election laws, whether votes for a group of electors that would be named by the Willkie independents could become cumulative and be counted with the votes that the same electors would receive as Republicans in the states where the third party is set up.

Willkie seems to have his first attention in this direction centered on Texas and he is almost certain to invade that state soon, possibly before his acceptance speech on Aug. 17. It depends on how soon the independent Democratic organization can be set up in this and other southern states. Herbert Hoover in 1928 carried not only Texas but Virginia, Florida, and North Carolina. Willkie also plans a fight against the Ed Crump machine in Tennessee.

Pledges Aggressive Drive.

"All I can say now," he asserted today, "is that I plan to make an earnest, aggressive campaign in the south, particularly in certain portions of the south, a campaign which would permit Democrats to vote for me and yet remain in their party."

The Douglas-Hanes group will in general work independently of the Willkie for President clubs and of the Republican national committee. It will organize the conservative Democrats and the independents who want to support Willkie.

A precedent for the third party move in the south is that of the American Labor party in New York in 1936. It aided the Democratic party by adopting the Democratic electors.

South Carolina Group Bolts.

At Charleston, S. C., today a group of independent Democratis and candidates of the Republican party brought suit in federal court to force a secret ballot in the state's general election. The bill of complaint asserted "this is not a partisan action. . . ."

Under South Carolina law voters are not permitted to split their tickets, being required to ask either for a Democratic or Republican ballot and vote it straight. The parties provide the ballots. This system, opponents contend, deprives them of ballot secrecy.

B. Allston Moore, Charleston attorney, issued a call for a meeting next week to form a "Jeffersonian Democratic party" to support Willkie in the state. He said the group would put its own Presidential electors in the November election.

More Democrats Enlist.

"The leaves are falling rapidly," said Willkie today as he gave out the names of prominent Democrats and former New Deal supporters who have sent him pledges of support.

The most prominent of these latest Democrats to enlist in the Willkie cause is T. Jefferson Coolidge of Boston, former undersecretary of the treasury, who was appointed by President Roosevelt and who was commended by the President.

"I give you my wholehearted support in your campaign," Coolidge said in a telegram. "An end must be made of centralized power, personal rule, and uncontrolable spending."

Other messages were received from Dr. Ernest Martin Hopkins, president of Dartmouth college; Dean George H. Whipple of the University of Rochester medical school, Nobel prize winner, and Dr. George H. Minot of Harvard medical school, another Nobel prize man.

"It is a pleasure to realize that we have a candidate whose honor, integrity and courage have always been unquestioned." Minot wired. "I feel confident that we can safely entrust the social and political welfare of the American people to your care and that the great problems that confront us as a nation will be met by you with wisdom and vigor."

Willkie said he was greatly pleased to have this type of citizens coming out publicly for him.

"I am glad that I am in this kind of company rather than that of the Hagues and the Kelly-Nashes," he said.

Following conferences yesterday with Congressman Charles Halleck, Homer Capehart, chairman of the notification day arrangements committee, and Arch N. Bobbitt and James W. Carr of the committee, Willkie today announced details of his notification day ceremony.

His address of acceptance will be given Aug. 17 at 3 p. m. [4 p. m. Chicago daylight time] at Elwood, Ind., his home town. He will arrive in Rushville, Ind., on Aug. 16, the evening before the ceremony, and will stay with his mother-in-law, Mrs. Phil Wilk. The next day he will go to Elwood, probably on a special train. The first ceremony will be at 2 p. m. on the steps of his old high school, where he will greet former classmates, teachers, and neighbors. Then he will go half a mile away to Callaway park, a small shaded area, where the main speech will be given.

Dr. Bryan to Officiate.

The Culver Military academy Black Horse troop will be his official escort, and the Indiana university band will be the official band. The invocation will be given by Dr. William Lowe Bryan, president emeritus of Indiana university, who was president when Willkie was a student there. The formal address notifying Willkie of his nomination probably will be given by Congressman Joseph W. Martin Jr., chairman of the Republican national committee.

Willkie had luncheon today with J. Russel Sprague, Republican national committeeman from New York and campaign manager for Thomas E. Dewey. They discussed details of the New York organization and campaign. Later Willkie announced Dewey would make an active campaign for him.

Other visitors were Joseph D. Ferguson, Oklahoma delegate to the Republican convention in Philadelphia, and Tom Blaine, Oklahoma state chairman. Former State Senator Roland Kannenberg of Wisconsin, a Progressive, also talked with Willkie.

Voices His Confidence.

"I am for the Republican nominee for President and I am sure that many other La Follette Progressives feel as I do," Kannenberg said after the meeting. "I am convinced that Willkie is a real American, one in whom we can safely put the affairs of our government. I am confident that he will keep America at peace and has a definite plan of aiding agriculture."

Bishop Noah W. Williams of the African Methodist Episcopal church, whose headquarters is in St. Louis, called on Willkie in company with local associates in the church.

"I think that the salvation of the American people depends largely upon the election of Mr. Willkie," said the bishop. "This question of dole is not the best for any people in America. What we want is self-respect and jobs." He will urge the election of Willkie at church conferences in his wide district.

COURT DISMISSES A DEMOCRAT WHO CHOPS UP HOME

Charles Foss, who became enraged while listening to President Roosevelt's radio speech on the night of July 18, was arraigned yesterday before Judge George B. Weiss in Wabash avenue court. Foss was so angry that night that he chopped off some of the porch on the building at 5507 Cottage Grove avenue where he lives and also demolished an 8 year old tree in the yard.

The tenants who signed disorderly conduct complaints against him assumed he was Republican. But yesterday Foss wore a large Roosevelt button.

"I voted for Roosevelt in 1932 and 19.6," Foss told Judge Weiss, "and unless you put me in jail, I'm going to vote for him again. I was angry that night because some people in my neighborhood were on relief and I didn't think they deserved it."

None of the complainants was in court so Judge Weiss, a Democrat, dismissed the charges for want of prosecution.

DOUGLAS URGES A DECENTRALIZED WARD PROGRAM

Decentralization of Chicago's governmental units was urged yesterday by Ald. Paul H. Douglas [5th] in a speech at the University of Chicago.

He proposed setting up 20 or 25 wards in the city, each of which would have its own police and fire station, street cleaning department, and inspection and licensing services. Douglas said excessive centralization of city and county functions in the loop removes the government from the people.

He said that under such a decentralized program police courts could be held in the wards. Each ward would have an alderman who also would be a deputy mayor. These and perhaps a dozen aldermen at large would constitute the city court or the general policy-making body for the city.

Douglas also said the city should expand as soon as possible to take in Cook county and to absorb the county government and the sanitary district.

STORM WASHES OUT TRACKS ON TWO RAILROADS

Wauzeka, Wis., July 26 [Special].—Torrential rains which washed out tracks on two railroads ended Prairie du Chien's heat wave today. Tracks on the Milwaukee road were washed out one mile west of Wauzeka. No. 18, fast passenger train, was tipped at 30 degrees angle. All trains are being rerouted thru Savanna.

On the Burlington road 100 feet of double track was washed out near Bagley. Trains are running about eight hours late. The storm blew out all of the 180 street lights in Prairie du Chien early today. More than 10 inches of rain fell in the last 24 hours.

DR. FRANK IN U. S. SENATE RACE—IF ENOUGH SIGN UP

Gov. Heil Files Papers for Renomination.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Madison, Wis., July 26.—Dr. Glenn Frank, former president of the University of Wisconsin and chairman of the Republican national program committee, tentatively extended his hat into the ring for the G. O. P. nomination for the United States senate today.

A more confident move was made by Gov. Julius P. Heil, who signified his quest for another term as governor by filing nomination papers with the secretary of state.

Dr. Frank announced from his home here that he will make a belated entry into the September primary if supporters who have urged him to be a candidate for the senate get the required signatures on his nominating papers by next Tuesday night's filing deadline.

Frank Explains Position.

"I have consistently resisted every suggestion that I actively and personally enter the political field of Wisconsin," he said. "I should now prefer to make whatever contribution I can to the life of the state as a private citizen rather than thru any political office.

"However, so many men and women thruout Wisconsin and from all parties have in the last few days insisted that I enter the primary for the Republican nomination for United States senator, that I have today told them that if, in the next few days remaining, they secure the necessary qualifying signatures for filing I shall enter the primary."

A nominating petition for senator requires signatures of 1 per cent of the voters in the last election for governor, which this year means it must bear 5,437 names. They must be obtained from not fewer than six counties.

Little Difficulty Expected.

It is expected that Dr. Frank's supporters will have little difficulty getting the required signatures even in the short time remaining, for the entire state has been so blanketed by petitions that protests have been made to Gov. Heil.

Heil's petition carried more than the 14,000 signatures required for his office and came from all of the state's 71 counties. The governor, who headed the Republican ticket that swept the LaFollette Progressive party out of power in Wisconsin two years ago, plans to do little campaigning for another two months since he apparently will not have any opposition in the primary.

Downstate Counties Plan Caravan to Hear Willkie

Duquoin, Ill., July 26 [Special].—At a meeting last night of Republican leaders from Perry, Jackson, Franklin, Williamson, Union, Pulaski, Alexander, and Randolph counties, comprising the 25th Illinois congressional district, plans were made to send a motor caravan of at least 80 automobiles, to Elwood, Ind., Aug. 17 to hear Wendell L. Willkie's speech accepting the Republican presidential nomination.

2 MORE SCHOOLS BEGIN TRAINING DEFENSE LABOR

Expansion of the Chicago end of the 15 million dollar national defense industrial training program was announced at yesterday's board of education meeting by William H. Johnson, superintendent of schools.

Johnson announced the opening of Harrison and Schurz high schools to WPA workers taking vocational courses. Classes were begun July 1 in the Lane, Crane and Tilden technical high schools for both employed and unemployed workers. The total enrollment is 4,000. The board authorized the employment of 15 new teachers, bringing the staff to 168.

Plans for ridding McPherson school, 4728 North Wolcott avenue, of termites were approved. The job, including repairs, will cost $10,000. Architect John C. Christensen said ceilings, wainscoting, and woodwork would have to be replaced in many parts of the building.

INSURANCE MEN SING OF A NEW POLICY: WILLKIE

Bloomington, Ind., July 26 [Special].—New words to the old song, "Back Home Again in Indiana," boosting the candidacy of Hoosier-born Wendell L. Willkie for the Presidency of the United States, were sung tonight by officers from 57 life insurance companies at the closing session of the Life Officers' seminar, held at Indiana university, Willkie's alma mater.

Orvan I. Cohee, treasurer of the Peoples Life Insurance company of Frankfort, Ind., composed the Willkie lyric.

"It goes like this:

There is a man from Indiana,
And I think that I can see:
His star is shining bright;
He'll guide us right,
To a sane e-con-o-mee . . .

The man I mean is Wendell Willkie,
Who has dared to say "I can!"
When I dream about the nightmare

Then I long for my Indiana man!

VICTIM OF BLAST AT MUSEUM ASKS $25,000 DAMAGES

A suit asking $25,000 damages was filed in Superior court yesterday by James Cherven, 21 years old, 1236 West Fred street, Whiting, who was one of two visitors injured on April 17, 1939, when a cylinder of oxygen exploded in the Museum of Science and Industry in Jackson park. The blast killed a museum employé. Cherven named as defendants the museum and the National Cylinder Gas company, 205 West Wacker drive. This concern, he said, supplied the oxygen tank for a metalizing and welding exhibit. Cherven said he suffered a disfigured nose and partial loss of hearing as a result of the explosion.

PRESIDENT MAPS DEFENSE TOURS AS HIS CAMPAIGN

Wallace Says He'll Resign or Take a Leave.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 26.—President Roosevelt cleared away his political decks today in preparation for the political battle that he hopes will give him a third term in the White House.

He indicated his 1940 campaign will consist of a series of defense tours, similar to the drouth inspection trips he made in 1936, which enabled him to go before the country and still abide technically by his assertion that his campaigning was nonpolitical.

At the same time the President moved to end a political controversy in his official family by indirectly calling on Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, his Vice Presidential running mate, to get out of the cabinet for the campaign. Wallace promptly issued a statement announcing his plan to resign or take a leave of absence without pay as soon as he begins active campaigning the latter part of August.

Chesapeake Bay First.

Mr. Roosevelt pointed the way of his own campaign with the announcement that he will inspect the defenses of Chesapeake bay with his highest naval advisers on Monday.

This tour is to include the Norfolk navy yard, the Norfolk fleet base and training station, fortifications at Point Comfort, Va., the air base at Langley Field, Va., and the Newport News Shipbuilding company. It is expected to be the first of the many defense tours that will carry the President to many sections of the country.

He will be accompanied on the trip by Senator David I. Walsh [D., Mass.], chairman of the senate naval affairs committee, and Representative Carl Vinson [D., Ga.], chairman of the house naval affairs committee, as well as ranking naval officers and others.

Mr. Roosevelt will leave on the Presidential yacht Potomac tomorrow. He will return to the White House Tuesday.

Cites Action in 1920.

At his press conference this morning, Mr. Roosevelt cited his own conduct in campaigning for the Vice Presidency in 1920 as the running mate of James M. Cox. At the time of his nomination for the Vice Presidency Mr. Roosevelt was assistant secretary of the navy.

When he was nominated for the Vice Presidency, Mr. Roosevelt said he came to Washington to see President Wilson, who had made a study of historical precedents regarding the propriety of a high official remaining in the government during a campaign, and asked, "When do you want my resignation as assistant secretary of the navy?"

Wilson replied that the average of precedents indicated that the right thing to do would be to resign when, but not until, he actually started his campaign, Mr. Roosevelt said. He added that he had no idea when Wallace would launch his campaign.

Denies AAA Charges.

In a formal statement announcing his resignation plans Wallace issued a heated denial of charges that the vast AAA setup would be used as a political machine. He insisted that no political pressure would be brought on farmers.

"Charges that the farm programs and those who work in them will be—or can be—used as a sort of political machine in the coming election reveal an amazing ignorance of the manner in which the programs are carried out," he declared.

The secretary explained that regulations governing AAA payments to farmers for the 1940 crop year were drafted months ago and "nothing the secretary of agriculture does now can affect the amount of these payments."

Nonpartisan, He Asserts.

He asserted that the government farm programs were administered by nonpartisan committees of farmers, adding that "these farmers would—and should—vigorously resist any attempt to use them or their programs for political purposes."

Mr. Roosevelt would not discuss the resignation of Postmaster General James A. Farley either as postmaster general or as chairman of the Democratic national committee. He merely smiled when he was informed that Gov. Lloyd C. Stark of Missouri was being considered as a likely successor to the post office post.

Returning Home

Representative Charles A. Halleck of Rensselaer, Ind., who passed thru Chicago yesterday, declared that a Democratic revolt against a third term is sweeping the midwest. Halleck, who made the nominating speech for Wendell L. Willkie at the Republican national convention in Philadelphia, Pa., was en route home from a five day conference with Willkie and his party in Colorado Springs, Colo.

"An avalanche of telegrams is descending on Mr. Willkie from Democrats in all sections of the country pledging their support to his candidacy," said Halleck. "Most of these pledges point out that no honest Democrat who believes in the principles of the Democratic party as outlined by Thomas Jefferson can conscientiously support any candidate for a third term for the Presidency."

Halleck said many Democrats who might not openly join the antithird term revolt will vote the Republican ticket.

Halleck predicted that Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa, and Nebraska will be among large blocks of states that will go overwhelmingly for Willkie.

G. O. P. VETERANS OPEN OFFICES FOR CAMPAIGN

Republican war veterans' groups have opened headquarters in the La Salle hotel. William M. Devine, who is in charge of veterans' activities, yesterday named Fred Emich of River Forest director of Cook county activities. Thomas A. Patrick of Chicago has been made executive secretary of the veterans' campaign committee.

Mrs. Helen M. Sewell of Chicago will direct the work among the women's groups in Cook county and Mrs. Pauline Rinaker of Carlinville, Macoupin county, will be in charge downstate.

"We already have received the names of 10,200 volunteers for the fall campaign for Willkie, Brooks, and Green," said Devine.

EXPOSITION HAS DAY DEVOTED TO LIBERIA REPUBLIC

Lester A. Walton, United States minister to Liberia, asserted last night that while the African republic has been hard hit economically by the war, he is convinced it will maintain its territorial and political integrity. Liberia, he observed, has observed strict neutrality.

Walton spoke at the Liberia Day ceremonies at the American Negro exposition in the Coliseum. July 26 is to Liberia what July 4 is to the United States.

The minister, discussing Liberia's immigration policy, said the country would welcome trained farmers, mechanics and men and women of business experience and capital. He warned that arrangements must be made in advance with the Liberian government. The arrival of a large number of prospective settlers at one time, he said, would tend to dislocate the republic's economic and social structure.

Washington, D. C., July 26 (AP).—President Roosevelt's nomination of Robert Porter Patterson as assistant secretary of war was approved by the senate military committee today.

BOSS CARPENTER KIDNAPED AND ROBBED OF $102

Chris Lomas, a carpenter superintendent, was kidnaped, robbed, and threatened yesterday by two gunmen who halted his car as he drove thru an alley between Superior street and Chicago avenue west of Fairbanks court.

Lomas told police the robbers got into his car, and made him sit between them. Then they drove for several blocks, he said, and warned him: "You've been pushing the laborers too hard and you'd better ease up on it."

The gunmen forced Lomas out of the automobile at Hubbard and Noble streets after taking his wallet containing $102. Lomas is employed by a contracting company which is building the Wesley Memorial hospital at 746 Fairbanks court. His home is at 4300 Ellis avenue.

BRITAIN'S HOPES OF 3,000 PLANES A MONTH DASHED

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 26.—William S. Knudsen, industrial production chief of the national defense advisory commission, today poured cold water on the glowing prospectus of American aircraft production as conjured by Henry Morgenthau Jr., secretary of treasury, and Lord Beaverbrook, the British aircraft procurement minister.

Lord Beaverbrook and Secretary Morgenthau have been talking about British plans to spend enormous sums for the expansion of American aircraft factories with a view of purchasing 3,000 American planes a month, beginning Jan. 1. And this stupendous purchasing program was not to interfere with the aircraft procurement plans of the American army and navy.

No Chance, He Says.

Mr. Knudsen declared at a press conference today that the British could not possibly hope to get that many planes a month by the first part of 1941. There is no chance, he said, for the combined American aircraft output, for the army and navy and the British government, to reach 3,000 planes a month.

The British government would have to finance the construction or expansion of 38 aircraft factories in order to get 3,000 planes a month from the United States and such a production level could not be reached before the middle of 1942, Mr. Knudsen said. Very few planes could be delivered by the new plants before the end of 1941, he added. He explained that it requires from 6 to 11 months to build an aircraft factory and much longer to begin production.

The General Motors president, who is on leave of absence as a dollar a year man, estimated that American military and naval aircraft production would reach 721 planes in August. This will include, he said, 396 planes for the United States, 236 for Great Britain, 84 for other foreign countries, and five unclassified. Knudsen said he did not have the figures for July, but it has been estimated that the production for this month will be under 600.

More After September.

The output for September, Mr. Knudsen said, will be below the August figure, because of a larger proportion of bombing planes, but after September the monthly production will show a sharp increase.

Knudsen said he was "not thinking about anybody but the United States" but had been asked to prepare a cost estimate for the proposed British program of purchasing 3,000 American planes a month. He said he would turn the estimate over to the British purchasing mission on Monday.

Thus far the British have ordered approximately 11,000 war planes in the United States, including contracts they took over from the French government, and about 2,800 have been delivered. With about 5,000 planes on hand, the American army and navy have about 30,000 planes on order, appropriated for or soon to be appropriated for. The pending 4 billion, 848 million dollar supplemental defense bill contains funds for 15,000 army and 4,000 navy planes.

Tools Chief Source of Delay.

Machine tools are the principal source of delay in expanding aircraft production, Mr. Knudsen said. Another difficulty he mentioned is the inability of aircraft manufacturers to write off funds invested for plant expansion within a reasonable time in their income tax returns.

Under existing law they cannot deduct more than 10 per cent a year for depreciation, altho the plants may be useless if government orders are stopped after two or three years. Mr. Knudsen said he would be able to assure the aircraft manufacturers at a conference next Tuesday that congress will remove this obstacle. The proposed excess profits tax legislation is expected to contain a provision permitting the amortization of capital investment for plant expansion over a four year period.

With more than 5 billion dollars already appropriated for the army and navy, a progress report submitted by Mr. Knudsen today disclosed that army contracts thru July 25 aggregated $315,288,152 and navy contracts aggregated $1,728,195,829.

Points to Tank Problems.

"There are problems and responsibilities in mechanical production which, naturally, are not thoroly comprehended by the general public," the report said. "What may seem to some unnecessary delay is almost always, in reality, a period of basic preparation necessary to sound achievement.

"For example, much has been said in the press and on the air about tanks and tank construction. I am sure, however, that few people realize that before actual production can start, months of effort must be expended upon design alone. Our tank designs are well advanced. Contracts have already been placed for the lighter types. The heavier tanks are being redesigned to take advantage of vital information gleaned from experience in the European war."

The report declared that 2,400 individual drawings are required in the complete design for a light tank and that the 115 mm. gun carriage requires 1,000 separate drawings.

The report estimated that by July 1, 1942, the aircraft industry will attain an annual production of 25,000 Complete planes, including armour,

Hollywood, Cal., July 26 [Special].—Stealing a march on their friends, Gloria Blondell, actress sister of Joan Blondell, early today eloped to Las Vegas, Nev., with Albert R. [Cub] Broccoli, prominent Hollywood figure.

The couple chartered a plane shortly before midnight and flew to the Nevada city. The Rev. E. Nagle of the Methodist church married them in the presence of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Schoenberg of Hollywood, who made the trip with the bridal pair. After a wedding breakfast in Las Vegas the party returned to Hollywood this morning.

The marriage is the first for both. Miss Blondell gave her age as 23 in the license application, and Broccoli 31.

BILL ASKS JAIL FOR PEACETIME DRAFT DODGERS

Fines of $10,000 Also Provided.

Washington, D. C., July 26 (AP).—The first peacetime conscription bill in American history was completed today by the senate military committee for consideration by the senate early next week.

Chairman Morris Sheppard [D., Tex.] said the committee would vote officially on the legislation Tuesday morning and predicted there would be no dissenting votes.

One of the final sections approved today by the committee would impose penalties of five years in prison and $10,000 in fines for "draft dodgers" or those convicted of aiding them.

Directorship Authorized.

The committee also authorized creation of the office of "director of selective service" to handle details of the vast proposal for registering all men between 18 and 63 years inclusive and training part of them. This official would get $10,000 a year.

The committee also agreed on language for a section designed to retain jobs for the thousands of conscripts drafted for military training; by making it an "unfair labor practice" for an employer engaged in interstate commerce to fail to reemploy a conscripted man who has completed his training.

Altho the National Labor Relations act was not specifically mentioned in the conscription bill, Senator Sheppard said the labor board machinery would be used in these cases.

National Guard Concessions.

National Guard spokesmen, fearful that the board training program might harm their organization, obtained inclusion of several amendments. One specifically states that the National Guard shall be maintained as part of the "first line of defense." Another recognizes six years of National Guard service as an exemption for peacetime military training or service.

Before the house military committee, Owen D. Young, the industrialist, coupled an endorsement of compulsory training with an admonition that race discrimination or "any tendency to select disproportionately from the unemployed" should be scrupulously avoided.

He testified as chairman of the American Youth commission.

92 MILLION LOAN MADE TO WRIGHT TO SPUR OUTPUT

Washington, D. C., July 26 (AP).—The Reconstruction Finance corporation today made loans aggregating $92,000,000 to Wright Aeronautical corporation to increase its capacity for manufacturing high speed radial airplane motors by 12,000 a year.

Jesse Jones, federal loan administrator, said the loans would enable Wright to build an entirely new plant for manufacturing and assembling the motors. It will be located in Hamilton county, Ohio. Work will be started as soon as the contracts can be negotiated with the war department.

The loans authorized today supersede an earlier commitment for $55,500,000.

Will Employ Over 12,000.

New York, July 26 (AP).—The Wright Aeronautical corporation tonight announced that it will employ between 12,000 and 15,000 persons at its new plant in Hamilton county, O., for which the Reconstruction Finance corporation today appropriated 92 million dollars. The single story factory will cover about 25 acres of floor space.

GUARD OFFICERS RUSH PLANS FOR MILITARY DRAFT

Military authorities here yesterday pushed their preparations for carrying out the provisions of the administration's conscription bill if and when it passes congress.

Meanwhile, election officials announced they are prepared to meet any demands for a one day registration of man power in Cook county. The Association of Commerce and leading industrial concerns announced an attitude of watchful waiting while the compulsory service measure is being considered in congress.

Guard Chiefs to Inspect Fort.

The most significant move among military authorities was an inspection flight to Fort Clarke, Texas, by Maj. Gen. Samuel T. Lawton, commander of the Illinois National Guard, and eight members of his staff.

Under the present plans the army and the National Guard will divide the training of the conscripts.

"The Illinois National Guard has not received any order for mobilization, but it looks as tho the guard mobilization law will pass," Gen. Lawton said. "In the army plan we would be assigned to Fort Clarke. Rather than wait until such a time as we are ordered to go this tour of inspection is being made."

Chief of Staff Makes Trip.

Accompanying Gen. Lawton were Col. Harry Hill, chief of staff, and four assistant chiefs of staff, Lieut. Col. Arthur Inglesh, Lieut. Col. George Hepple, Lieut. Col. Andrew McAnsh, and Lieut. Col. John A. Prosser; Lieut. Charles Barron, aide to Gen. Lawton; Col. Karl Hobart, division engineer, and Col. Richard Smykal, division quartermaster.

Adjt. Gen. L. V. Regan, who functions as an administrative officer of the guard on the staff of Gov. Horner, announced he will confer with the governor this week-end and may announce draft plans for the state early next week. Gen. Regan conferred with Gen. Lawton before the latter left for Texas.

County Clerk Studies Plans.

Referring to an earlier announcement by guard officials that the one day registration will be directed by county clerks, Michael J. Flynn, Cook county clerk, said he had talked with Gen. Regan yesterday and had been told that further information would be supplied next week.

Flynn and John Rusch, chief clerk of the election board, agreed that their staffs of judges and clerks can be organized on short notice to meet registration demands.

Guard officials said it is possible for Guard members to dodge the long term service, should it go into effect, by taking advantage of certain rules and resigning now before congress enacts the law. After the long term drill law is enacted they will have to go into service, officials said.

At present a guardsman may resign his enlistment if he can show that he is unable to attend drill regularly because of his work, or if he moves out of the region of his drill headquarters.

Industries Weigh Problem.

Several industrial concerns announced yesterday that committees already are studying the problem to be faced by men who are members of the guard and may be called to camp for one year, or by young men who may be called up under the proposed conscription act.

Leverett S. Lyon, chief executive officer of the Association of Commerce, said this problem already is on the agenda of a special association committee on national defense headed by Gen. Robert E. Wood.

Several industrial houses questioned said they were waiting until the proposed law is completed to decide how to care for their workers. Officials of Armour & Co. indicated that in case of conscription jobs will be held open for the duration of the encampment, as did officials of several other large companies. A committee of employés of the Commonwealth Edison company and four other utilities are studying plans to meet the situation.

REPORTS DUTCH REQUEST U. S. TO SET PEACE TALK

LONDON, July 26 (AP).—The German controled Dutch radio at Helversum announced today that a committee in the Netherlands had cabled President Roosevelt a request to arrange a discussion for "establishment of an honorable peace between Germany and England." Both the committee and the broadcast promptly were disavowed by Netherlanders in London.

The committee was described by the radio announcer as "the Netherlands committee for organization of an international peace conference at The Hague." It asked the President to do everything possible "in the name of humanity to prevent annihilation of either of these brother nations."

Netherland sources here said they had never heard of the committee and that it was in no way connected with the Dutch government.

CHINESE ENTER INTO NEW TRADE PACT WITH REDS

CHUNKING, China, July 27, Saturday (AP).—Conclusion of a new trade treaty with Russia—Nationalist China's only source of foreign war supplies since the closing of the trade route thru British Burma—was announced today.

The treaty calls for Russian purchase of 13,000 tons of China's oat crop, but it has not yet been disclosed what Russia promises to deliver in return. However, it is understood the new agreement comes within the bounds of last year's commercial accord providing for the exchange of Chinese raw materials for Russian war supplies.

Today's development strengthened belief in informed quarters that closure of the Indo-China and Burma supply routes under Japanese pressure will have the effect of driving Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek into the arms of Moscow.

Estonians Can't Sovietize Until the Soviet Says So

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, July 26.—The Estonian government today forbade "independent" nationalization of factories and business enterprises by their workers without official permission of the government or the communist party. Such "independent" nationalization, the government states, interferes with the orderly nationalization of all enterprises for which plans are being prepared.

ENGLAND CALLS ITS LOVE LETTERS BACK TO ARMS

They'll Be Changed Into Cartridge Wads.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 26.—The effect of the war on the economic and social life of the United Kingdom was disclosed today in the following news items:

1. An official announcement that even love letters can be utilized to aid the war effort.
2. The former honest and ancient profession of rag picking has become a crime.
3. A great improvement is evident in the knitting of the country.
4. Further prosecution of chatterbugs and other offenders for upsetting the public morale.

Into Cartridge Wads.

Herbert Morrison, minister of supply, who is starting a new "Save Waste campaign," said, "If there still are women and girls who treasure their bundles of love letters, old or new, the government wants them. We can turn them into cartridge wads. I ask the people to start now to save paper, bones, and scrap metal—to save today and every day."

Besides turning love letters into cartridge wads, Morrison said the government could "make meat bones into explosives, tin cans into tanks, and garden tools into guns." A door to door canvass for such supplies will be launched shortly.

For stealing refuse from a burough dump two men were sentenced to two weeks in jail at Paddington. The judge told the rag pickers, "What you have done amounts to directly working against your country."

Improvement in Knitting.

Victoria, the princess royal, is the authority for the statement that the knitting of the country had improved immensely since the start of the war. She herself is an expert knitter.

The curate of Emmanuel church at Wolverhampton was fined 11 pounds [about $44] for telling two women that Germany would "take Scotland and Ireland." He said he belonged to the "school of prophetic opinion" and that he foresaw the world divided into two divisions, the old Roman empire and a Slavonic state.

For picketing a labor exchange at Birmingham, a member of the Pacifist Advisory bureau was fined $10. He said he had given conscientious objectors advice on how to avoid military service. For defeatist talk, George Warne, 63 year old hairdresser of Waterloo, was fined $12. He was charged with making the remark that "as for this country the damned Germans can come over any time they like."

DE GAULLE MAKES APPEAL AGAINST PETAIN SENTENCE

VICHY, France, July 26 (AP).—Gen. Charles de Gaulle, leader of Frenchmen continuing to fight against Germany, appealed today against the four year prison sentence recently pronounced against him in absentia. De Gaulle, now in London, was convicted of refusing to obey military orders and refusing to return to France.

The French government of Marshall Petain disavowed De Gaulle as soon as he established his French National committee to continue the war, discharged him from the army, and later pronounced the prison sentence.

Russia Masses Warships at Baku for Naval Parade

LONDON, July 26 (AP).—The Moscow radio said tonight that Russian warships in the Caspian sea had been concentrated in the oil port of Baku in preparation for "a naval parade" Monday. Large scale maneuvers have been completed, the radio added, by soviet naval forces on the Amur river in eastern Siberia.

TELLS HOW TRICK CAUGHT FRENCH CHIEFS IN AFRICA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 26.—How members of the French cabinet who sought to set up an opposition government of France were tricked and made prisoners at Marseilles was told to THE TRIBUNE today by Andrew Glarner, ex-chief of the Exchange Telegraph bureau in Paris.

He related that Edouard Daladier, Georges Mandel, Cesar Campinchi, Yvon Delbos, and other prominent deputies took the liner Massilia for Northern Africa, at Bordeaux. They intended to proceed later to London, if necessary. It is understood an effort was made to induce President Albert Lebrun to go along.

The vessel had on board, besides three members of the former cabinet of Paul Reynaud, numerous other former officials. When the steamer arrived at Casablanca, Morocco, three former cabinet members were arrested and were taken to Marseilles on the same boat, the ship captain having received sealed orders to take them back to France for trial.

REDS CALL ON LITHS TO GUARD AGAINST SABOTAGE BY ENEMIES

MOSCOW, July 26 (AP).—All workers in sovietized Lithuania have been asked by the communist party to work energetically against "enemies who are attempting sabotage," a Tass, official news agency, dispatch from Kaunas said today. "Enemies of the people openly and under various masks are carrying on their wrecking activities, sabotage, extermination, and damage of property of the country which henceforth belongs to the people," said the party's central committee.

Kin of Salvation Army Founder Put in Nazi Camp

Mary Booth, British Salvation Army worker and granddaughter of the founder of the organization, has been interned in a German concentration camp at Constanz, it was reported today. Col. Booth, who headed Salvation Army work in Belgium, had been listed as missing for several weeks.

BRITAIN BETTER PREPARED NOW FOR 'SUB' ATTACK

Ship Seizures Increase Merchant Fleet Size.

BY JOHN FISHER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 26.—Despite the reports of fierce German attacks on British merchant shipping as an introduction to the threatened "total war," the British are in a better position to face submarine warfare than they were at the beginning of the war last September or even during the world war.

In addition to her own shipbuilding program Great Britain has acquired considerable tonnage from the merchant fleets of Norway, the Netherlands, Denmark, and France—seized by or surrendered to the British when these countries were overwhelmed by Hitler's forces.

While the British admit this improvement in the size of their merchant fleet—a vital element in transporting troops, supplies, and keeping the life line to the outside world intact—they are cautious in speaking of this advantage.

Ships Doing Double Duty.

According to the British embassy here, each merchant vessel in the British service must now do about twice its former quota of work because Britain formerly depended to a great extent upon the merchant fleets of other nations to conduct trade relations with the farflung British empire. These included many ships of German, Italian, and other nationalities now under domination of the axis. Of course, the ships which have not been seized by the British are out of service as regards British trade.

The embassy points out, also, that longer hauls are now necessary, since the only sea routes unchanged by warfare have been those to the Americas. The Mediterranean, for instance, is virtually blocked off from merchant shipping.

But notwithstanding this cautious tone, the British government has stated proudly that British tonnage has increased rather than declined since the beginning of the war last Sept. 3.

Churchill Boasts of Gains.

The embassy and official government sources here have no actual figures on the number of vessels acquired by the British since the beginning of the war. But on July 14 Prime Minister Winston Churchill declared:

"Is it not remarkable after 10 months of unlimited U-boat and air attack upon our commerce that our food reserves are higher than they have ever been and that we have a substantially larger tonnage under our own flag, apart from great number of foreign ships in our control, than we had at the beginning of the war?"

Earlier, Sir Arthur Salter, parliamentary secretary to the ministry of shipping, had claimed that in seven months of the war the Nazis had destroyed less than 3 per cent of British merchant ships and that up until that time [April 19] more than 99 per cent of the lost tonnage had been replaced by new construction, capture, or purchase.

Builds 52 New Ships.

Between last Sept. 1 and June 1, 1940, the British built 52 oceangoing vessels of 2,000 gross tons and over. These vessels totaled 410,406 gross tons.

Between Sept. 3 and June 29 the British reported as lost or missing 270 merchant ships, or a total of 957,030 gross tons. This was by far the largest proportion of the total losses for all nations of 647 vessels, representing a gross tonnage of 2,260,379 during that period.

Other countries which suffered heavy losses were as follows: Germany, 68 vessels of 372,514 gross tons; France, 22 vessels of 83,555 gross tons; Norway, 66 vessels of 150,838 gross tons; Sweden, 56 vessels of 119,909 gross tons; Denmark, 34 vessels of 75,908 gross tons; Finland, 18 vessels of 38,685 gross tons; Greece, 29 vessels of 130,757 gross tons; Japan, 17 vessels of 93,752 gross tons, and the Netherlands, 35 vessels of 138,636 gross tons. Other losses were much smaller. None was reported for the United States.

Merchant Fleets Compared.

The latest Lloyd's register of shipping showed that the British empire had a higher gross tonnage than at the beginning or end of the world war. With subsequent acquisitions during the present war there undoubtedly was a substantial improvement in the British position over the relative standings shown in the following table for 1914, 1919 and 1939-1940 [including all registered vessels of 100 gross tons and over]:

Total Includes Lake Ships.

The above figures include vessels in operation on the Great Lakes by both the United States and Great Britain.

It is considered essential that the merchant marine be built in proportion to the navy, else the navy would be of little avail. There is always the possibility that Britain might take her ships out of service to America. The merchant fleet provides the mainstay of a nation's economic position. Also, it provides the capacity for transporting men and equipment when necessary for defense. The United States government has undertaken an experiment of using old destroyers as troop transports.

REYNAUD WARNED BRITAIN OF FATE, GERMANY CLAIMS

Nazis 'Find' His Plea for Assistance.

BERLIN, July 26 (AP).—The German radio said today Nazi troops had found at the French war ministry in Paris the draft of a June telephone conversation, in which Paul Reynaud, then French premier, told British Prime Minister Churchill:

"The fate of Britain as well as of France depends on the battle now in progress on the Somme and Oise."

The radio said the draft of the talk concerning the battle which the French lost "obviously was prepared by Reynaud."

It quoted the alleged Reynaud conversation further:

"It is absolutely necessary to employ forces of both countries [Britain and France] to their fullest. If the game now progressing is lost, efforts of the United Kingdom to rearm have no more sense.

Asks for 500 Planes.

"I do not understand why, under these circumstances, you retain the majority of your air force in Britain for protection of your industrial establishments.

"I request you most emphatically to send 500 fighter planes immediately to France for which airdromes are prepared.

"Furthermore, I ask you to send all your bombing planes into battle and to give up such undertakings as the royal air force has just carried out against the Ruhr district while French infantry, which is fighting without any support, urgently needs help, the help of British bombing planes."

Two Noteworthy Things.

The radio said "competent quarters" saw two things especially noteworthy in this alleged conversation:

"One, that Reynaud's statement contains an interesting verdict on the operations of the royal air force against the Ruhr district—it scattered its strength in ineffective undertakings when it was needed most urgently in France.

"Two, Reynaud states if the battle of France is lost the efforts of the United Kingdom to rearm have no more sense.'"

Sergt. Hager Made Acting County Police Lieutenant

Sergt. Fred Hager was sworn in yesterday as an acting lieutenant of the county highway police, in charge of the Morton Grove station. He succeeds Lieut. George F. LeGrue, who had been in command at the station for a year and a half. Chief Lester Laird said LeGrue had resigned to enter the trucking business. Hager has been with the county force three years.

PETAIN GETS NEW DEAL FOR FRANCE RUNNING QUICKLY

Under Way a Month After Armistice.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VICHY, France, July 26.—Marshal Henri Petain's government today began the fourth week of its life. Its general administrative organization—12 ministers and 20 general secretaries has been definitely whipped into shape with a well defined financial and economic reconstruction program in hand. It also has begun to fix the responsibilities of those who got the country into war.

The marshal and his assistants have labored under the difficulties of an improvised capital and with the country split in two parts and half of it occupied by the Germans.

New Policies Seen.

At this juncture, a month after the armistice signature, it is possible to discern certain policies and tendencies of the new government. They appear from the ministers' speeches in the press and in conversations.

First, there is a new orientation of policy to integrate France into the continental economy and politics without weakening her links with the colonial holdings.

Second, there is a noticeably increasing hostility toward England. Articles in the press and conversations with the French people attest to this. This anti-British reaction seems to grow as the public realizes the full significance of the British attacks on French naval units in Mers El-Kebir, Algeria, and Dakar, Egypt.

The strictly controled press openly attacks England.

Third, there is a noticeable tendency toward rapprochement with the German victor to make the best possible deal to regain the occupied regions and to make adjustments to the new economic system.

Study American Constitution.

Fourth, there is a determination to revise the constitutional system and elaborate a new one, which admittedly will take a long time. The French are giving much study to the American constitution, which fortifies the executive power and separates it from the legislative.

Fifth, there is a movement to curb Jewish power here. An important paper recently said that the solution of the Jewish problem was the first item on the reconstruction program. It is stated in high places that certain Jews have done much to harm France.

Sixth, there is a noticeable tendency to assume that England is not likely to emerge victorious or at least successful in the war with Germany, if and when the battle starts, for reservations are always made about the possibility of a "coup de theater" [an unexpected and striking event] at the last minute. Some opinion believes the Germans will win and the general conclusion of most press articles is that a German invasion cannot be successfully stemmed by the British.

Seventh, on the other hand all French opinion hopes for friendly relations with the United States.

Action Begun Against Mandel.

RABAT, Morocco, July 26 (AP).—A French military tribunal opened proceedings today at Meknes against Georges Mandel, minister of interior in the wartime Reynaud cabinet, on charges of plotting against security of the state.

Mandel is one of the former French leaders who came to Africa before the armistice was signed. He is in Meknes.

He has been mentioned frequently, along with former Premier Edouard Daladier and others, in demands for investigation of responsibility "for plunging France into the war" and for the direction of the disastrous campaign.

The present proceedings, however, were not linked in the government announcement with action which may be taken against the others.

Windsor May Have to Wait 2 Weeks for Bahamas Job

New York, July 26.—The duke of Windsor apparently will not assume his new post as governor of the Bahamas for at least two weeks. The incumbent, Sir Charles Cecil Farquharson Dundas, and Lady Dundas have booked passage from the Bahamas on the liner Arcadia, to arrive in New York in two weeks, it was learned today. British tradition is that a new governor does not go to his post until his predecessor has left.

ITALIAN PLANES BOMB GIBRALTAR 2D TIME IN DAY

Aim Bombs at Warships in Night Raid.

LA LINEA, Spain, July 27, Saturday (AP).—Gibraltar was heavily bombed again last night, for the second time in less than 24 hours, apparently in a renewed Italian effort to sink or drive out British warships at that stronghold.

A score of bombs fell on Europa point in the 16 minute raid, which began at 11:15 p. m.

There were no reports that any warships were hit, altho the raid hastened departure of civilians from the British fortress town.

Explosions of the bombs and the fire from the guns of the land batteries and warships literally rocked houses in nearby La Linea and Algeciras.

There were no further reports of casualties. There was a toll of four dead and 37 injured in the predawn air raid yesterday in addition to considerable damage to docks and barracks. Antiaircraft shell fragments struck houses here and some bombs also were reported to have fallen in nearby Caleta and in the town of Gibraltar.

First Raid Lasts Half Hour.

GIBRALTAR, July 26 (AP).—Besieged Gibraltar, assuming more and more a position of importance as the keystone of Britain's struggle for supremacy in the Mediterranean, today underwent its second major Italian aerial bombardment in as many days.

Long range Italian bombers subjected the towering rock to a 30 minute predawn attack, but made off southward after being picked out by searchlights and antiaircraft batteries. The British said no casualties resulted.

The royal navy, meanwhile, tightened its blockade around Fascist Spain and friendly Portugal as a result of German occupation of the French-Spanish frontier. It was said this occupation threatens the blockade of Germany and menaces Gibraltar.

Fear Land Attack.

Well do the admiralty and general staff realize that Spain, allied to the axis, might cause Gibraltar's fall by opening the way to a land attack from the north.

Military men hold firmly to the opinion that only a land offensive can capture Gibraltar.

Not since Spain besieged it in 1783 has Gibraltar been attacked from land. It is expected its defenders would be able to exact a heavy toll in any such move now, for its guns command stretches of rolling table land to the north and west, across which any attackers would have to move. [Recent reports from Spain said the British were digging a canal on the land side as an added precaution.]

Claim Gibraltar Panicky.

ROME, July 26 (AP).—The Italian air raid on Gibraltar today caused "indescribable panic" among troops and the small civilian population remaining at that British fortress rock, Stefani, Italian news agency, declared tonight.

Many soldiers were killed and many newly-arrived troops, "deaf to all orders, threw themselves into the sea," the agency reported, quoting refugees, who, it said, had reached Ceuta, Spanish Morocco.

The populace at Gibraltar "ran crazily thru the streets," Stefani asserted, while the aerial bombs set vast fires everywhere, especially in the vicinity of the arsenal.

Some ships were hit also, it said, but the amount of damage was not known.

Italians Bomb Egypt.

CAIRO, Egypt, July 26 (AP).—Italian planes bombed Mersa Matruh on the Egyptian coast six times today, causing four casualties, slight damage to a workshop and fire in a small oil dump, a night British communique reported.

Djibouti Siege Ends.

DJIBOUTI, French Somaliland, July 26 (AP).—The state of siege which has existed here since Italy's entry into the war ended today. A French committee has been formed to meet with an Italian committee at Diredawa to discuss armistice conditions. Gen. Germain, representing the French government, is expected to arrive tomorrow to take over civil and military authority.

Nazis Lack Food; French Sent to Unoccupied Zone

BERNE, Switzerland, July 27 [Saturday] (AP).—The German army of occupation in France, said to be hard pressed for food supplies in the conquered area, was reported today to have released hundreds of thousands of French prisoners and sent them to the unoccupied zone rather than assume the obligation of feeding them. Travelers reaching Switzerland said the Germans were herding the disarmed soldiers into the unoccupied area irrespective of whether they lived there or in the northern, occupied section.

Raid Gibraltar Twice

MEXICO CLOSES SCHOOLS AFTER STUDENT STRIKE

MEXICO CITY, July 26 (AP).—The department of public education, by authority of President Lazaro Cardenas, today ordered the closing of 55 rural schools where about 6,000 students have been on strike since June 20.

The department said it was unable to meet the strikers' demands because they would require an additional outlay of 1,200,000 pesos [$240,000].

The strikers asked the government to provide books, increase the daily food allowance from 60 centavos to 75, build dormitories and supply drinking water and electric lights.

PATRIOT GROUPS SPEED ANTI-WAR RALLY PROGRAM

Workers Are to Distribute 200,000 Notices.

Two hundred thousand announcements giving details of the antiwar demonstration to be held Aug. 4 in Soldiers' field were distributed last night to 300 representatives of patriotic organizations at a meeting in the La Salle hotel. The representatives will supervise city-wide distribution of the announcements beginning tomorrow morning in front of city and suburban churches, Protestant and Catholic.

The demonstration, which is growing daily in scope and in number of supporters, will begin at 2:30 p. m. a week from tomorrow, with a parade from the south to the north end of the field.

Lindbergh to Talk at 3:30 p. m.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh will speak at 3:30 p. m. The other principal speaker will be Senator Bennett Champ Clark [D., Mo.].

Last night's meeting was presided over by Avery Brundage, chairman of the Citizens' Keep America Out of War committee. Views of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, concurring wholeheartedly with the committee's aims, were expressed by Henry F. Marquard, past Illinois departmental commander.

Veterans' View Cited.

"As veterans," said Marquard, "we know war is fought in trenches, not to the tune of bands. We oppose sending our sons overseas to the front lines. Had a sound defense program been carried out in the last 10 years there would be no war hysteria or chance of whipping up war hysteria today."

Capt. William J. Grace, executive secretary of the committee, announced additional organizations which have accepted invitations to take part. These include the National Organization of War Mothers, the Congressional Forum, the Young Men for Peace [law graduates of Northwestern university], the American Rangers, and 100 units of the Townsend organizations, whose state director, Roy Webb, promised full cooperation.

JOHANNESBURG, Union of South Africa, July 26 (AP).—A series of bomb explosions today shook the Witwatersrand, famous Transvaal gold mining area.

ACCIDENT WHICH INJURED REYNAUD KILLED COUNTESS

GENEVA, Switzerland, July 26 (AP).—French friends of former Premier Paul Reynaud reported today that his companion of several years, 40 year old Countess Helene de Portes, was killed in the automobile accident at Montpelier, France, in which Reynaud was injured June 28.

She was described as one of the champions of French armistice with Germany after the swift German conquest of the Low Countries and northern France in May and June.

Friends who are living in Switzerland but who saw Reynaud at Vichy since the accident said he was en route to Marseilles to confer with "associates" and planned to return to Bordeaux afterward. Instead he was taken to a Marseilles hospital. The countess was driving the car, they said.

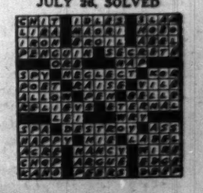
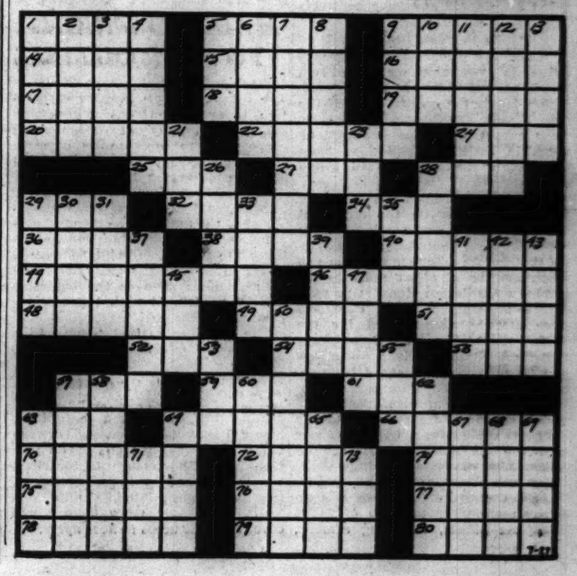
PUZZLE OF FRIDAY, JULY 26, SOLVED





FIND 200 AGENTS IN HAVANA PUSH CAUSE OF HITLER

'azis Further Plans as 21 Republics Meet.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, July 26.—As the foreign ministers of 21 American republics continued their struggle in secret sessions today toward framing a program of effective resistance to economic and political penetration of Germany, some 200 Nazi agents on the scene went placidly ahead with their plans to further the cause of Adolf Hitler in Latin America.

According to American officials assigned to keep watch on subversive activities, that many persons are working for the German legation here. Not all are Germans. Some are Cubans who have embraced the Nazi faith for political reasons or cold cash.

This little Nazi army is not visibly attempting to wreck the Pan-American conference. The most prominent German agents are taking obvious pains to avoid the domed capital where the consultations of foreign ministers are taking place.

Offers to Buy Drinks.

Dr. Manfred Zapp, manager of the Transocean [news service] agency of New York City, the main source of Nazi propaganda in the United States, sits about the lobby or cocktail room of the Nacional hotel where the most important delegations are staying. He is willing to converse or buy a drink for any one who wishes to sit down with him.

Dr. George Leisewitz, secretary of the German embassy in Chile, who is celebrated as the most skilled propaganist of the German government in South America, similarly avoids obvious attempts at interference with the proceedings.

Thus any one looking for furtive strangers who mutter Nazi threats to the delegates is doomed to disappointment. Undoubtedly, each of the Latin American delegations has its particular Nazi contact man who keeps in touch with developments and exercises his arts of persuasion against a course considered inimical to German aims. But it is all done very quietly. The melodramatic spy of yesteryear has vanished.

Drenched with Propaganda.

It is by more ingenious means that Latin Americans are being impressed with the glories of the Hitler régime. Each night, for example, Havana is drenched by radio with an hour of Nazi propaganda. The broadcaster is Juan Proias, a Cuban, who says frankly he is pro-German and claims to receive $300 a month from the German legation.

When Col. Fulgencio Batista, Cuba's "strong man," legalized the communist party to get their votes during his campaign for the presidency, Proias saw an opportunity to commercialize on the anticommunist sentiment. He registered the Cuban Nazi party and received a copyright on the name so it could not be used by anybody else. Then he started the broadcasts of "the Nazi hour." This title was but recently changed to "the Independent Liberal hour." The program, however, is unchanged. It pounds into Latin American ears for 60 minutes every night the accomplishments of totalitarianism and the weaknesses of the democratic system.

The Spanish language press is also used by the Germans to influence the Latin Americans. Here again the propaganda is skilful. Cartoons and humorous anecdotes are used to paint German virtues and the faults of German enemies.

Here's a Typical Joke.

A typical joke appearing in the Spanish press here tells of German, English, and French parachute jumpers on a plane waiting for orders to jump. The German receives his order, shouts "Heil, Hitler," and jumps. The British soldier gets his order and demands to know if parliament has ratified it. Informed that such is the case, he pushes the Frenchman overboard.

German agents are also capitalizing on the sentiment among wealthy Spanish families for the government of Generalissimo Francisco Franco in Spain. These Falangist [Fascist] groups are not only openly prototalitarian but also pro-German. Nazi agents are said to be working entirely thru the Falangist organization instead of trying to create a purely Nazi group.

One reason why the subversive activities of Nazi agents in this hemisphere are hard to check lies in the ease with which diplomatic passports may be obtained in many South American republics. Greasing the palm of some venal official with from $50 to $200 will get an agent one of the passports which enables him to travel thruout North and South America with all the immunities granted to diplomatic representatives.

Hull Advocates Speed.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull told the press late today that he hoped all resolutions would be whipped into shape by Monday and in readiness for the signatures of the foreign ministers on Tuesday. The United States delegation has made tentative plans to leave by boat Tuesday night. If this schedule should hold up, the conference would set a record for speed. Whether it will break any records for results remains to be seen.

Hull refused to discuss the delay tactics sponsored by the Argentines who are opposing any definite action at this time on the program for economic coöperation and for a collective trusteeship by the American republics over French and Dutch possessions in the western hemisphere.

[Another dispatch from Havana said a compromise which would maintain continental solidarity on the question of trusteeship over European possessions in the western hemisphere appeared nearer last night after a meeting of the conference's peace commission. The neutrality commission passed measures sponsored by both Argentina and the United States designed to check fifth column activities. The United States project provides that all governments shall be alert to subversive activities within their borders and while taking proper national steps to control seditious activities they shall warn and aid each other whenever the menace to democratic institutions threatens to spread.]

Predicts Agreement.

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, July 26 (AP).—Foreign Minister José Marfa Cantilo expressed belief tonight that pan-American nations at the Havana conference would reach agreement on the question of European possessions in the western hemisphere after "a little mutual compromise."

"The Argentine delegation took its own ideas to Havana, not with the intention of imposing them on others, but to support them with absolute sincerity and loyalty," he said in discussing Argentina's opposition to a proposed trusteeship over the possessions.

The Argentine delegation at Havana objected to any trusteeship proposal denying the right of free determination by the people involved in those territories.

Strikers Mark Time

The Prins Willem III., Dutch merchant ship, at anchor near Navy pier. Its crew has started a sit-down strike against order to sail, unarmed, into the war zone.

The crew of the Prins Willem III., Dutch merchant vessel, went amiably about the work of painting their ship yesterday as they awaited word from Washington immigration officials concerning their status.

As they tidied the 2,800 ton freighter, which lies at anchor off Navy pier, crew members stood firmly by their decision to do no more sailing in war zone waters unless the ship is armed.

Meanwhile Fred C. Schlotfeldt, director of immigration, waited to hear from Washington on which governmental department has jurisdiction in the matter. Immigration officials said they believed the crew might be tried on mutiny charges for failure to obey orders.

A. P. Vanderburch, consul for the Netherlands, held, however, there had been no mutiny. He said there had to be an active uprising in order for mutiny charges to be preferred.

BRITISH HAIL U. S. MOVE TO SEND REFUGEE BOATS

Hope of Taking Children to Safety Revived.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 26.—News that the foreign affairs committee of the United States house of representatives had approved a bill authorizing the use of American ships to evacuate refugee children from Britain was played up on the front pages of London newspapers tonight.

The information revived the hope of thousands of parents that their children would be removed from the war zone to safety altho the dangers of a trans-Atlantic trip under wartime conditions and without a strong naval convoy are manifest. These dangers were cited by the British government as the reason for its decision to halt the registration of evacuees to the United States and the dominions after 200,000 applications had been received.

383 Missing from Ship.

The hazards of transporting refugees were emphasized yesterday in the sinking of the French cargo steamer Meknes, which the British said was destroyed by a German torpedo boat. Official figures showed that 9 naval officers and 374 men are missing while 99 officers and 796 men, 2 women and a child were rescued. The British said the ship was sunk while engaged in repatriating the French sailors.

First Lord of the Admiralty A. V. Alexander told the house of commons today that the Meknes was illuminated and was flying the French flag. A newspaper launched a violent attack against the German "murderers," claiming the German government had given the ship a guarantee of safe passage and "knew full well the ship was loaded with French patriots who did not wish to fight on the side of England."

However, a statement issued by authoritative sources here explained that the report the German government had guaranteed the Meknes safe transit was incorrect. The statement said the French government at Vichy was notified "in general terms" of the British government's intention to repatriate French forces wishing to return to France and that it proposed to use French ships to carry out the operations.

The time of departure and route, it was admitted, were not specified, but the admiralty said it took all precautions to make the ship easily identifiable. The Meknes, according to the statement, flashed its nationality and destination to the attackers several times before it was torpedoed.

France Assails Britain.

VICHY, France, July 26 (AP).—The French government of Marshal Petain declared tonight that the British failed to give it any notice concerning the steamer Meknes, reported torpedoed in the English channel as it was carrying French seamen back to France.

The government said that in other cases official announcements had been made in advance of refugee ships' itinerary, course, and destination, but no word had been received about the Meknes.

Nazis Accuse Britain.

BERLIN, July 26.—Official German quarters today accused the British admiralty of having deliberately exposed the French troop transport Meknes to attack by failing to provide for due notification to Germany thru the French government that the ship was about to enter the war zone.

Attention was directed here to the fact that the Nazi government notified the French armistice delegation that seizure by the British of French merchantmen and further operation by the British admiralty of such ships under the French flag and with French crews placed them in the category of enemy vessels.

In the case of the Meknes, it was charged, it was the duty of the British admiralty to apprise the French government of the impending sailing of the French ship with returning French troops and await notification that it would be accorded safe conduct.

Averts Holdup; Shot

Miss Florence Scheibe, cashier who was carrying $600, and Joe Munch, who was driving her to bank.

Elmo Layne, 2026 Howe street, an unemployed grocery clerk, was shot in the right hand yesterday when he grappled with a bandit at Lincoln and Southport avenues. His action saved $600 carried by Miss Florence Scheibe, 22 years old, cashier at Joe Pedi's wholesale produce market at 2909 Lincoln avenue.

Layne and Joe Munch, 1721 Lawrence avenue, friends of Pedi, were driving Miss Scheibe to a bank. As they stopped behind a street car, a man leaped on the running board, pointed a revolver thru the automobile window, and demanded Miss Scheibe's purse. Layne seized the gun barrel and pushed the man to the street. The bandit fired and one shot passed thru the palm of Layne's hand.

As Munch pulled away, the gunman fired five more shots. All of them struck Munch's automobile. The bandit entered a car in which two other men were waiting and sped away.

MOVE IN CANADA TO REGISTER ALL CITIZENS' GUNS

U. S. Tourists' Hunting Is Not Under Ban.

OTTAWA, Ont., July 26 (AP).—Recommendations made to the Canadian house of commons by its special committee on the defense of Canada regulations provide for registration before Sept. 15 of all rifles and shotguns.

After that date any one in possession of an unregistered firearm would be liable to a fine of $50, 30 days in jail, or both.

Officers would be empowered to forbid possession of weapons by any individuals and could require them to deliver the weapons to authorities within 10 days.

Adoption of the measure would not affect American hunters bringing guns to Canada, as regulations already require the registration of such arms.

An order in council passed this week requires bona fide tourists and visitors from neutral and allied countries to receive authorization from Royal Canadian Mounted Police Commissioner Col. S. T. Wood to carry firearms.

Applications to the commissioner of customs or the R. C. M. P. commissioner at Ottawa must give a description, make and serial number of each gun as well as the name, address, occupation, purpose and duration of visit, and point of entry. The guns must be taken out of the country again.

33D DIVISION VETS DECLARE WAR ON 5TH COLUMNISTS

War on subversive groups and fifth columnists was declared last night by Joseph Jaworski, president of the 33d Division War Veterans' association, in the name of 22,500 veterans of the division.

Speaking at installation ceremonies in the Morrison hotel, Jaworski said the veterans stood ready to fight as they did in 1917 and 1918, if necessary, to rid the counry of "this pestilence."

"Members of the fifth column do not carry rifles, nor do you see them marching down the street," said Jaworski. "If you have reason to suspect that certain individuals are carrying on activities that tend to undermine our institutions, get in touch with the Federal Bureau of Investigation."

He cautioned members not to be too quick to accuse, and not to take matters into their own hands.

FINLAND PRAYS AS RUSSIA MAKES FRESH DEMANDS

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HELSINGFORS, Finland, July 26.—Finland's daily prayer is for peace, a spokesman of the Finnish foreign office said today as he denied a report spread abroad that Moscow had demanded that Finland demobilize her army. He said Finland saw no reason for alarm in the development of relations between Finland and the soviet union.

"It is true," he admitted, "that the soviet government is presenting fresh demands every day but they are chiefly concerned with the peace treaty and all questions are being regulated in a friendly spirit. The Russians have requested us to restore some property which had been evacuated and we have surrendered some things."

Aalands Are Demilitarized.

The demilitarization of the Aaland Islands and Finland's withdrawal of her garrison have been offered as proof that Finland desires to live in peace with her eastern neighbors. The trade treaties recently signed with both Russia and Germany provide for a large increase in trade with both countries.

Finland faces a great handicap today as her six political parties whose selfish political ambitions have delayed the government in its program of providing land for the 400,000 refugees from the Karelian section who abandoned their homes and possessions rather than remain under soviet rule.

After extended debate and political intrigue a project is now ready providing land for colonization.

Many thousands of new farms are being laid out and all the surveyors of the country have been assigned to complete this work as quickly as possible.

New Rail Rights Granted.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, July 26 (AP).—Finland has granted soviet Russia limited transit rights in southern Finland, the Stockholm newspaper Dagens Nyheter reported today. The Finnish-Russian peace treaty provided Russia commercial transit privileges only in northern Finland.

A Finnish legation spokesman here said only food and other supplies were being transported by the southern route. Troops are reaching Hango by boat from Tallinn, capital of newly sovietized Estonia, he said.

THE MYTH AND THE FACTS OF MASS PRODUCTION.

America is the home of mass production. We are reminded of this fact a little too often nowadays for our national safety. There is grave danger that in singing the praises of mass production this country will sing itself into a state of false security in its rearmament efforts.

There is no magic about mass production. We cannot rearm ourselves by pressing buttons. Because we are familiar with its products, we assume a false and usually unwarranted familiarity with the process itself. The actual processes, requirements, and limitations of mass production may be better understood if we go back to the world's first experience with it, some 140 years ago.

The world, crediting Eli Whitney with the invention of the cotton gin, has largely overlooked his greater contribution. He was the father of mass production. In 1798 he got a contract for the manufacture of 10,000 muskets for the United States government, to be delivered within two years.

The new republic had plenty of good gunsmiths. They made one gun at a time, by hand. By hand they cut and bored the barrel, fitted a stock, made each piece of the lock, filed them to fit. When they were finished they had fine weapons. There was no better gun in the world than the long rifle turned out by the Pennsylvania gunsmiths. But it took an expert craftsman weeks to make one.

When Whitney got his contract he did not start making muskets. He started making machinery to make muskets. He devised jigs, which are guides by which the same operation of a tool can be repeated an infinite number of times, producing parts that are identical. He devised semiautomatic machines for making barrels and stocks.

Two years elapsed and Whitney had turned out only a few hundred muskets. He had to ask for an extension of his contract. He showed government officials a pile of parts, barrels, stocks for his guns. Before their eyes he picked parts at random, assembled them into guns. There was no fitting or filing. Every part was the exact duplicate of every other part. One man could make barrels, another stocks, others the parts of the lock. Still other men, in Whitney's shop, assembled the parts.

That was mass production—each automatic machine specialized to perform a single operation more quickly and accurately than it could be done by hand, every part interchangeable with every other part. Also—mark this well—Whitney spent two years making his machines and training his mechanics. Then he made the muskets in a few months.

Whitney's idea was born full blown. Henry Ford, with all his millions of dollars' worth of precision machinery, with all his gauges that measure in hundred-thousandths of an inch where Whitney measured in hundredths, with his tremendous power plant—Whitney used waterpower—is still following the Whitney pattern.

These are the requirements of that pattern:

There must be a demand for enough units of a single product to justify building the expensive machinery to make it. If a machinist wants a single bolt of a special size, he can turn it out from a bar of steel on a simple lathe and thread it with a die. This may take him half an hour. If he wants 100,000 identical bolts, he can buy an automatic machine that turns out a dozen a minute, needing only a boy to feed stock to it. But it will take other machinists months to build his automatic bolt cutting machine. It will cost perhaps $2,000. If he got such a machine to make one bolt, he would have a $2,000 bolt.

Months, and sometimes years, are required to build the machinery necessary for mass production before a single unit is turned out. Tooling for a new product is a far different matter than retooling for a new model of the same product. For this relatively simple operation automobile plants shut down for four to six weeks every year, and spend millions of dollars. When they are all thru nine out of ten of the parts that go into their new model are the same that went into the one they made last year. To change a plant from the manufacture of automobiles to airplanes, in which none of the automobile parts could be used, would take months and perhaps years.

Once the design of the product has been fixed, and the orders for the machines and tools to make it have gone out, the design cannot be changed. To change the design would mean starting over again the whole process of tooling the plant, with waste of a large part of both the money and the time already spent. This is one reason why the airplane industry has no real mass production. Not only are its orders small, which means that it cannot use automatic machinery to the same extent that an automobile plant does, but on even these small orders the army and navy insist on almost countless design changes as they get delivery on planes, test them, and find faults or get ideas for improvements.

A fourth fundamental of the mass production system as it operates in American industry is that it is geared to the price system. The designers do not have the final word. They may bring forth a beautiful idea, but when the production men start to figure its cost and find that it is impracticable, either because it requires too expensive material, or because the machinery to do the job is not immediately available, or because the operations necessary require too much labor—then the beautiful idea goes out the window. This is not true of government orders. Instead of setting forth requirements and allowing production men to meet them in a practicable manner, the designers have the final word on every last thread of every last bolt. Naturally, the government pays for this, both in money and in delayed deliveries.

If mass production is to rearm America, three things must be done: Orders must be placed in large enough quantities to permit manufacturers to invest in the special machinery and train employés in the special skills needed. There must be no change in designs once they have been approved. And the production men, and not the designers, must be given the last word. If the army and navy keep insisting on perfection they will end up with no weapons at all, or at least an insufficient quantity of them.

THE IMPENDING BATTLE.

The intensity of the German air attack, particularly on British shipping, increases day by day, but has not as yet assumed the full form for which the island is ready, or, if not ready, is awaiting. The air ministry in London says that Nazi preparations have been set back by effective bombing of the concentrations, keeping the ground forces busy repairing and reorganizing.

If the Nazi confidence that a decisive attack can be delivered quickly is to be found well calculated, Hitler has sufficient time remaining before bad flying weather becomes an added defense for the British. If Mr. Churchill's view proves to be the correct one, Hitler hasn't many days to lose in making his final effort to end the war on his terms. He has August and September in which he can rely upon favorable conditions. After that he is taking chances which run against him. As autumn turns to winter his prospect for a decision in 1940 should be very slight.

Winter will favor Mr. Churchill's methods of warfare and be unfavorable to Hitler's. The German air force will not be able to blast Great Britain in winter weather as it can in the summer. All the time calculations against Germany have been wrong thus far. The French were not able to improve the nine months of inactivity to bring their military equipment up to the German standard, and Great Britain has not yet, as far as can be estimated, raised its airplane production to equal the German output. It is now to be seen whether the final calculation is correctly made in Berlin or made in London.

The British people know that every day brings the mass attack nearer. They know that nothing they have experienced to date gives any indication of what the power of the full assault will be like. It is expected that instead of hundreds there will be thousands of bombers and fighters taking off from the long encircling line of bases which the Germans have prepared from the coast of Norway to the coast of France.

The British defense looks for a blow at any one of several vital objectives. The German air power may first attack British sea power. The object may be to destroy the guardian fleet and by doing so gain the control of the sea for purposes of troop invasion. The attack may be designed to ruin the ports, the munition works, the air fields, the air force, and the supply depots.

The possibility that the civilian population might be the first object of attack is not excluded. The Germans might undertake to create such a mass terror that resistance would be impossible. Mr. Churchill says that cannot be done, that the people will take it and that London could be demolished without weakening the determination to die fighting.

The first great take-off might also be made against Ireland, which is admittedly the great problem in British defense. The resolve of the Free State to defend itself has been declared frequently, but the effectiveness of the defense preparations is in great doubt.

Every expectation is that the great battle in which the fate of Europe and much of the world may be decided is about to begin. If the German calculations are wrong, the struggle remains a doubtful one, with the first advantages gained by the British. Herr Hitler will have had his setback, and a failure will be registered against him. Continental Europe may then be clamped with the miseries of a barely endurable season. Wellington at Waterloo prayed for Bluecher or for night. England cannot hope for any Bluecher, but winter is around the corner.

THE OCTOBER DRAFT; THE NOVEMBER ELECTION.

Attorney General Jackson in a talk at Charlottesville in the Institute of Public Affairs series, said that the vital necessity of American defense was a government "bigger than any of the governed." Mr. Jackson is not talking out of turn. He is not spilling beans. The third termers of the New Deal apparently believe they have so frightened the American people that they are ready to accept a Hitler government to fight Hitler.

The war scares are for the third term. The third term is for the government bigger than any of the governed. Confidence is so strong in Washington that Mr. Roosevelt is willing to send all American men to their polling places in October to register for the draft, believing that they will return to their polling places in November and reelect him. The people are supposed to be stunned by the master manipulator and ready to submit to the unqualified rule of the indispensable man.

HISTORICAL NOTE.

Subject Third Term.
[New York Times.]

On Feb. 10, 1928, the senate of the United States adopted the following resolution:

That it is the sense of the senate that the precedent established by Washington and other Presidents of the United States in retiring from the Presidential office after their second term has become, by universal concurrence, a part of our republican system of government, and that any departure from this time-honored custom would be unwise, unpatriotic, and fraught with peril to our free institutions.

Among those who voted to approve this denunciation of the third term as "unwise, unpatriotic and fraught with peril to our free institutions" were Senator Alben W. Barkley, permanent chairman and second keynoter of the convention at Chicago; Senator Robert F. Wagner, chairman of the platform committee of the same convention; Senator Key Pittman, chairman of the foreign relations committee of the senate; Senator Pat Harrison, chairman of the finance committee of the senate; Senator Henry F. Ashurst, chairman of the judiciary committee of the senate, and the following other distinguished Democrats, all members of the present senate: Gerry, Glass, Hayden, King, McKellar, Neely, Sheppard, Smith, Thomas of Oklahoma, Tydings, and Wheeler.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U.S. Pat. Office

MR. PEPYS SEES IT THRU.

26th July—Did manage to live thru the great heat of the past se'nnight without too much suffering and grumbling, but I hope it never happens again, for such times dull the mind and waste the flesh, and cause one to stagger about his business as if he were in a dream. Seldom does this city have such long spells of tropic sun and furnace blasts from the south, and it seemed this one would never end; yet I did sleep well every night and kept a good appetite, especially when I could have cold Kennebec salmon with chilled cucumbers.

When I did see my fellows at the club drinking cups of iced rum, thinking to cool themselves off, I shuddered as if they were quaffing poison, and the bartender himself said to me, "I don't see how they can stand it." Yet when you are weakened by the heat and wobbly on your legs, a tall glass of iced coffee with a teaspoon of kirsch, which is a potent cherry brandy, mixed in it is not bad at all.

In the midst of the heated term I did meet Maitre Rebori, the architect, who tried to persuade me to join him in a pilgrimage to the shrine of Wendell Willkie a few weeks hence, saying there would be 250,000 people present, and one of the world's greatest sights. But I did answer that central Indiana and 250,000 people were my ideas of things to stay away from in midsummer; and besides, at that time I would be breathing the cool, thin air of the mountains in the far west. For only two weeks remain now between me and my vacation, and I think that Mr. Willkie is getting along well enough without me.

DIALOG OVER A KITTEN.

I watched the youngster loitering down the street,
Clasped tight within her arms a ball of fur;
She paused close to my gate. I heard her greet
The neighbor's child who crooned: "How sweet you purr."
"I have to find a home for him by night.
D'you think your mother'd let you keep my pet?"
She asked. "O, yes," the answer came, polite,
"She'd let me take him but—I have a cat.
Her name was Muffin, you'd have loved her, too;
She chased my ball into the street one day,
We didn't see the car till it tore thru . . .
And so you see, my Muffin's gone away.
I'll help you find a good home for your pet;
I'd take him but—somewhere I have a cat."

Warnings of the Eastland Disaster.

Let me speak a piece of my mind about the Eastland steamship disaster, now 25 years old.

I often saw her go down the river, listing badly to port. The newspapers often mentioned her tendency to tip over. I was aboard her when the main deck went two feet under water at the South Haven dock, and also on another occasion, when she was pulling out of South Haven and a fire hose had to be used to drive her passengers away from the side until she leveled off.

One summer I had a season pass on the Eastland, and used it frequently. I once stood by the federal inspector who was checking her passenger load, and I observed that he would click his counting instrument once for as many as four people.

So with all this in mind, I went to the federal building one afternoon and reported these conditions to the officers in charge of such matters—two chaps in fine blue uniforms. They offered me a checking instrument to use for counting the passengers myself! That's all the satisfaction I could get out of them. So I bowed myself out of their office with:

"Very well, gentlemen, if there is ever an Eastland disaster, you've had your warning. I have done my duty as a private citizen. May you now do yours."

HERE COMES THE BRIDE.

On this, our wedding day, I come to you
With all my little-girl dreams in my eyes—
With all the white-plumed knights I've read about
Blended together in your dear disguise.
And as I walk down that long aisle to you,
The words you spoke come tumbling back to me
And once again the charm of our romance
Unfolds its pageant in my memory.
Small words, of course, but O, so big to us—
Like, "B. J. K.? O, yes, I've read your stuff!
Some good—some bad—some sort of in-between,
But on the whole I guess it's good enough!
I write some, too—but mostly prosey things
You would not like, I fear"—and then—
"South Side? Why, yes—I've lived there all my life—
You, too, you say? One block away? But when?
Don't tell me! Not those selfsame years
And just one block away! This must be fate
That we should live so very close for years
And finally meet, albeit ten years late!"
And later on—"School here in town? Why, no,
I went to U. of I.—and you did, too?
Don't tell me that we passed on campus walks—
Bumped elbows at the Proms and never knew!"
But stranger still, my darling, when we found
That Journalism courses at N. U.
Had held us both enthralled for nights on end
With only two seats barring me from you,
And all this while we never met at all,
Tho many times our dual paths had crossed—
It took a dance—a friend—a moon—a waltz—
To say, "The jig is up—your hearts are lost!"
A few weeks more—your Greek badge in your hand,
You said, "You may not like this sort of thing,
But wear this emblem of my love until
The day when I can give a wedding ring!"
This is the day, my love; all words are said
Save those most wonderful of all—those two
That change a maid to matron with a kiss—
Those two soft-spoken, magic words—"I do!"

Speaking of "howlers" in journalism:

A cub reporter in St. Paul was assigned to cover a high school dramatic performance, and wrote: "The auditorium was filled with expectant mothers, eagerly awaiting the appearance of their offspring."

There is a lot of music in "soup" if we unscramble it to read "opus."

MOUNTAIN SICKNESS.

SOME of us may journey to lofty regions this season and—unless we have had previous experiences above the clouds—we may be surprised, even disconcerted, at our reactions. Mountain sickness is a very real thing. It is due to a number of factors, chiefly a thinner air—a lower oxygen tension. The body is far less able to use this vital substance as efficiently as at a lower level.

Most of us can travel safely and comfortably from an elevation of 1,000 feet to 6,000 or 7,000. On the other hand, those who possess weak physiques [particularly women] may be grossly afflicted as a result of such a sudden change [within a few hours, for example]. However, if we will reside at this altitude for a day or two we can so adapt ourselves that a natural existence can be carried out—perhaps with increased buoyancy. Let these same persons go up to 14,000 feet speedily and some will exhibit collapse. Furthermore, there is a striking difference in response—depending upon the amount of exertion.

Now, most people observe that on climbing to unaccustomed heights they breathe more rapidly. This is because during mountain activity the quantity of carbon dioxide produced is far greater than that thrown off during rest. In other words, one must inhale and exhale more frequently than he would while sitting in a chair at home. It is this accumulation of carbon dioxide that may bring on a struggle for air and sometimes—even tho plenty of oxygen is available—we can't seem to get rid of the waste gas generated by muscular effort.

A few years ago a group of four scientists kept accurate observations during an ascent of Pikes Peak. They made the trip to Colorado Springs with ease and—the day following—took the cog road to the top, prepared to spend several weeks. For an hour or so they were quite cheerful while unpacking their apparatus. Within a short while, however, blueness [cyanosis] appeared and none had an appetite. Furthermore, dispositions were transformed.

Three days later they summed up their sensations. The one least affected complained of a feeling of tightness across the forehead. Another was uncomfortable for but a day or two; while a third was miserable until the fourth day—when he returned to normal. The last member of the party suffered from intense headache, nausea, and insomnia. All noticed a marked interference with shaving. It was not easy to hold the breath the necessary length of time—with one cheek puffed out.

On the average, each was required to do 25 per cent more work during respiration than at sea level. This is as fatiguing as tho we should boost the rate from, say, 16 or 18 to 20 or 22 per minute. Any one who tries this for an hour will note how quickly he will tire. After the men had remained on the summit for about a week most of the manifestations disappeared, provided they were quiet. Any exercise, however, such as walking up a long slope, brought on a relapse, with an ashy-gray color of the skin, wobbly knees, extremely fast heart, nausea, and—in some instances—vomiting.

The lesson is clear. After reaching the desired altitude [if above 10,000] as little exertion as possible should be attempted—at least for a time. Invalids and those who are not in excellent physical condition should not indulge in active labor. But the body is capable of accommodating itself and—after a while—one may become accustomed to life in a rarefied atmosphere. In fact, some will be symptom-free on the tallest peaks of our Rockies. Fortunately, air line passengers are supplied with oxygen should the elevation demand its use.

DILATED VEINS.

Mrs. B. writes: Is there any connection between birthmarks and the red lines on the skin usually referred to as "broken veins?" My 7 year old daughter has a strawberry birthmark on her thigh and now she is developing these red marks on her face.

REPLY.

Yes, it is possible. There is a condition known as "telangiectasis" which means that the capillaries are weaker and sometimes they do not contain all of the normal coats. There is probably some congenital lack of resistance in the blood vessels, allowing them to dilate and hence become more prominent. A careful examination of the blood is advised to make certain that all of the essential elements are present. Missing substances may be supplied artificially.

NERVOUS HEART.

F. M. writes: Can one present such symptoms as pain in the chest and the upper arms, throbbing and palpitation, breathlessness, burning sensation in back, near the shoulders, and nausea—without some trouble with the heart?

REPLY.

Altho these symptoms are frequently associated with disease of the pumping organ or its vessels, they may occur in one who is unduly nervous, apprehensive, or fearful. They are grouped under the general heading "cardiac neuroses" and vanish with quiet, peace of mind, and a mild sedative.

THE CONSCRIPTION BILL.

Chicago, July 24. — I notice in The Tribune an editorial on the military weakness of the conscription bill, but it said nothing about the provision to stifle all expressions contrary to the "national interest." The "national interest" seems to be the theme of the bill, and I would guess that even that editorial in today's paper would be considered by the powers that be as contrary to the "national interest."

The peacetime conscription bill will make the United States a dictatorship equal to that of Germany. Copies of this vicious "slavery bill" can be obtained from any senator or congressman.

Galen F. Hoffman.

Chicago, July 24.—The old admonition was, "Order your affairs, for you know not when the Lord will call you." Now the order is, "Order your affairs, for you do know that your dictator will call you —and soon."

J. W. Hudson.

New York, July 23.—The Burke-Wadsworth conscription bill is a far worse type of regimentation than many dictators use because we pretend to be a democracy. We must not become communazi by resorting to methods against which we are fighting.

Dean Tuttle.

Chicago, July 24.—It seems to me the passage of the conscription bill will mean political ruin to every senator who votes for it.

THE MISSIONARY CAMP.

Chicago, July 22.—Replying to Mrs. E. Sandman's complaint of the action of persons at the summer camp conducted at Lake Zurich by the Chicago Missionary society: This organization has its headquarters in Chicago, but its field of service is much broader. It extends its service, so far as its ability permits, to residents of adjoining counties as well, and it has frequently been called upon to render service for relatives and friends of those who apply from adjoining counties.

Accordingly it is not thought improper to seek free will assistance in the way of a little milk, or butter, or a few eggs for the underprivileged in the society's summer camp, which happens to be in Lake county. The response to these solicitations has been generous and greatly appreciated.

Mrs. Sandman complains that the people do not have credentials. In this she is in error. Some one in charge is always in possession of credentials, which will be gladly produced upon request. It is true people sometimes sit in the car and wait for some one to come out. This is usually done merely to ascertain whether any one is at home and often to avoid a vicious dog.

HOW TO ADDRESS THE WINDSORS.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 23.—In your Sunday issue you have an article, "Rehearse Bows in Bahamas for the Windsors," and proceed to speculate on the terminology to be used in salutations to the new governor of this British colony and his wife.

Under British procedure the name, title, precedence and form of address are strictly prescribed by those in authority.

When the former King Edward VIII. was created the first duke of Windsor, he was also given permission to use the title of H. R. H.—his royal highness, the duke of Windsor. The warrant by which this title was created provides that the title of "royal highness" is not to be used by his wife, the duchess, nor by any children born of this marriage.

Therefore as governor of the Bahamas he could be correctly addressed as "your excellency." In other matters he could be addressed as "H. R. H., the duke of Windsor; your royal highness; sir."

Orally it would be just "your excellency" if he wishes to be as democratic as we sometimes think him to be. If he wants to be pompous he may insist on this salutation of "your royal highness." We shall see. His Baltimore wife is entitled to be addressed orally as "your grace." In writing the address would be H. G. [her grace], the duchess of Windsor.

The duke may prefer to be addressed orally as "sir," and she may prefer "madam." If they want to be swanky they will use the titles that all good Americans generally profess to despise. We shall see.

SQUAD CARS THE SOLUTION.

Chicago, July 20.—The Metropolitan Ambulance Operators Association of Chicago has suggested to the mayor and aldermen a method of giving ambulance service to the public. The best and quickest emergency service can be given by squad cars equipped with cots, on which the injured person could be moved to the nearest hospital from any given point in 10 minutes or less.

There are 39 police districts, all of which have one or more squad cars so equipped. The park police have 15 cars and all of these cars are constantly on the streets in their regular districts, in constant radio communication with a central headquarters [some with two way radios], and all accidents are of necessity police business. Only two things more are necessary: Train the men on squad car duty to properly handle the injured persons, and educate the general public to call the police in case of street accidents and not move injured persons in private autos.

This service can be put into immediate action, at no additional cost, and would bring the injured person to a hospital and adequate medical attention within the shortest possible time.

WASTIFUL.

Chicago, July 18.—An item in The Tribune states that the United States government had let contracts to the tune of $25,000,000 for blankets and overcoats for the United States army. To my estimation that is a useles waste of money. I was recently discharged from the CCC after having served two years as supply sergeant. Each enrollee is issued four blankets upon enrollment, which is needless. In the coldest weather in the farthest point north in the states I have never yet seen or heard of an enrollee using more than two blankets with his big five pound comforter. Here is an example: Average company strength is 200 men; four blankets per man equal 800 blankets; 200 average excess in warehouse equal 800; subtract two from each man and 150 from excess and you have 550 blankets; 1,500 camps in the country, 550 blankets from each company equal 82,500 blankets; cost of each blanket, $2.76; save $22,770,000; outfit about 40,000 soldiers.

Ex-Supply Sergeant.

ABOUT IMMATURE MINDS.

Chicago, July 22.—I note that since the nomination of the greatest President this country has had during its existence, with the exception, perhaps, of Abraham Lincoln, The Tribune's nervousness is increasing each day. You see that the Democratic party again renominated a great American and a great humanitarian. What chance will Mr. Willkie have against this great man?

This magnifying of the breach of a tradition of the third term is a strong argument with the people of immature mind or those who are entirely led by the creed of The Tribune and do not possess the capacity of independent thinking.

WHO WAS THE ONE EXCEPTION?

Utica, Ill., July 24.—It seems that the indispensable one [also known as F. D. Roosevelt] made a reference in his acceptance speech concerning which I have heard no press comment.

He stated in effect that he had called national notables to Washington to assist in the national defense task and they had all willingly volunteered, with one exception.

Now I wonder, did he mean Ford or Lindbergh? Or was it some one else? If it was either of these men, any one who is at all fair minded knows that the patriotism and willingness to help of both of these men is above reproach. Would that we had more men like Ford and Lindbergh. I have wondered why press commentators have not said something about this reference to "one exception" that Roosevelt made.

BOUNDARY LINES.

Peoria, Ill., July 17.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Our family has lived on the same property for [1] 35 years and the lot was surveyed 50 years ago, but not recorded. The block consists of 10 lots 80 feet wide and 160 feet long. We own corner lot, No. 1, facing east and north. We have been assessed for local improvements on 80 foot lot.

Last week the county surveyor was called to survey east half of block and according to his survey the half of the block has a frontage of 40 feet; gave [2] the owners of lot 2 and 3 163 feet 8 inches and owners of lot 4 and 5 163 feet 4 inches and lot No. 1, 81 feet 8 inches, and in so doing threw the old line off and placing the north sidewalk two feet on [3] my property.

4. The last survey will make it necessary for me to move a $500 garage on frostproof foundations. The people having survey made have lived here five years and as soon as the survey was completed [5] they put in a high wire fence thru my garden, pulling and throwing vegetables back on my lot.

6. The fence is 6 inches from my garage, making it impossible to paint garage on one side.

7. It is thought all the lines in the block are out of line.

8. Can they legally add one foot and eight inches to each lot?

F. L.

1. As a general rule, a fence maintained for over 20 years settles the location of the boundary.

2. It seems probable that he is relying on the above point. In other words, he has measured the distance between the fences.

3. Which lot is yours? A diagram would help.

4. This seems inconsistent with our assumption at 2. How long have you maintained the garage?

5. We see no justification for this, but obviously we do not have all the facts before us.

6. Are we to infer that what you mean at 4 is not that your garage is over the line but merely that you can't paint it? You should state your facts more clearly.

7. We do not understand what you mean by this.

8. He has no arbitrary right to relocate boundaries. His job is to measure and mark boundaries, according to law.

The matter is too complex to handle by correspondence. We advise you to employ an attorney.

TRIBUNE WRITER WATCHES BRITAIN TRAIN WAR PILOTS

Inspects Closely Guarded Field in England.

BY GUY MURCHIE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 26.—In the anticipated battle for Britain the war in the air no doubt will be a very vital, if not the decisive factor in the final outcome.

To get a first hand idea of how the British air force is going about its enormous program of expansion and preparation for the emergency, THE TRIBUNE correspondent inspected one of the innumerable training fields in the interior of the country. It was a large area with the low buildings guarded so carefully that village folk three miles away, when asked for directions, gave every appearance of never having heard its name or exact location.

Groomed by War Pilots.

Many men are there getting their "intermediate and advanced training" as pilots. Each month a certain number of them graduate and are assigned to operational stations where they receive final grooming in contact with pilots actually fighting the enemy. A similar number of new pilots at the same intervals enroll there for a four months' course, having just completed three months of elementary training with low powered Moth planes.

This school along with others gives British pilots the same sort of training that Randolph field at San Antonio, Tex.—America's "West Point of the air"—gives American army pilots. The principal differences are that the British training schools concentrate their training into a shorter time because of the emergency requirements of the war and that, instead of being located in one spot as in America, they are scattered in many places to decrease the possibility of the enemy being able to interfere with the training.

Many TRIBUNE readers will recall a story in the graphic section a few Sundays ago describing the Randolph field course of training in detail. Both the training methods and equipment used here are similar and much of it is of American origin, as for example, the famous Link trainer adapted from a thrill machine originally designed to satisfy air crazy youths in American fairs and amusement parks. Even some of the training planes used thruout Britain are American made Harvards and were shipped here by the same manufacturer as those used at Randolph field.

Much Classroom Work.

The first two months of each British pilot's course is in the so-called intermediate training squadron where the concentration is on actual flying and intensive classroom work on fundamentals of navigation, wireless operating, mechanics, photography, recognition of enemy aircraft, machine guns, bombs, bombsights, and flares.

The final two months' course in the advanced training squadron concentrates on learning to apply the above fundamentals to wartime flying and includes formation flying, reconnaissance, camera work, air gunnery, and bombing practice.

A large personnel lives at this school to share the training, providing for student pilots, servicing planes, and doing the important work of expanding, improving, and guarding the establishment. Even a few comely girls from the women's auxiliary air force are assigned to the school as drivers, clerical assistants, and cooks. They are much appreciated by the pilots and give a co-ed atmosphere—something new in England—as they walk before a background of barracks, gymnasium, and tennis courts in their neat blue uniforms.

Learn How to Drop Bombs.

Among the lessons learned in the advanced training period probably the most dramatic is how to drop bombs. This is a difficult and important part of the pilot's work and he is taught with the aid of two ingenious devices. The first is a special bombing tower which is equipped with a bombsight and a berth for the operator to lie down the same as in a big bombing plane. Also, there is a moving picture projector in the top tower synchronized with the controls manipulated by the pilot bomb operator.

As the latter lies on his stomach looking downward thru the bombsight at the floor 15 feet below he sees a moving landscape producing a sensation remarkably similar to an actual flight. As the pilot moves the controls resembling rubber pedals in the plane, the landscape below swerves just as it would appear from a turning plane. Finally, the pilot spots the assigned target, lines it up with the bombsight previously set for the given conditions of wind and altitude, and when the target comes to the correct position he "releases the bomb." The landscape continues to move straight ahead for the number of seconds required for the bombs to reach the ground, then stops, and a light flashes on the spot where the bomb would have hit.

After the pilot has acquired a high accuracy in the bombing tower, he graduates to the next bombing device known as the "camera obscura." This consists of a small building with a lens set in the roof in such a way as to project a portion of the sky directly above a chart on a table.

Clouds and Planes Appear.

Clouds and planes show up as clearly as in a moving picture. When a student pilot flies a plane above the "camera obscura" at a bombing altitude, the instructor observes the plane's image on the table. The pilot uses the "camera obscura" building as a target and when he sees it is in a correct position thru his bombsight he flashes a bright light to indicate the time of the bomb's release to the instructor. The latter quickly marks the exact position of the plane at the time of the flash with a pencil on a chart, then traces the course of the plane and calculates where the bombs would have struck, thus making a record to show the pilot the actual results he would have made if he had dropped real bombs.

Dive bombing practice is not given in this school and the pilot must wait until he is assigned to an operational squadron where he is given training with small smoke bombs. But machine gunning is an important part of the advanced training of this institution and is taught with a camera gun which snaps the target every time the trigger is pulled, showing on a grid exactly where the bullets would have hit in relation to the target.

Blind landing by means of directional finding radio beams is another important part of advanced training in this country, which is fog bound a large portion of the year. This is done largely by means of the Link trainer which gives a pilot the exact sensation of flying blind even to the noise of the motor and two-way radio communication with the ground station.

Harvard Planes Used.

Harvard training planes used thruout the British air force have been found to be excellent in preparing pilots to fly Spitfires and Hurricanes. They have the same landing speed of 85 miles per hour. The pilots must learn to use the wireless, machine gun, and camera along with piloting the plane, in other words, to become all around airmen.

The thoroness of their training is indicated by the fact that they are given practice in such things as taking night photographs by flare which can record the terrain as fully and clearly as in daylight photography, tho from a more limited altitude.

After a pilot graduates and goes to an operational squadron he is teamed up with specially trained gunners, wireless operators, and observers from other special schools to form flying crews for bombers and other types of planes, according to his assignment.

Demonstrate Theory

Eye appeal will make 'em stop when nothing else will. This is the conviction of the Illinois Road Builders' association. The necessity of persuading motorists stop at intersections was stressed yesterday by Taylor C. Soper, executive secretary of the organization. He said that accidents due to non-observance of warning signs are increasing despite the state highway department's action in replacing the ordinary two-foot signs with three-foot master plates.

So he has proposed eye appeal. At an adequate distance from the intersection he would place a replica of a pretty bathing suited brunette with the warning, "SLOW". At the intersection would stand the similitude of a blonde, marked "STOP". Mr. Soper is sure that motorists—the men, anyway—would obey these. To bolster his point yesterday he produced Miss Gayle Menk, of Evanston to model the brunette and Miss Shirley James of Evanston as the blonde.

HEAR RUMANIA AGREES TO YIELD MORE TERRITORY

Hitler Puts Last Touches on Danubian Plan.

BERLIN, July 26 (AP).—Adolf Hitler put finishing touches tonight on a Danubian reorganization plan deemed certain to involve further dismemberment of Rumania.

During the afternoon the Fuehrer conferred with Premier Ion Gigurtu and Foreign Minister Mihail Manoilescu of Rumania for two and a half hours in his mountain retreat above Berchtesgaden, Bavaria.

The Rumanians already had conferred at length with Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop at Salzburg and it was taken for granted they had agreed to make certain territorial concessions to Bulgaria and Hungary, since meetings with Hitler ordinarily take place only after an agreement has been reached.

In any event it seemed certain that Rumania would have to relinquish further territory—either now or at the conclusion of Europe's conflict.

Bulgars to Meet Ribbentrop.

No official announcement is expected, however, until the cycle of visits of southeastern European statesmen is completed.

Premier Count Paul Teleki and Foreign Minister Count Stephan of Hungary saw Ribbentrop at Munich July 10 and the Bulgarian and Slovakian premiers and foreign ministers will be dealt with tomorrow and Sunday.

Informed German sources intimated that Rumania, in the wake of its loss to Russia of Bessarabia and northern Bukovina, might prefer to cede now what it is ready to cede, rather than prolong the period of uncertainty. As long as the uncertainty lasts it is difficult for the Danubian peoples to settle down to peaceful work.

Strengthened by Turkish Pact.

Meanwhile, Germany's position as "advisor" to Rumania was strengthened by the conclusion of a far-reaching trade agreement with Turkey. Turkey hitherto was regarded as one sidedly neutral in England's favor.

The German radio broadcast a dispatch from Bucharest saying that the offices of the French-capitalized Colombia Oil company were searched today by police who found "a large number of fuses" to be used for "sabotage acts." Four French experts of the company were expelled today, including the director general of the concern.

A report circulated yesterday by DNB, official German news agency, that Germany had recognized an autonomist movement in French Brittany, was repudiated by foreign office sources today. They said it was of French origin and circulated without authorization by DNB.

To Free 250,000 Poles.

Some 250,000 Polish war prisoners will be released soon, it was disclosed, and given a chance to work in Germany or the German occupied portion of Poland.

Authorized sources accused some French papers of agitating for the release of German held French soldiers with the idea of organizing, within a year or so, a French military force capable of striking back at Germany.

Attention of diplomatic observers was drawn to an article appearing in the magazine Berlin-Rome-Tokio, which is published under auspices of the foreign office.

"Germany and Italy do not intend to establish principles of a new European order in the southeast by force or pressure; altho they doubtless would be able to do this," the article said. "They intend to leave the solution of territorial, ethnographic, sentimental and other questions to the parties concerned. Achievement of this aim requires frank adherence to the principles and faith of the new Europe."

Hungary Calls More Troops.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, July 26 (AP).—Hungary called more men to arms today while awaiting the outcome of the German-Rumanian conference at Salzburg.

Hear Hitler's Wishes

PARISIANS GIVE FRENCH TROOPS COOL GREETING

Soldiers Offer Serious Problem to City.

BY ALEX SMALL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, July 26.—French soldiers in faded khaki are beginning to appear in the streets of Paris amid the throngs of field gray German soldiers. They are demobilized men of France's beaten army returning to civilian life and their coming confronts the city authorities with an additional and serious problem.

Here and there Parisians sipping aperitifs on café terraces wave a friendly welcome to the defeated warriors as they tramp by in their ragged uniforms and dilapidated boots, but on the whole their reception is not enthusiastic.

Frenchmen have nourished a grudge against their army and are not altogether inclined to accept the many excuses made for its collapse. The soldiers look rather sheepish but they try their best to smile. They all carry the inevitable suitcases which they doggedly lugged with them from place to place on the last retreat to the Loire river and which they clung after they threw away their arms.

Eager to Talk.

They are all willing and eager to talk. The tales they have to tell help to throw some light on the causes of the disaster. They describe the waste that prevailed in the French army during the first three months of the war when herds of cattle and sheep were driven in front of the Maginot line in order to explode German mines. Thousands of requisitioned horses were left to die of thirst because the quartermaster, of course, had simply forgotten they existed. They affirm that huge quantities of army supplies—rice, coffee, and gasoline—were squandered, stolen, or sold to dealers who profited by reselling them to rationed city dwellers.

Most of the homecoming soldiers stressed the demoralizing effect of their "sad and empty life" during the long winter when there was practically neither fighting nor movement. It is clear from their accounts that their morale was already low when they were ordered to counter-attack the Germans in Flanders.

Criticism of Officers.

Many of the men criticized their officers. "They were always the first to run away," they declared. "Our cowardly officers were responsible for our defeat and the retreat in which we were constantly fleeing from one position to another without achieving even the slightest success."

What these former soldiers are going to do until they find work and what attitude they will take toward the new government when it really begins to operate are questions that are disturbing the people considerably. Already Paris newspapers are telling these disgruntled men that they have "accounts to settle with those who sent them into the war." They are urged to revenge themselves on the "munitions makers and profiteers who got rich by plunging them into misery."

Addressing the returning soldiers in an editorial, La France au Travail says, "We do not wish to see you come back with bowed heads and downcast eyes. We wish to see you return with hard eyes and clenched fists, as soldiers, not victims. You must help to put France's household in order."

3D 'L' RAIL BURNS THREE BROTHERS AGED 3, 8, AND 10

Three small boys, brothers, were severely burned last night when they came in contact with the third rail of the Chicago Rapid Transit company west of Kedzie avenue, near Leland avenue. They are Robert, 3 years old; Edward, 8, and Frank Wing, 10, the sons of Mrs. Hazel Wing, a widow, 632 South Hermitage avenue.

Frank told the police they had ridden out on the Ravenswood elevated line to visit friends, but had failed to find them. They were on their way home when they decided to climb a fence onto the transit lines' tracks which are one the ground level near Kedzie avenue.

Edward, who was carrying Robert, stumbled and fell on the third rail, and Frank was injured when he pulled them off. All were taken to the Swedish Covenant hospital.

SURVIVORS TELL HOW NAZI RAIDER SANK TWO SHIPS

Disguised as a Freighter; Hits in West Indies.

New York, July 26 (AP).—The rescuers of the crew of one of two British ships sunk by a German vessel in West Indies waters said today that the raider striking at British lifelines was a new and fast 10,000 ton vessel disguised as a harmless Swedish freighter.

Capt. Holm Brynilsen of the Norwegian freighter Leif quoted crew members of the British freighter Davisian, 6,433 tons, as saying that the raider came alongside unsuspecting cargo carriers with the help of the Swedish flag and then blasted them out of the water with disappearing 6 inch guns.

25 Picked Up at Sea.

The Leif picked up 25 crewmen from the Davisian July 20 after they had sailed, drifted, and rowed 640 miles in a week in a leaky lifeboat.

These British sailors said the ship carried 300 men and had a speed of 19 knots, which makes her far faster than the British freighters carrying food from the West Indies and South America to England.

They said the raider had the name Narvik painted on her prow when they met her July 10 at a point 240 miles northeast of the Virgin Islands in the vicinity of the neutrality zone drawn up by the 21 American nations. When the "Narvik" approached, they said, a swastika painted on canvas went over the raider's side and her guns fired at the Davisian.

Shot Fired at Raider.

The Davisian replied with her single 4 inch gun, but a blast from the raider wounded the gunner and four seamen and the Davisian was forced to surrender.

The Germans took the crew aboard, sank the British ship, and three days later sighted the 5,228 ton King John, which had 21 crew members from the torpedoed Panamanian ship Santa Margarita on board.

The King John surrendered after shells wrecked her lifeboats. Later 66 British seamen were placed in three leaky boats with hardtack and water.

Forty-one reached St. Barthelmy Island safely; the 25 rescued by the Leif were landed at Samana, Dominican Republic.

The 4,919-ton Santa Margarita had been torpedoed by a German U-boat off Spain on July 2. Reports on July 6 said three fishing boats with 18 Santa Margarita survivors had reached La Coruna, Spain.

RUMANIA SAYS BRITAIN SEIZES 3 OF HER SHIPS

BUCHAREST, Rumania, July 26 (AP).—The Rumanian ministry of marine reported tonight the seizure of three Rumanian ships by the British at Port Said.

The ministry listed the ships as the Bucegi, a freighter bound for Constanta, Rumania, with a cargo, and two oil tankers.

Diplomats said this incident was regarded as Britain's answer to confiscation of British oil properties in Rumania. Port Said is the Mediterranean entrance to the Suez canal.

ENGLAND MANS FRENCH SHIPS TO FIGHT GERMANS

The Nazi raiders struck again today, DNB, official news agency, placing the British losses at 34,000 tons. In an attack south of Brighton, the Germans said a speedboat flotilla had sunk three merchantmen displacing 10,000, 7,000, and 5,000 tons each. A fourth vessel of 2,000 tons was set afire. In addition to this, another 10,000 ton British ship was reported sunk, altho the place and how it was attacked were not told. All the speedboats returned to their bases, the Germans said.

The communique, reporting on yesterday's activities, said German bombers then either had sunk or set afire 63,000 tons of shipping. Eleven of 23 merchantmen sailing in convoy were claimed to have been sunk in the English channel.

The Germans claim to have shot down 19 British planes, while admitting the loss of nine of their own craft. Four other British planes were shot down by antiaircraft batteries and night pursuit ships "over north and western Germany."

GERMANS DELAY HAAKON OUSTER IN INTERIM RULE

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, July 26.—Reports from Norway today confirm that in the face of King Haakon's refusal to abdicate the Germans have been forced to abandon their plan for setting up a riksrad, or national council, to take his place as the interim government. The opposition of the Norwegian people to this plan is said to be so strong that the riksrad distintegrated. The present administrative council, which has the sanction of the Haakon-Nygaardsvold government, will continue to attend to administrative duties during the German occupation.

OPEN SHANGHAI'S FOREIGN ZONE TO JAPANESE ARMY

Fear New Incidents; U. S. Trading Curbed.

BULLETIN.

CHUNGKING, China, July 27, Saturday (AP).—Eight hundred persons were killed and 400 injured in the Japanese bombing of Hochuan, a city of 100,000, about 100 miles north of Chungking, on Tuesday, according to members of the medical unit of the American Methodist Mission hospital sent there after the attack. Eighty planes were said to have destroyed half the city.

SHANGHAI, China, July 27, Saturday (AP).—Japanese military authorities today declared the foreign areas of Shanghai "in bounds" to Japanese soldiers on leave, arousing foreign fears of a multiplication of the unpleasant incidents which have disturbed Japanese-American relations in recent weeks.

Simultaneously, it was reported from Tientsin that Japanese restrictions virtually have halted the activities of American traders in North China. This report coincided with United States action in licensing all its own oil and scrap iron exports.

[In Tokio the Presidential licensing order was regarded as intended to curb Japan as well as being aimed at Germany and Italy, and the Japanese ambassador in Washington was directed to investigate the new control.]

Japan's Action Held Legal.

The action of the Japanese in permitting their service men on liberty to have free range of the Shanghai foreign concessions was a radical one, but foreign quarters conceded the Japanese had a right to do so. Heretofore the foreign areas, with the exception of Japanese occupied Hongkew, have been out of bounds for the soldiers.

[There has been considerable difficulty over the action of the United States marines in seizing 14 Japanese plainclothes gendarmes who entered the International Settlement illegally on July 7. The Japanese, contending the gendarmes were treated brutally, demanded an apology. The incident still is unsettled.]

Two Incidents Settled.

American expressions of regret, however, settled two recent Japanese-American incidents at Tsingtao, one involving a café clash between U. S. sailors and Japanese policemen and the other an altercation on a beach between Japanese petty officers and another American sailor over a 16 year old Japanese girl.

The Central China Daily News, organ of Wang Ching-wei, head of the puppet Chinese régime set up by the Japanese at Nanking, said Mayor Fu Siao-en had asked the American consulate there to deport "without delay" six American newspaper men recently ordered banished by Wang. Pro-Wang newspapers said the six were "wicked visitors to China who are conspiring with the rebels in an attempt to overthrow the Nanking government."

In addition to the freezeout of American business in North China, the United States radio station in the British concession in Tientsin was ordered closed yesterday by the British, under Japanese pressure.

Review Anglo-Chinese Situation.

LONDON, July 26 (AP).—Prime Minister Winston Churchill and Dr. Quo Tai-chi, Chinese ambassador to London, have reviewed the far eastern situation "in a frank and friendly spirit," British sources reported today.

Britain recently agreed to close the Burma road against war supplies for the Central Chinese government, despite Chinese protests that this favored the Japanese campaign.

Report Town Occupied.

TOKIO, July 26, by Radio (AP).—Domei, Japanese news agency, reported today that Japanese control of the Kwangsi border in southern China with French Indo-China was further tightened yesterday by occupation of Shuikowchen.

LEAGUE'S DEATH KNELL IS SEEN AS HIGH AID RESIGNS

'Realities' Preclude Its Work, He Says.

GENEVA, Switzerland, July 26 (AP).—Joseph A. C. Avenol, Frenchman who has been secretary-general of the league of nations since July 1, 1933, announced his resignation today. He stated the "realities" of the present times made his office no longer necessary.

Joseph Avenol.

Thus Avenol signed what may well be the formal death sentence to the league as a political body—a death it has been dying steadily since 1932, when Japan invaded Manchuria.

Avenol submitted his resignation last night in a telegram to the governments of the league's member states.

Hopes Work Will Go On.

Stating that until September, 1936, when he visited Premier Benito Mussolini at Rome, he had believed "certain inevitable reforms would enable the league . . . to regroup the forces which were moving away from it," Avenol's wire declared the duties of his office now "no longer justify maintenance of political high direction, which no longer is consistent with the realities of the situation."

His telegram said:

"I am anxiously considering measures to assure the administration work of the league secretariat shall continue. I shall make proposals on this subject in due course. . . . The work of the technical section well could be adapted to the needs of the hour while involving substantial economies."

Delay Seen in U. S. Move.

Avenol's resignation is expected to postpone a decision on an invitation to the league's technical sections to move to Princeton, N. J., at least until after a meeting of the league supervisory committee in August.

Until then the league's work will continue unchanged.

Eight members of the economic and transit department of the league secretariat plan to leave Switzerland early in August for Princeton, it was reported tonight. Alexander Loveday will head the mission, which includes citizens of New Zealand, Ireland, the Netherlands, Belgium, and Estonia.

Avenol became secretary-general in 1933 and during his term of office saw Japan, Germany, Italy, and a number of smaller states quit the league. Recently league activity has dwindled to almost nothing.

Avenol was paid $20,500 a year, plus $14,000 for entertainment and upkeep of the official residence. He also had free use of the league mansion.

Hint France May Resign.

BERLIN, July 26 (AP)—By Radio].—A rumor that the resignation of Joseph Avenol as secretary-general of the league of nations will be followed by France's withdrawal from the league within a few days was reported by the German radio today in a dispatch from Geneva.

Financial experts of the league secretariat were said to have gone to the United States and the staff to have dwindled to 65 persons.

WEEK-END TO BE PLEASANT, SAYS WEATHER MAN

A pleasant week-end, with temperatures in the 70s today and tomorrow, is promised by the weather bureau.

Yesterday's high reading was 87 degrees at 1 p. m., a welcome relief after the 101 of Wednesday and Thursday even tho humidity was high. By 11 p. m. the temperature had dropped to 70 in downtown Chicago.

The windstorm that routed the seven day heat wave Thursday night brought Chicago little rain. Total precipitation officially was only .02 of an inch in the city, and Illinois farmers were fearful that extensive damage would be done to the corn crop unless there is rainfall soon. There were a few light local showers last night.

Every One Goes to Arlington This Afternoon

BY JUDITH CASS.

HOT or cold, rain or shine, Arlington Park will be the place of interest this afternoon to horse racing enthusiasts, to celebrity seekers, and to those who like to be in the thick of things. The reason, of course, is the Arlington Futurity, the second richest race of the season at the beautiful track north and west of the city.

The smart Post and Paddock club has an overflow of reservations for luncheon parties. The Jockey club enclosure will be packed as usual, and refreshment vendors in the giant grandstands are looking forward to a big and busy day.

Such noted race horse owners as Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, Mrs. Dodge Sloane, and Hal Price Headley will be represented in the Futurity. Mr. Vanderbilt will be at the track.

Another owner who has many friends here who will be cheering his entry is Cleaveland B. Putnam, Mrs. James Otis Hinkley's nephew. Mr. Putnam's Moja placed first in a race at Arlington on Thursday. His entry in the Futurity is Swain.

Mr. and Mrs. Putnam Will Be Interested Spectators.

Mr. Putnam and his wife, who have arrived from New York, naturally will be among the most interested spectators. They will relax at Ravinia park tonight, following a dinner Mrs. Hinkley will give for them at home in Lake Forest. Her other guests will be the newly married Balcolm Grannises and James R. Addington. Mrs. Hinkley is leaving for Pittsfield, Mass., next Wednesday, to be away for two weeks.

Mrs. Howard Linn is entertaining at luncheon at the Post and Paddock for Mrs. E. Graham Lewis of New York, whose horse Chicuelo also will start in the Futurity. Among other luncheon hosts and hostesses will be Charles H. Schweppe, Mrs. Oliver S. Picher, the Donald R. McLennans, the George E. Van Hagens, the John D. Allens, the Thomas E. Wilsons, and the Silas Strawns.

Opportunity to Invest Profits to Be Afforded.

Between races and figuring betting odds the guests at the Post and Paddock club will have the opportunity to admire—and to invest their profits—in pins, cigaret cases, and compacts that will be sold for the benefit of the British War Relief society. The sale is sponsored by the Lake Forest members of the organization known as the Bundles for Britain. Mrs. Thomas Sheffield, Mrs. Hugh M. Johnston, Mrs. T. Clifford Rodman, Mrs. Michael Cudahy, and Mrs. James Cook are the attractive and persuasive saleswomen who will be hard at work this afternoon.

Arlington Park will close today, following a summer in which Lake Foresters have been seen more often there than ever before. Among other out of town guests at the track today will be the James R. Wallers of Columbus, O., who will be spending the week-end with the Donald Easters in Lake Forest.

The Onwentsia to Offer Polo at Popular Prices.

Once upon a time in the grand old days of international polo at the Onwentsia club spectators paid fancy prices to watch American and Argentinian teams clash. Today young and old polo enthusiasts gather to watch local teams in competition at decidedly popular prices. The public is invited to come to the Onwentsia's green fields at 3:30 o'clock on Sunday afternoons. The admittance charge is 40 cents per person, whether one watches from one's car, parked around the field, or from the grandstand.

Playing for the Onwentsia tomorrow afternoon against the Woodland Polo club of Hinsdale will be Bill Carney, David Wilhelm, and Bill Fergus. Otis Carney was injured in a practice game earlier this week and will be out of competition for a month. His place on the team will be taken by S. Prentice Porter and Frank Bering, who will play a half each.

Mr. and Mrs. Morton Feary [Mary Senior] of New York are being congratulated on the birth of a son, their second child, on Wednesday. The baby, who has a little sister, is the grandson of the John L. Seniors of New York and Roxbury, Mass., formerly of Chicago.

The Potter Palmers celebrated their 32nd wedding anniversary yesterday at their summer home in Bar Harbor, Me. Mrs. Palmer's mother, Mrs. Herman Kohlsatt, and Miss

The former Miss Jane Barton and her bridegroom, Randall Barton, were snapped as they were leaving the Fourth Presbyterian church following their wedding at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Despite the identical surnames, the families of the bride and bridegroom are not related, altho the fathers are business associates. She is the daughter of the Robert B. Bartons of Cedar street, and he is the son of Representative and Mrs. Bruce Barton of New York. Young Mr. Barton and his bride will be at home in Birmingham, Mich., after a wedding trip in the east.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Vivian Della Chiesa is an East Chicago, Ind., girl who from a standing start made some five years ago has succeeded in reaching the opera stage and some of the proudest of broadcasting studios. Last night she underwent one of the most flattering experiences that can come the way of an artist—that of seeing an audience put up with atrocious physical discomfort simply in order to stay and hear her.

For the Grant park weather pattern established Thursday repeated itself with almost boring fidelity last evening. At 8:30 there was a tempest of wind and dust that choked off the concert for an hour. A beating rain followed.

When the music resumed the audience of many thousands had been reduced to one of many dozens, but these clustered close in front of the band shell determined not to miss a note. Above their rapt faces were preposterous looking hats made of newspapers. Over some of the rapt faces was nothing but a head of hair. The rain beat down mercilessly.

First Daniel Saidenberg and the orchestra gave a sturdy performance of Beethoven's third "Leonore" overture. Thereafter they confined themselves to providing expert accompaniments for Miss Della Chiesa.

Incongruously clad in a rain cape, she stepped forth determined to give as much of herself to these loyal dozens as she would have given to a fieldful of cheering thousands. In Coates' "I Heard You Singing," in Schubert's "Serenade," and in two other little songs with a Latin flavor, Miss Della Chiesa sang with a richness of voice, an eloquence of phrase, and a fervor and sincerity of manner which drew loud applause from her slowly eroding listeners.

Sally to Announce Her Baseball Party Guests Tomorrow

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

There'll be a grand rush for the SUNDAY TRIBUNE when it arrives tomorrow morning, I know, because all the boys and girls who've written in for invitations to my next party will be anxious to know whether they're winners.

Well, you'll find a list of fifty boys and fifty girls, and it shouldn't take you long to discover if your name is in it. If it is, you can do a little dance, because very soon the mailman will bring you a personal invitation to the game between the Chicago White Sox and the Philadelphia Athletics next Thursday, Aug. 1.

If it isn't in the list you'll still find something to be happy about because in the same column I'm going to announce our next party. So if you weren't a winner, or if you just couldn't "get going" as one boy described it, until too late for our deadline, here's another chance to try for an invitation to take part in a lot of fun.

Our next party is going to be a swell one, and any boy or girl is eligible to try for an invitation—so watch out for the paper boy tomorrow morning!

MISS MARJORIE WOOD.

Miss Marjorie Wood's engagement to John F. Lambden Jr., son of Mr. Lambden and the late Mrs. Lambden of New Rochelle, N. Y., is announced by her mother, Mrs. Warren K. Wood of Pelham Manor, N. Y. Miss Wood is the daughter of the late Mr. Wood, well known Chicago golfer, and the granddaughter of John H. Wood of Chicago. She attended St. Catherine's school in Richmond, Va., and Bryn Mawr college. Mr. Lambden attended Exeter and was graduated from Brown university and St. John's Law school in Brooklyn.

'Bare Leg' Hose Newest Idea for a Hot Day

BY REA SEEGER.

Here's an idea by some enterprising genius for smoothing out the problems of looking cooler than you feel. The name alone reduces the temperature. It's a stocking trick. "Bare leg" hosiery. Sounds intriguing and they are, on or off the ankles. Two thread chiffons as thin and smooth as any summer shadow come in two shades called blonde and brunet. It's a big new scheme to make the legs look bare tho covered.

It's magic, for what they've planned to do is an accomplished fact. When either of these two shades of chiffons are on, even an eagle eye sleuth can't detect the difference. And the fastidious shoppers who balk at bare cuticle but demand the last word in comfort, are swarming around the collections and buying like mad. Such summer hosiery finds are cool, smooth and comfortable because of their fine thin texture that a two thread weave assures.

The shades are particularly flattering with street clothes of silk, linen or cotton, with simple daytime dresses or suits. They'll accent frilly summer party dresses and go out with swanky evening gowns of jersey, dull crêpe, or even lace.

As ankle harmony with dull black midsummer street dresses they are the last word in filmy flattery. The shades are beautifully dyed so that a good smooth suntan off either blonde or brunet epidermis is exactly copied, hence the success of the name and idea.

Generous Folk Build Up Camp and Ice Funds

BY IRENE STEYSKAL.

Hundreds of the city's poor have passed thru these days of enervating heat sustained by the charity of the men and the women who have contributed to the Tribune sponsored Free Ice fund.

The ice provided by their contributions and dispensed thru the agency of the United Charities has kept milk fresh for scores of infants and preserved the precious food supply of families that, had they not received ice, would have gone hungry. It has brought relief to the ill in whose treatment ice is a requisite and to the old who are especially affected by extremes in temperature.

Clean air, wholesome food, and the healing powers of nature are rebuilding health and restoring the morale of other hundreds of mothers and children at Camp Algonquin, the vacation ground on the Fox river which, for 31 seasons, has been receiving the support of Tribune readers.

As the channel thru which their generosity has been conveyed to the needy, THE TRIBUNE returns to the givers the gratitude of those receiving the benefits of the Free Ice and the Camp Algonquin funds.

Donations sent to the ice fund Thursday and yesterday amounted to $408.55. Gifts of $25 each were received from Mrs. Oliver S. Picher, Ada S. Ripley, N. W. Forrester, and a friend identified by the initials H. C. P. An anonymous donor sent $15. The Grandmothers' Club of Beverly Hills and the Orchard Lane Circle each gave $5. Looking at Hollywood
By John Chapman

Hollywood, July 26.—Stop the presses, hold your horses and clutch your hats! Orson Welles, who has been about to make a movie since shortly after sound came in, has been pulling a fast one. For the last 10 days at RKO he has been shooting "tests" of "Citizen Kane"—and the tests, the studio didn't know, are the real picture.

Metro has high hopes for "Boom Town," a story of the oil wells involving Claudette Colbert, Spencer Tracy, Clark Gable, and H. Lamarr. So Warners have discovered they have a story of the oil wells called "Flowing Gold," with Pat O'Brien, John Garfield and others—and they're hurrying to get the thing released ahead of Metro.

The Warners think now's the time for big scale thrillers, and their next one will be "Bad Men of Missouri," which will detail the lives of all the Missouri terrors except Dale Carnegie and Homer Croy. George Raft, Humphrey Bogart, and George Brent will be among the toughies, with Olivia De Havilland as the gentling influence.

Three Indiana towns have been bidding for the superduper première of "Knute Rockne," and it looks as tho South Bend will get it. All the billboards will tell you how to pronounce the name, spelling it "Kaynute."

Yesterday Jeannette MacDonald was suffering in the heat in whalebone and red velvet. Today Jack Benny was wearing an overcoat, muffler, gloves, a silk hat, and an ill-disguised look of anguish. It was a Paramount pier-side scene for "Love Thy Neighbor." Fred Allen was taking the morning off to think up a couple of gags. The steamer from South America had just arrived, bringing Mary Martin back to New York. Benny was driven up in an old Maxwell piloted by Rochester, while Rochester's colored standin and Rochester's colored valet stood behind the camera and watched admiringly.

It was winter, all right. Temperature on the stage was about 90, but all the extras in the welcoming crowd on the dock and all the extras at the steamer's rail were heavily wrapped, and the arriving taxicabs all had a coating of snow. I went over to look at a big gunny sack full of snow. The label on the bag said "Art snow, for use in motion pictures, Wholesale Supply company, Hollywood." It was, they told me, white corn flakes. "Eat some," they suggested. I pretended not to hear.

Director Mark Sandrich said he was shooting winter stuff because "Love Thy Neighbor" is to be released New Year's eve, by which time people outside California and Florida will be hating the sight of summer clothes. Coincidentally, the story of the movie itself begins New Year's eve.

Your reporter suggested to Sandrich that he was taking a long chance, making a picture of a boat arriving in New York on Dec. 31—even if it was hugging the coast and coming up from South America. He said he'd take that chance, and added that he had been very careful not to have any tropical stuff in any of his pictures, ever since he made a short, starring Bobby Clark. Bobby did a very funny imitation of Calvin Coolidge riding the electric horse in this number. The night Sandrich went to see the film after its release he saw, on his way to the theater, a newspaper headline announcing the death of the President. "It was the most helpless feeling," he said. "I knew this electric horse thing was coming on the screen, and I couldn't do anything to stop it."

Charlie Chaplin intends to release his "dictator" film soon, is sorry he couldn't have put it out six months ago. He's now writing the music for it. One of the delays was caused by the difficulty in getting a certain mechanical sequence to work right. Chaplin was to fall into a trunk, the trunk lid was to close, and a whole series of events was then to ensue. It didn't work right for nearly two months. The timing was wrong, and Chaplin couldn't put his finger on the trouble because he was shut in the trunk.

Grapevine has it that the finale of the film relates that Hitler, just before an international broadcast of supreme importance, comes down with a cold. So Chaplin, the little Jewish tailor who looks like the dictator, is pressed into service and given the Fuehrer's speech to read. He starts it, then says he wants to digress. What he says in digression is a secret, but the last shot is of the troopers closing in on the little Jewish tailor.

Bob Hope is back in town after having collected something over $130,000 for his personal appearance tour. He brings with him a souvenir from Boston. As he tells it, he was playing Boston and he was visited backstage by the city censor. "What have I done that's bad?" queried Bob. "Nothing," said the censor. "Your show is very good. I have brought you a little present." And he handed the comedian a card from the censor's files of years ago. It was a report on a Bob Hope vaudeville act of several years ago. It listed a number of blue jokes and concluded, "This act will bear watching."

BY CECIL SMITH.

"The Chimes of Normandy" ought not to be allowed to languish any longer for want of public interest. Presented at the Coliseum as an adjunct of the American Negro Exposition, this all-Negro swing version of Planquette's celebrated comic opera started its engagement almost secretly, with no advance publicity whatever. To this moment I do not know when it started, for I did not hear of it until it had been running for several days.

Harry Minturn has staged the production in the manner which brought such acclaim to "The Mikado" at the Great Northern theater a year and a half ago. Many of the same people—among them Gladys Boucree, William Franklin, and Maurice Cooper—are in the cast of "The Chimes of Normandy." If this is not quite so good a show as "The Mikado," the intrinsic qualities of script and score may be held responsible; and at all events the present performance is highly entertaining.

Once again Mr. Minturn has dressed his dusky Normans in brilliant costumes by John Pratt, and has engaged Sammy Dyer to instruct them in infectiously rowdy routines of trucking. The performance buzzes with high spirited activity from first to last, and, as with "The Mikado," nothing is ever run into the ground. Many passages of the score submit naturally and well to swing transcription; those that do not are wisely left in their original form.

Of the principals, William Franklin gives the most striking vocal performance. His voice has gained in focus and texture, until he is now undeniably one of the best Negro baritones before the public. His magnificent high A in the second act is worth the modest 40 cent admission charge, at the very least.

Gladys Boucree, also vocally improved since "The Mikado," sings the soprano music charmingly. In "hotter" vein, Frankie Fambro and Elvira Johnson are excellent. Maurice Cooper sings pleasantly, tho he has accumulated a good many affectations of style and manner.

The auditorium in which "The Chimes of Normandy" is given is not physically ideal, but neither is it intolerable. An omnipresent echo which cuts down the intelligibility of spoken dialog also serves to make the reverberations of the choral tone exceptionally thrilling. The hall is not air conditioned, but big fans function efficiently.

The latest Goldwynism, as repeated by Bob Pollak:

National Anthem.

The Illinois Symphony orchestra played The Star Spangled Banner as a prelude to its concert in Wilmette the other evening. During intermission one of the listeners asked Commentator Paul Little, "What was that first number you played that wasn't on the program?"

Miss Pons at the Circus.

Miss Lily Pons wore the star spangled banner in brilliants on her lapel the other day when she and her husband, Andre Kostelanetz, went to the circus with Carleton Smith and Olympe Bradna. She also wore the British empire pin with the British lion and the motto Dieu et mon droit on it, and a jeweled fleur de lis and French rooster pin from Cartier's. However, she felt Miss Bradna had outdone her in patriotic gestures, for Miss Bradna had painted on one thumbnail the flag of France, on the other the American flag.

• • •

Miss Pons, who is a circus enthusiast, has attended six times this year and knows all the animals by name.

"Je l'adore," she enthused. "There's Susie, the hippopotamus—she's a watch your diet advertisment. And there's Mozart, the dancing elephant."

Pan-American Note.

The Reader's Digest will be published in Spanish for South American readers. Advance copies of the first Spanish issue have been received.

Movie Patron.

Air conditioned movies have been sought even by persons who are not aficionados these last hot days and evenings.

"I'm going to Esquire tonight even if they're showing Ben Hur" declared a near north side resident Thursday afternoon when the thermometer registered 100.

People.

The ushers in a crowded air cooled loop movie theater looked harassed and weary a few evenings ago.

"Any seats in the mezzanine?" asked a patron.

"Yes," said the usher wearily; then, as she started toward the stairs, "but there are people in them."

Musical Bellboy.

The Coe Memorial Music room of the Evanston library loans out copies of the Music Appreciation recordings. The other day a hotel bellboy was returning the Haydn set when he nicked a piece out of one of the records.

"O, I wish I'd broken the Brahms," he said, thinking he would have to replace the whole set and would thus own the unbroken ones of the set.

The Stage

Tomorrow night Ruby Keeler will make her last appearance in "Hold On to Your Hats," the musical show now running at the Grand Opera house. Beginning Monday her part will be taken by Eunice Healey. This, it was announced, is by amicable arrangement with Al Jolson, star of the show.

Thru the LOOKING GLASS

That famous preparation created to conceal birthmarks by a woman who had one and who knew all too well about the psychological significance of such a handicap is available in a waterproof form in three shades. This is good news, not only for those persons with birthmarks that are revealed by brief bathing suits but for those with varicose veins.

More women than you'd think have blemishes on the skin of their legs and, if they're self-conscious about them, this cream is a blessing. It's absolutely waterproof and actually looks better after emergence from the water than it did before. It's an excellent sun screen too.

The cream is rather heavy in texture and must be applied to a skin free of all grease or moisture. The shade used must match the skin around the blemish, must be smoothed gently and generously over the blemish and taken a good inch beyond the discoloration, where it can be blended into the fair skin. It remains intact for the day, no matter how many dips you take, concealing birthmarks, veins, brown spots or flat scars.

For use on the face or neck the regular cream remains one of the most remarkable products ever offered to a needy world. Men and women both who had unsightly birthmarks that they felt constituted a social and business handicap have found it invaluable. The waterproof version extends its scope of usefulness to the handicapped.

The Housewife

If you spend your week-ends in the country or along the lake shore, or if you are spending your vacation there it's wise to take along a household insecticide that gets rid of all sorts of little pests: Flies, mosquitoes, ants, etc. It is a liquid that you spray from a gun. It is stainless, so if you get some on the curtains or rugs it won't matter. The spray gun is included with a quart size can of the insecticide.

Murder Is Not Mute

SYNOPSIS.

Detective Patrick Doyle of New York City is vacationing in a small resort town when, while walking in the woods on the estate of Adolph Wunsch, wealthy ex-brewer, he stumbles upon a skeleton. He tells Truman Briault, Wunsch's brother-in-law, of his discovery, and Briault tries to bribe him to keep the matter quiet. Instead Doyle reports it to police headquarters and when Officer Madden and Judge Blain accompany him back to the spot where the skeleton was, they find it gone. Trailing fresh footprints, they discover the skeleton has been buried a short distance away. Dr. Blake, the coroner, says it is the skeleton of a girl in her late teens who has been murdered. Madden asks Doyle to help him solve the mystery. In the meantime Judge Blain finds bits of blue wool on twigs near where the skeleton was buried.

INSTALMENT VI.

TELLTALE YARN.

As the judge emerged from the forest opposite the 13th green his penetrating huntsman's glance caught sight of another shred of bluish yarn on a twig almost touching his left elbow.

"What do you know about that?" the judge asked himself as close to jubilation as was possible for his dour nature.

Whoever had buried the skeleton must have fled by this same path. And, come to think of it, of course he would. He'd come thru the woods to the golf course for the same reason the judge had. Because that was the shortest route cross-country to the Wunsch house.

Blain removed the third telltale bit of yarn and forced his way into the undergrowth. It didn't surprise him much to see a shovel, flung hard into the ground so that its scoop had dug into the soft loam and branches closed down over the handle almost concealing it. Doyle had figured right about one thing. The fellow meant to come back tonight, fetch the shovel from this hiding place, and dig up the skeleton.

The judge pondered briefly and decided to let the shovel lie. There'd be no point in the fellow coming for it once the judge tracked him down, which ought to be any minute now.

With grim purpose Blain stepped out on the golf course and set off for Wunsch's house. He heard a man shout close at hand, so he hastily veered from his course and sprinted up the steep incline of a trap, and there, about a hundred yards away, a fellow was standing with his back turned. He was dressed in gray slacks and a blue shirt; and he was shouting to a heavy set man some two hundred yards beyond.

The heavy set man was rubbing his shoulder and swearing lustily. "Do you want to kill me?" he roared.

Blain's attention focused now on the caddies—two young boys, each burdened with a heavy bag bristling with clubs. Side by side they waited patiently, midway between the two men, resting the heavy bags on the ground and leaning on them. One of the bags had a bluish sweater pulled thru its handle.

As Blain started down the hill the heavy set man caught sight of him and bellowed, "Hey you!" He came toward Blain, waving his arms angrily. "Get out of here!" he yelled. "You're trespassing."

The young fellow had turned with a quick, startled movement, looked at Blain, and then had started to walk rapidly on down the fairway.

Blain recognized the man coming toward him and called: "It's Judge Blain, Mr. Wunsch."

At that Wunsch came to a halt.

When Blain reached his side he told him, quietly and with characteristic economy of speech, about the skeleton. While he talked the caddies and the other man stood off in the distance, watching him.

When Blain had finished his recital, Wunsch muttered indistinguishably beneath his breath—then cupped his hands around his mouth. "Briault!" he shouted. "Take my clubs back to the house and send Follins down here with my car."

Seeing the chauffeur run toward them, Doyle and Madden got out of the car and went to meet him. Doyle recognized the young uniformed man as the one who had brought the raincoat and rubbers to the shed the day before.

"Mr. Wunsch wants to talk to you," the chauffeur told them.

Adolph Wunsch rolled down the window by his side. He was a florid man of middle age whose flaccid face bore a surface look of stupidity which was belied by eyes that were alert and coldly appraising. He pulled at his close cropped reddish mustache and surveyed the men lined up outside his car.

"So?" he addressed them tersely. "You gentlemen see fit to trespass on my property?"

"That right." Doyle showed his badge.

The detective nodded.

"What were you doing on my property?" Wunsch demanded. "You poke your way in where you don't belong, and now I'll have my privacy destroyed and my place overrun with a lot of nosy meddlers. All because some worthless bum crawled into my bushes and died."

"That's no way to speak of a young lady," Madden blurted. "You don't know whether she was a bum or not."

As this obliquely imparted information fell upon their ears, both Wunsch and Judge Blain stared openmouthed at the policeman, and the chauffeur's head jerked convulsively. Doyle's reconnoitering gaze returned to Wunsch. There was an expression of blank incredulity on the millionaire's face.

"Don't waste my time with a lot of foolish guesses," he snapped. He swung contemptuously from Madden to Doyle. "If you have any facts, let's hear them."

The detective said quietly, "About all we know is, there's been a murder."

"You're positive it's murder?" Wunsch challenged.

"Positive," Doyle said.

Wunsch lost some of his bluster. His face looked troubled. "What are you going to do about it?"

"Officer Madden has asked me to work with him, and I'll be glad to do what I can. But this is a tough problem. Bare bones will be hard to identify. When we haven't any idea who was murdered. If we do establish identity, we've done only half the job. We still have to find the murderer and convincing proof of his guilt.

"There's just one thing we must insist upon," Doyle cautioned. "It's to be understood that your premises are open to us and your household available for questioning."

At that Wunsch scowled. "I see no reason why my family should be disturbed," he objected ponderously. "Or my servants' time wasted."

"It doesn't matter," Doyle countered blandly, "whether you see it or not."

For a moment the two men stared at each other, deadlocked. Then the ex-brewer's glance wavered and he called surlily to his chauffeur.

"All right, Follins. Drive on."

Immediately the car shot ahead like an animal escaping danger. The three men started back across the field. And then Wunsch, with his hand on the window turn and the glass almost up, suddenly roared:

"Stop! Stop the car!"

The chauffeur pushed smartly down on the brake.

Wunsch was lowering the window again. "Just a moment," he called urgently.

Doyle, seeing himself signaled, went back to the car.

Wunsch's face was thrust thru the open window. "That damn fool," he said in a low voice, gesturing toward Madden, "he was just guessing, wasn't he, when he said it was a young girl?"

"No," the detective said slowly, taking due note of the anxiety in Wunsch's eyes. "There's no doubt that it was a young girl who was murdered on your property, Mr. Wunsch."

"But if there's nothing but bones?" the millionaire pressed. "Can bones tell so much?"

Wunsch's face underwent a curious transformation. It seemed to collapse as the blood drained from it, leaving the hanging flesh puckered and old.

"I don't like to think of it," he mumbled. "A young girl. Killed. Almost on my doorstep."

He leaned back against the cushions. Then he smiled wryly. "Good luck," he said. "I hope you get the devil who did it."

Shaw at 84, Says He Is Too Old to Have Conscience

LONDON, July 26 (AP).—Impish George Bernard Shaw, who confesses he is "too old to have any conscience" about this war or "any other matter," sought to brush aside that today is his 84th birthday.

It was an "unfortunate fact" he wished to conceal, "not to advertise," he said. But one London newspaper recorded the anniversary. The playwright, who admits he is smarter than any one else, even than the British foreign office, spent the day quietly.

Since the outbreak of the war the irrepressible Shaw has taken keen delight in writing letters-to-the-editor. In his most recent pronouncement G. B. S. suggested Britain lift the blockade and supply Germany with all the food she needs to fight the war to a finish.

Luscious colored, aromatic mangoes, a tropical fruit in the luxury class, are available in many fruit markets. Serve them "on the half-shell" as an unusual dessert. Put them in salads. Make jam of them, or mix them with peaches or apricots to make jam.

Not every one likes mangoes at the first taste. The aroma or the flavor may seem a bit too pronounced, but acquaintance seems always to engender not only a liking but a definite enthusiasm for the peachlike fruit.

Wrap each mango in waxed paper when you store it in the refrigerator, or it will lose some of its fragrance.

When you go looking for fresh corn these days, be sure to inspect each ear to see that it is well-filled, that the rows are regular, and that the corn is fresh. Remove the husks just before cooking it or, if you must keep the corn for a day before using it, wrap each husked ear in waxed paper and store in the refrigerator.

Corn doesn't take many minutes to cook. The water should be well salted, and the pan covered. Ten minutes is the maximum time for corn. Serve it with handles which may be procured in household sections. And there must be plenty of butter!

A new one on this home economist is the cold-water method of making iced tea. I haven't tried it yet, but several cooking experts who should know assure me that it is superior in some ways to the hot water method. The idea is to pour cold water over your tea, the usual amount of tea and the usual proportion of water, and to let the water stand on the leaves for several hours, until color and flavor are extracted, and you have a real brew. Then strain out the leaves, and there you are!

Cheese cubes with fruit salad are something you'll really love. Roll 1 inch bread cubes in a mixture of 2 tablespoons melted butter and one beaten egg, roll in grated cheese, and bake on a cookie sheet in a moderate oven until the cheese melts.

With a crisp raw vegetable salad, serve sliced French rolls, spread with soft cheese and toasted. Pie pastry with grated cheese rolled into it may be cut into slender strips and baked for a crisp accompaniment to soft textured salads. Any of these cheesy treats adds appeal to a salad course.

Meat Timbales.

[Serves six.]

2 cups chopped cooked meat
1 egg
Salt, pepper
1½ cups soft bread crumbs
½ teaspoon poultry seasoning
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup melted butter
2 tablespoons hot water

Mix meat with egg and seasonings. Line well greased ramekins with this mixture, leaving the center for the dressing. Mix crumbs with poultry seasoning, salt, butter and hot water, and press into the centers of the cups. Bake about 30 minutes at 350 degrees. Add minced onion to the dressing, if you like.

Universal Day—Plan a pleasant Saturday night entertainment for this is a social day, favorable for parties.

Month Ahead—For those in a 3-year, August should prove the peak of inspiration. If you don't make it so by expressing your highest ideals and aspiration, then it might prove rather jittery and unsatisfactory. If it is the time of your vacation, choose the type of vacation which will give you aesthetic satisfaction. See something beautiful, express uplifting thoughts and you will get the best out of the month. Don't let it drag down into petty irritations.

Year Ahead—Half of your year of personal expression is over, but you still have a chance to get the best out of this year if you will concentrate on being attractive, friendly, and cheerful.

Good Morning!

Cr-r-azy about horses, horses, horses, are you? Well, come on down to Maryland and list to the tale they tell about:

A boy and a foal, born on the same day.

The boy's mother, an ardent horsewoman, who turns into a bitter creature who will have no horse on her land, and orders destroyed the foal she had loved.

The Danfield stable boy, who is to get religion and confess a walloping big sin that certainly does invest the story with D-r-r-ama!

Action starts on the Danfield plantation on the day of the aforementioned double birth. All is sunshine and happiness, sleek horses, comfy, contented Negroes, and a fox hunt in prospect.

This hunt results disastrously for Mr. Danfield. . . . Sorrow turns Mrs. Danfield, who had adored her husband, into the antithesis of the charming, sympathetic woman she had been. [And wait till you see Fay Bainter in this YOUNG role! She's lovely!]

After ridding herself of her stable she sends her son to a Swiss school where, she understands, there is no riding. . . . He returns—an accomplished horseman.

Hell breaks, also romance. Also the icy crust over a lonely heart.

Walter Brennan as the trainer, Miss Bainter as Mrs. Danfield, Hattie McDaniel as wife of the crap shooting Shadrach who gets saved with such a vengeance just at the wrong time, Brenda Joyce, John Payne, and Ben Carter [Shadrach] are all mighty fine. [Said she with a so'th'n accent.] You'll love the horses and the racing and the episodes featuring the Negroes at work, at play, and especially AT CHURCH.

GASOLINE ALLEY—YEARNINGS

OF COURSE WE COULD HAVE GOT THE BUNCH TOGETHER.
I LIKE IT BETTER THIS WAY.
THE TROUBLE WITH VACATIONS, NINA, IS THAT THEY'RE NICE AND LONG WHEN THEY START AND SO SHORT WHEN THEY END.
I'D LIKE TO GO OUT INTO THE WORLD LIKE YOU HAVE, SKEEZIX.
WHY NOT? YOUR FOLKS WOULD MISS YOU, BUT THEY COULD GET ALONG.
I'VE BEEN THINKING IT OVER FOR A LONG TIME. THE OPPORTUNITY MAY COME—WHO KNOWS?

WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER—A Fugitive from a Secret Hunter

WELL, I HOPE YOUR CURIOSITY IS SATISFIED ABOUT BOB BOBAN!
BUT, BILL, IT ISN'T! I ASKED HIM IF HE WAS A FUGITIVE FROM JUSTICE, AND HE SAID HE WAS A FUGITIVE FROM INJUSTICE!
NOW, I ASK YOU—WHAT DOES THAT MEAN?
HE'S A FUGITIVE, THAT'S SURE! HE MIGHT FIGURE HE WAS IN THE RIGHT—LIKE KILLING A MAN IN SELF-DEFENSE! THEN AGAIN, HE MIGHT JUST BE KIDDING YOU!
KIDDING ME? WELL, ANY MAN THAT WOULD KID A WOMAN, WHEN SHE'S TRYING TO FIND OUT A SECRET IS JUST A PLAIN OUT-AND-OUT CRIMINAL!

Blouse and Skirt Ideas

WOMAN'S AND MISS' BLOUSES AND SKIRTS.

The blouse and skirt idea has caught on in fashions for any hour of the day. Today's two patterns offer variety from which you may make either a daytime costume or one for evening. The blouse shoulders may be yoke style with button trim, or they may be the simple kimono style with a scarf collar. Stripes are effective in the latter, plain colors in the former. One blouse is worn outside the skirt band, and the other is a tuck-in model.

The skirts are smartly paneled and are as graceful in the short length as they are when they sweep the floor. The sketches show the fashion possibilities of these patterns.

Style No. 3382 is designed for sizes 14 and 16, and 36, 38, 40 and 42 inch bust measurements. Size 36 requires 1¼ yards of 39 inch material for square-necked blouse, with short sleeves, 1⅛ yards for sleeveless blouse, with ⅞ yards for 'kerchief.

Style No. 3106 is designed for waist sizes 24, 26, 28, 30, 32 and 34. Size 28 requires 2¾ yards of 39 inch material for regulation length skirt, 3¾ yards for evening version.

Each pattern costs 10 cents.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

Every One Goes to Arlington This Afternoon

Pauline Palmer are with the Palmers, but there was no party to celebrate the occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. John Andrews King will be receiving congratulations on their 22nd anniversary tomorrow. They, too, are foregoing a party.

Miss Frances Price is entertaining at cocktails at home in Winnetka tomorrow afternoon for her sister-in-law, Mrs. Edwin P. Price Jr., and the latter's sister-in-law, Mrs. William Onderdonk.

Wilmette Harbor to Be Busy Place Next Week.

Wilmette harbor will be teeming with activity all next week due to the Sheridan Shore Yacht club's annual race week. The events are planned principally for star boats, and many craft will be there from clubs all around Lake Michigan, and from Peoria.

Van Gathany is in charge of entertaining for the visiting skippers and crews. There is to be a dance at the club next Friday night, and a dinner next Saturday, at which prizes will be awarded. Mrs. W. Burton Ellis, wife of the commodore; Mrs. Malcolm H. Whitfield, president of the woman's auxiliary, and Mrs. William Frisbie also will help to see that the visitors will enjoy themselves.

The first races will be held tomorrow afternoon. Subsequent sailing events also will be held in the afternoon during the next six days.

In Feather Fern Pattern

BY JEAN MacDONALD.

A knitted angora evening jacket is the ideal item for these delightfully cool evenings. The feather fern design is one of the most fascinating of the many knitting patterns, and it is not difficult to create. The sleeves are long, a definitely new trend, the waist short, and the neck high and round. A fine two ply saxony is an excellent substitute for angora and equally effective. Instructions for the sweater are available in 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40 and 42 inch bust measurements.

For instructions in knitting the jacket in the feather fern pattern, No. X-375, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

★ On the House ★

A small house, so planned that every room is a corner room, is a forward looking little house, since there is direct cross ventilation in every room, and plenty of ways to fling the windows wide to light and air. . . . Then, too, such a plan affords ample opportunity to utilize corner windows in one or more of the rooms. . . . Corner windows are not new, but their popularity is definitely on the march! Children Need Success, but Failure, Too

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Your child needs success.

Every child needs the sense of satisfaction and the acquisition of confidence that comes with success, the experience of succeeding. Most of the young child's efforts especially should be crowned with success. Success should be made possible for a child by giving him the right toys, playthings, and lessons, just difficult enough to stimulate him, not so difficult as to discourage him.

Your child needs success. We know this; but life isn't made up only of successful experiences. So, and this applies more to when they're older, children must learn to fail as well as to succeed. They're going gradually to be confronted with a greater variety of work and play, and not all of it is going to be presented to them in gradations of difficulty as it is when they're small.

Now, some natures seem to be automatically equipped so that when they fail they do one of two things. Either they take failure in a perfectly matter of fact way, with a fine sense of proportion, or they are stimulated by failure to greater effort.

Notice failure in some everyday experience, such as reciting in a classroom. Some children fail and forget it. Others will show, every time they fail, real chagrin.

To fail in the eyes of the world seems to be much worse than to fail unnoticed. As they get into college, to fail in an examination is a tragedy and to fail in a job seriously affects their self-confidence.

"Poetry," our list of books of poems for all ages, is obtainable upon request. Send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Mrs. Gladys Huntington Bevans, the Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.]

Tournament play, in which the contestants are given plenty of time for mapping out campaigns, produces some pretty games. The declarer's solution of the problem in today's hand, which occurred in a team-of-four match in New York, was a triumph of card placing and technique.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 spade	Pass	Pass	3 hearts
Double	Pass	4 clubs	4 hearts
5 clubs	5 hearts	Pass	Pass
Double	Pass	Pass	Pass

South's three heart bid was eminently correct, but he should have passed over four clubs, leaving the next decision to his partner.

West opened the diamond king, and the declarer ruffed with the heart jack. He then overtook the king with the ace of hearts, and ruffed a second diamond with his remaining honor. The nine spot to the ten permitted the ruff of a third diamond, and dummy was then entered for the third time for a fourth diamond ruff.

At this stage, dummy's fifth diamond was established, but it should be noted that declarer was out of trumps, having used four for ruffing and three for entering dummy. But the declarer had previously decided from the bidding that a club finesse would probably lose, and had figured out a more propitious line of play. Thus, with his own hand reduced to four spades and the ace-queen of clubs, and dummy to two spades, two clubs, one good diamond, and one trump, declarer led the king of spades. West, of course, won with the ace, but now it did not matter what he returned. He was out of diamonds and trumps and whether he led a club up to South's tenace, or a spade, he could take only one more trick. The queen of spades would establish declarer's jack and permit the discard of a club in dummy; a low spade would concede the fatal trick on the spot. Thus, declarer, by refusing all finesses, fulfilled his doubled contract.

International Svithoid Opens 60th Convention

The Independent Order of Svithiod, a pioneer among American Swedish fraternal orders, opened its 60th convention yesterday in the Stevens hotel. Two hundred new members were initiated last night following the presentation of an entertainment program in the hotel's grand ballroom. The convention will be concluded today. IT'S OPEN HOUSE DAY FOR CITIZENS AT FT. SHERIDAN

Gen. Ford to Review Units of R. O. T. C., C. M. T. C.

Fort Sheridan will hold open house for citizens this morning when Lieut. Gen. Stanley H. Ford, commander of the 2d army and the 6th army corps, reviews 1,902 members of the Reserve Officers' Training corps and Citizens' Military Training camp now at the fort.

The program will start at 9 a. m., when a composite troop of the 14th cavalry and a drum and bugle corps will meet Gen. Ford at his quarters and escort him to the reviewing stand on the main parade ground.

R. O. T. C. Inspection Planned.

At 9:20 o'clock he will inspect 286 cadets of the R. O. T. C. representing seven middle western colleges and universities—Illinois, Kansas, Minnesota, Cincinnati, Michigan State, George Washington of St. Louis, and Kansas State. The cadets are completing six weeks of training and will leave the fort tomorrow.

During their training, which is regarded by Brig. Gen. Lloyd R. Fredendall, commandant of the fort, as having been highly successful, the cadets have been drilled in firing of coast artillery and antiaircraft guns. Antiaircraft fire was directed at targets towed on 1,000 feet of cable by planes flying at 175 miles an hour at a height of 20,000 feet.

The cadets also were trained in use of 1 billion candlepower searchlights for the detection of hostile aircraft; in problems of mess management, and in supply control and administration.

At 9:30 a. m. Gen. Ford will present reserve commissions to 41 members of the R. O. T. C. who have attained rating as second lieutenants. At 9:50 he will review the R. O. T. C. battalion on parade.

2 C. M. T. C. Units to Parade.

At 10:10 o'clock Gen. Ford will be complimented by the first combined parade review of the two C. M. T. C. regiments, consisting of 1,437 men representing the states of Illinois, Michigan, and Wisconsin, and a group of 179 prominent business and professional men from Chicago and north shore communities who are in camp as a special C. M. T. C. unit.

At 10:30 Gen. Ford will make a motor tour of the camp.

The general's arrival on the parade ground will be greeted by a 15 gun salute fired by the 61st coast artillery [antiaircraft].

Gen. Fredendall will be host at a luncheon to Gen. Ford and prominent visitors following the morning ceremonies. Among the guests will be Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

Col. John B. Johnson is in command of both the R. O. T. C. and C. M. T. C. units during the summer training period at the fort.

'AFTER THE BALL' WILL HIGHLIGHT SYMPHONIC HOUR

A musical-dramatic vignette "After the Ball" will be a highlight of the CHICAGO TRIBUNE Symphonic hour from 9 to 10 p. m. tomorrow over W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system. This presentation will relate the story of three generations of an ambitious operatic family.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE, will be the speaker of the evening. Marion Claire, star of the Symphonic hour, will take the part of the first generation singer in the musical vignette; Patti Clayton, W-G-N's new singing discovery, the parts of the second and third generation opera stars. This production was written by William A. Bacher, who directs the Symphonic hour, and Tanyah Corday.

Miss Claire will sing Charles' "Let My Song Fill Your Heart," and Fran La Forge's "Contemplation." Henry Weber will direct the Symphony orchestra; Cecil Smith will give the program comments.

W-G-N EPISODE TELLS SABOTAGE IN 'PLANE PLANT'

Wings for America, in the episode broadcast over W-G-N and the Mutual network last night, revealed how fifth column agents might go about sabotaging production in an American airplane plant. Elissa Landi and Phillips Holmes, as Lorna Carroll, a CHICAGO TRIBUNE reporter, and Riley Davis, a Mutual network commentator investigated production difficulties in a mythical plane plant and found advance front agents at work retarding production.

They won over the two young key men and got them to declare their intention to quit the fifth columnists. This defection caused the leader of the Advance Front to doom them to death. But they were saved thru intervention of the reporter and commentator.

This episode of Wings for America will be told pictorially in the Graphic section of tomorrow's SUNDAY TRIBUNE.

Miss Landi and Holmes were supported by a cast composed of Dan Sutter, Phil Dakin, Marvin Mueller, and Billy Lee. The W-G-N orchestra directed by Harold Stokes provided the musical setting. Blair Walliser writes and produces this dramatic serial.

Blame Eggnog as Father and 3 Boys Are Poisoned

Glenn Swonk, 3818 North Kedzie avenue, and his three sons, Francis, 7½ years old, and Louis and Leo, twins of 6, were taken to County hospital last night suffering from food poisoning. Dr. Max Kaplan said their illness apparently was caused by eggnog they had for supper. Mrs. Swonk and her mother, who did not drink the eggnog, were not affected. The condition of the father and sons was reported satisfactory.

DEALERS TO GET DETAILS OF FOOD STAMP PROGRAM

Pamphlets to Explain Relief Plan.

Pamphlets explaining the operation of the food stamp relief plan, which goes into effect in Chicago Aug. 1, will be distributed soon to retail and wholesale food dealers and to relievers, Ellsworth F. J. Reilly, local representative of the Surplus Marketing administration, announced yesterday.

Persons who will be eligible to receive the food stamps are those receiving relief from the Chicago Relief administration, or receiving surplus commodities only and preparing their food in their own homes. They will receive orange colored stamps in denominations equivalent to the amount they now receive in cash as a food allowance, minus $1 for each person in the family. The $1 for each member will be paid in cash to the family to be used for other home needs and additional food purchases.

The orange stamps may be used only for the purchase of food in retail food stores and may not be used to buy food in restaurants or food usually consumed in stores—such as sandwiches and ice cream cones—or to buy tobacco or alcoholic beverages. The stamps will be in small booklets containing $2 to $10 worth in denominations of 25 cents.

Blue Stamps to Be Given.

For each two orange stamps which he gets the relief client will receive one blue stamp of 25 cents denomination. This blue stamp thus will increase his food purchasing power approximately 50 per cent.

The blue stamps may be used only for the purchase of foods which the secretary of agriculture designates as surplus. The list of surplus foods varies according to locality. Until midnight on Aug. 11 the Chicago list will include the following: Butter, raisins, rice, pork lard, all cuts of pork—including fresh, chilled, frozen, pickled, salted, cured, smoked or tenderized, but excluding cooked or packed in metal or glass containers—corn meal, shell eggs, dried prunes, hominy grits, wheat flour, whole wheat flour, graham wheat flour, and dry edible beans.

The list also includes the following fresh fruits and vegetables: cabbage, tomatoes, snap beans, corn, beets, and oranges.

Barred for Back Bills.

All retail food stores within the corporate limits of Chicago will accept the stamps. The stamps, however, may not be used in payment of back or current bills or applied on future purchases. They must not be detached from the booklet until the time a purchase is made. They may not be traded or sold. The empty booklets must be saved by relief clients and returned to the CRA within 60 days.

Violation of any regulation applying to the stamps is punishable under federal law. Buying or selling stamps is punishable by a maximum penalty of $10,000 fine or 10 years' imprisonment, or both.

SLOT MACHINES RUN TO COVER AS HEAT INCREASES

Official word yesterday to slot machine operators that the heat is still on sent the machines to cover in Cook county last night. Roving squads of highway police reported that the machines had disappeared.

Both Thomas J. Courtney, state's attorney, and John E. Cassidy, attorney general, reiterated during the day that they would not tolerate the racket.

Sheriff Thomas J. O'Brien said his force has been doing all it could to suppress the racket.

Chief Lester J. Laird of the county highway police said numerous raids were made last week-end and 18 machines confiscated. He said confiscated machines now fill one vault and half of another in the county building and that a third contains a small mountain of smashed machines.

"My men [total force of 125] are doing all they can to keep slot machines out of the county," Laird said. "Let the villages do something; they have mayors and police."

FARMER INJURED BY FORK.

Boonville, Ind., July 26 [Special].—Billy Hester, 12, son of Ernest Hester, local garage operator, was taken to an Evansville hospital after a swimming accident. He bumped heads with another boy in the Boonville pool yesterday and is believed to have a fractured skull.

DIVORCE CLOSES 5TH MARRIAGE ON CRUELTY CHARGE

Judge Oscar F. Nelson in the Superior court was told yesterday that Belden Gilliam, 36 years old, wants to break the record for being married the most times. With the assistance of the court and of Gilliam's wife, Rose, 23, of 1940 Cleveland avenue, he was helped on his way. The divorce granted Mrs. Gilliam on a charge of cruelty ended her husband's fifth marriage.

Mrs. Gilliam's lawyer, Norman Becker, told the judge that she was both wife No. 4 and No. 5. Their first marriage lasted from April to August, 1936, and ended in divorce in December of that year. They remarried the same month and separated June 29 of this year. Mrs. Gilliam accepted an out of court settlement of $1,000.

Release Two Women Cultists Seized in Raid at 2 A. M.

United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker ordered the release yesterday of two middle aged women members of the I Am cult, who were arrested by federal men at 2 a. m. and kept for several hours in cells at the Central police station.

The women, who are sisters, are the Misses Louise and Cecelia Majerus. They were indicted Wednesday with five other Chicagoans by a Los Angeles federal grand jury on charges of mail fraud in connection with I Am activities. Altho the sisters posted bond shortly afterward, the Los Angeles district attorney's office ordered their arrest. It was explained later in the day that this was an error.

Ask Arrest of Bookkeeper.

A third warrant, telegraphed from the west coast, ordered that Miss Mary McGinnis, bookkeeper for the cult in Chicago, be taken into custody. She was not found, however, and this warrant also was quashed by Walker.

The Majerus sisters were seized by United States Deputy Marshal Al Wohlers and Postoffice Inspector Jack Stahl, who went to Louise's bungalow at 1620 East 84th place.

After arousing the two women they shouted that the house was surrounded. To this the sisters replied:

Refuse to Give Up Money.

Before taking the Majerus sisters to jail, Wohlers and Stahl said, they were given a demonstration of what the women called "precipitation."

"You see," said Miss Louise, "I have $1 in my pocketbook. After a while I open it and have $3. That is precipitation. Of course we don't precipitate houses or anything large enough to cause commotion in the world."

At the police station the women refused to give up their money to a matron, stating they had $13 between them and intended to keep it. But when the purses were opened, Miss Louise seemed to have precipitated $89 and Miss Cecelia $46.

Among other Chicagoans under indictment are Paul Potter, secretary of the Associated Milk dealers, and his wife Mabel. They also have posted bond.

SIX MORE POST BOND.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 26 (AP)—Six more of the 24 persons indicted by a federal grand jury on mail fraud charges based on operation of the "I Am" cult, surrendered today and were released on bond.

Six others, including Mrs. Edna W. Ballard, and her son, Donald Ballard, co-leaders of the movement, surrendered yesterday and also were released on bail.

Henry B. Ely, chief counsel for the cult, denounced the arrest of Louise and Cecelia Majerus, middle-aged group leaders, in Chicago today as "a lowdown guttersnipe trick."

He said it had been understood that all defendants would "surrender peaceably and in a dignified manner" and that bail would be arranged immediately from Los Angeles. He criticized Chicago officers for "dragging these two women from their beds."

The defendants are scheduled to be arraigned in federal court here next Wednesday.

MAYOR EXPLORES MEANS TO ERECT AIRPORT BUILDING

The possibility of building a new $1,600,000 administration building at Chicago airport financed largely thru a loan from the Reconstruction Finance corporation was discussed yesterday at a conference in Mayor Kelly's office. The mayor conferred with Charles E. Miner, state WPA administrator; Reed Landis, a member of the Chicago Aero commission, and Ald. John J. Grealis [44th], chairman of the council aviation committee.

A suggestion was made that the project might be financed in part thru contributions from airline companies using the airport, and that some WPA labor might be used.

The mayor said the building project was considered as part of the program for airport development, including removal of the tracks of the Chicago and Western Indiana railroad, which bisect the area available for the field. Their removal is being held up because of the necessity of clearing titles to land to which they are to be removed.

DROPS CHARGES AGAINST 14 IN ANNENBERG CASE

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson yesterday dismissed all indictments against 10 individuals and four corporations accused of aiding Moses L. Annenberg to evade income taxes. The dismissal was asked by District Attorney William J. Campbell.

The government's action now leaves indictments pending against five individuals and one corporation. These are Arnold W. Kruse, head of the Cecelia company, an Annenberg holding company; his son, Lester; James M. Ragen, general manager of the defunct Nationwide News service; his son, James Jr.; William Molasky, head of the Consensus Publishing company, and the publishing company.

Among the defendants dismissed yesterday were Annenberg's son, Walter, and other business associates. Annenberg, who pleaded guilty to one count in the income tax indictment, is serving a three year sentence in the federal penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa.

$50,000 FUTURITY CLOSES ARLINGTON SEASON TODAY

13 JUVENILES ARE NAMED FOR 6 FURLONG DASH

It's an Open Race for the Betters.

The Field

THIRTEEN horses were named in the overnight entries for today's Futurity at Arlington Park. If all start, the race will gross $49,565, of which $35,470 will be net to the winner. Post positions will be drawn this morning. The field follows:

Horse and jockey—	Wt.	Prob. odds.
NEW WORLD [R. Workman]	117	4-1
ATTENTION [L. Haas]	122	3-1
SWING and SWAY [Arcaro]	117	4-1
METTLESOME [Robertson]	117	6-1
SWAIN [J. Adams]	117	12-1
WHIRLAWAY [J. Longden]	117	12-1
CUANTOS [M. Peters]	117	15-1

WAR RESULT [A. Schmidt]	117	20-1
VALDINA GROOM [J. Gros]	117	20-1
ALAKING [M. Berz]	117	20-1
NEW ENGLANDER [Craig]	114	30-1
KANSAS CITY [McCombs]	117	30-1

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Arlington Park will close its most successful meeting since 1929 with the running of the $50,000 Futurity this afternoon. Another heavy betting crowd of 30,000 or more will gather at the track today to see 13 of the nation's fastest juvenile colts go thru the first major test of their careers.

Eddie Arcaro.

From the east, the central states and the far west, these 2 year olds have come to make today's Futurity a rigorous test of speed and class. Not only Chicago's race fans, but also horsemen and breeders thruout the country will focus their attention on this event. They are eager for the first solid evidence of the racing qualities in these youngsters upon whom so much care and expense already have been lavished by elaborate breeding and racing establishments.

A Wide Open Race.

The Futurity will be a wide open betting proposition. Nearly any horse in the field could win it with the aid of one of those breaks of luck which often occur in juvenile races. Mrs. Parker Corning's Attention demonstrated so much ability earlier in the season and has trained so well for the Futurity that he may be established as the No. 1 public choice, but there will be plenty of backing for at least half a dozen of his rivals.

Among the well regarded easterners are Greentree Stable's Swing and Sway, Alfred G. Vanderbilt's New World, and Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloan's Mettlesome.

Cleaveland Putnam's Swain has shown considerable improvement recently and is considered one of the most dangerous of those which have been racing in the Chicago area. Calumet Farm's Whirlaway has run into a succession of bad luck in his previous appearances but it is generally believed that if he gets clear going all the way, he will be a powerful factor in the stretch run.

Only Three Missing.

Of the 16 which were pointing for the Futurity, all but Chicuelo, Our Boots, and Port Alibi were named in the overnight entries. A tendon injury will keep Chicuelo off the track for a week or two. An injured shin accounts for the absence of Our Boots, and Port Alibi will yield the starting assignment to his highly regarded stablemate, War Result.

With 13 starters, the race will gross $49,565, the winner's share being $35,470. This will be the ninth running of the stake, which has come to be regarded as one of the four major events for juveniles, the others being the Hopeful Stakes at Saratoga and the Belmont and Pimlico Futurities.

Kansas Represents Millsdale.

The Millsdale Stable, which sent Andy K. out to win last year, will be represented this time by Kansas. The Kansas followed up a brilliant debut with a disappointing effort earlier this week, many will remember that Andy K. never had won a race until he sobred in the Futurity. Then he went on to earn second place to Bimelech in the national ranking.

The Valdina Farm of Texas, which won with Teddy's Comet in one of the earlier Futurities, also will be trying for a double with Valdina Groom carrying its colors.

Famous jockeys have come in from coast to coast to take mounts. Johnny Longden is here from California to ride Whirlaway. Eddie Arcaro, Buddy Haas, Al Robertson, Manny Berg and Albert Schmidt have gathered from the eastern tracks.

IOWA COUNTS ON NATION'S AID FOR EDDIE ANDERSON

Has Supporters in All Sections of Country.

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Des Moines, Ia., July 26.—Second Lieutenant Buzz Dean, baked a light bronze by the blazing sun, walked into the sports department of the Register and Tribune. He came with information on the sports activities of the first battalion of the Citizens Military Training corps at Fort Des Moines, of which he is athletic officer. He lingered to receive congratulations of Sports Editor Sec Taylor and his staff on election to the College All-Star squad which meets the Green Bay Packers Aug. 29 on Soldiers' field in Chicago.

They Think He Will.

Buzz was hugely delighted by the prospect of meeting the professionals. He was extraordinarily pleased that Iowa had elected him and his teammates, Nile Kinnick, Dick Evans, and Erwin Prasse, to the college squad. Then he asked: "Do you think Dr. Anderson will be one of the All-Star coaches?"

Buzz's question was howled down. "Elected?" Sec Taylor repeated. "Why Anderson not only will be elected, he'll be the head coach."

The remarkable thing about the poll for All-Star players conducted by the Des Moines Register and Tribune was the individual response. Dean led the four Iowa players with a total of 76,000 votes, nearly 10,000 of which came on the last day. Dean's home is in Atlantic, and that western section sent in thousands of ballots for Dean alone. In other sections, ballots contained the names of the four Iowa iron men.

Cost Is No Barrier.

On the last voting day, several votes were received special delivery. The Register-Tribune ballots had spaces for the names and addresses. It was testimonial to the popularity of Iowa's players that fans were willing to pay 13 cents to vote.

The Des Moines ballot did not specify players. All eleven spaces were left blank to permit alumni and followers of other schools to write in a complete team and omit the Iowa players, if they wished. There was no suggestion of rallying a vote for any particular player, yet even under these circumstances, the poll broke all previous records.

Principal organized support has come thru the hotels and the Tri-State theaters in Des Moines. The

JACOBS CANCELS PLANS FOR LOUIS, BAER TO FIGHT

New York, July 26 [Special].—Joe Louis and Max Baer will not meet in September for the heavyweight title in Chicago—or any place else.

Promoter Mike Jacobs announced today that he had called off plans for that bout and would substitute the winner of the Bob Pastor-Billy Conn fight on Aug. 13 as Louis' next opponent. The championship battle will take place in September, Jacobs said, at a site to be selected later.

Jockeys Move to Slash $100 a Day Insurance

New York, July 26 (AP).—Discussion of various plans for providing insurance and hospital benefits for race track employés occupied most of the closing session of the annual conference of state racing commissioners today. Lewis Landes of New York, counsel for the Jockey's Community Fund and Guild, Inc., said that the riders were ready to put up $100,000 to establish their own insurance company unless there was a reduction in premiums by established companies. He revealed it costs approximately $100 a day to insure a boy in 7 races.

CUBS CONTINUE TO BEAT GIANTS; 14 TO 1, THIS TIME

French Gets 3 Singles; Bonura Hits Homer.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 26.—Larry French's successful fourth try for his tenth 1940 victory this afternoon was a grand success in every way. The Cubs conquered the Giants, 14 to 1, getting eight runs in the seventh inning, which featured Zeke Bonura's first homer as a Cub. Zeke's smash scored the last three of the cluster. Joe Moore knocked a homer on French's first pitch of the game.

It fell to French to drive in enough runs to beat the Giants. After Hank Leiber had scored the tying run in the second inning, Larry singled to send home Bonura and Rabbit Warstler with one more run than he needed. Lawrence also singled home a run in the seventh and another in the ninth.

Melton Takes Beating.

Cliff Melton, who had a record of eight victories and two defeats [he was knocked out in Chicago on July 15 but did not take the rap] was the victim of the three run third and the eight run seventh. Paul Dean got thru the eighth, but loaded the bases before rain brought a 13 minute halt in the ninth. When the game was resumed the Cubs added three runs.

The success gave the Chicagoans a 7 to 6 edge on the Giants in the season series and four of the last five between the teams. They now are two games behind the third place New York fellows.

Moore Busts One.

Bonura and Warstler gave the Cubs a 3 to 1 lead in the second inning. Leiber walked and Bonura singled to left center. After Todd popped to Whitehead, Warstler lined a single to center, Leiber scoring. Warstler took second on a passed ball. French singled to left, scoring Bonura and Warstler. Hack's second single put French on third, but Herman hit into a double play.

Bonura Breaks Spell.

The Cubs didn't get a runner on base from the close of the second inning until Bonura walked at the start of the seventh. Zeke was forced by Todd, but Warstler came thru with his second single, Todd taking third. French knocked his second single, scoring Todd and putting Warstler on third. Hack's squeeze bunt scored Warstler. Melton threw to Danning, who, tho he had no chance to get Warstler, still

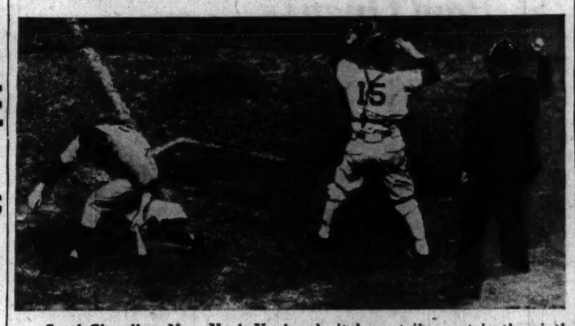
Spud Fans This Time, but—



Spud Chandler, New York Yankees' pitcher, strikes out in the sixth inning of the White Sox-Yankee game in Comiskey park last night. Catcher Mike Tresh is about to return the ball to Pitcher Eddie Smith. Umpire George Pipgras is also shown. In the eighth and ninth innings Chandler hit home runs, the last with the bases filled, and the Yankees won, 10 to 2. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.

GABBY HARTNETT recently brought his family to the home manse in Woonsocket, R. I., for the first time in six years. . . . The Cubs' manager said he would give $500 if he could have gone to the attic and had found the 55,000 marbles he collected as a youth to present to his 10 year old son, Mickey. . . . The marbles have been missing, however, for at least five years. . . . Dale Burnett, half back with the New York Giants, has withdrawn from professional football to coach basketball at Williams college. . . . Last year was his 10th with the Giants. . . . Paul Sheetz, who finished in third place among the guards in the coast to coast football poll, financed his way thru Xavier university, Cincinnati, by operating a cleaning and laundry service in a student dormitory. . . . Grenville Lansdell, one of six Southern California players who were elected to the All-Star squad, sends this message: "Tell those Packers to get ready, because we're going to show them something about Pacific coast football." . . . The St. Louis Browns have a bright prospect in Vernon Stephens of San Antonio, one of the best first year infielders the Texas league has seen in many seasons. . . . The University of Illinois football training table will be located in the new Union building when it is completed. . . . Mrs. Phil Wrigley is official scorer of the Chipmunk league, a soft ball organization at Lake Geneva. . . . Zeke Bonura and his No. 1 fan, Vice President John N. Garner, said farewell to Washington on the same day. . . . Eddie Mead, who has made a fortune as manager of fighters, including Champions Henry Armstrong and Joe Lynch, started in the boxing game as a rubber. . . . His rate was 25 cents a rub. . . . Bob Kellogg, Tulane's great running back, who has been picked by the fans for a place on the All-Star squad, has been spending the summer as a counselor at a boys' camp in Covington, La. . . . Harry Wismer, sports commentator for station WJR, Detroit, is deserting radio for a position with the Lou Maxon, Inc., advertising agency in Detroit. . . . As an avocation he will broadcast the Lions' games this fall. . . .

Don Kolloway, who is being schooled in second basing by Rogers Hornsby at Oklahoma City, will be called back by the White Sox before the end of the season and given a chance at a regular infield berth. . . . The Studebaker Athletic association's baseball plant in South Bend has been freshly decorated with the paint left over from French war truck orders. . . . They say Davey O'Brien plans to make this his last season in professional football. . . . Jim Coffroth, former fight promoter, sits up all night reading the classics in his San Diego home. . . . Sunny Jim wouldn't think of eating breakfast before 2 p. m. . . . It's no wonder reporters who make their living traveling with the Cubs frequently have red faces. . . . The purchase of Zeke Bonura was announced in Chicago and Washington and spread thruout the nation while Cub chroniclers were isolated with the team en route to Boston. . . . Moaning scriveners complain of other instances of Cub policy toward writers with the team. . . . The Warneke-Collins-Parmelee deal in 1936 was announced in St. Louis at 5 o'clock in the morning. . . . The Jurges-Demaree-O'Dea-Bartell-Leiber-Mancuso trade was announced in Chicago while Chicago writers were dashing about in New Orleans, where the transaction was closed. . . . Announcement of Hartnett's appointment as manager was made while a conscientious reporter who has traveled with the Cubs for 25 years was out to supper. . . . And this spring, say the wailers, the boys were crossed on the Dean signing while breaking bread at the banquet board with Clarence Rowland.

CHANDLER GETS 2 HOMERS, ONE WITH THREE ON

Kuhel, Gordon Also Hit for Circuit.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The charge of the White Sox into the first division came a cropper last night under the Comiskey Park electric lights. The World Champion Yankees, looking something like their old selves as the second division was yawning to take them in, repulsed the charge in brutal fashion, 10 to 2, before 48,104 spectators, who had to idle away an hour and ten minutes when a rainstorm took over the direction of the show in the second inning. Under the power of the Yankee bats the Sox's winning streak was chopped off at seven games.

Spurgeon Chandler.

The roistering Sox hitters, whose quantity scoring had built up the chain of seven victories, either were blinded by the lights or the pitching of Spurgeon [Spud] Chandler. Except in one instance, when Joe Kuhel exploded his 19th homer to put the Chicagoans in front, he caused a series of groans, not only among the spectators, but among Jim Dykes' athletes. And he was the cause of additional groans by hitting two homers in the last two innings, the second with the bases filled.

Lefty Ed Goes Away.

Another winning streak, the personal property of Eddie Smith, the rotund lefty, also was stopped by the Yankees' industry at bat. The little man worked under a charm for a time. In the first four innings only one Yank scored but nine of them were left on the bases. But the end came in the seventh, when, after one run had tied the score, Joe Gordon whistled homer No. 17 among the left field customers with a mate aboard. After one more inning Smitty called off his streak at six games and made a vacancy for Pete Appleton, who was unfortunate enough to be the victim of a five run splurge in the ninth.

The Sox could get only five hits off Chandler, four of them singles. Two of the singles turned out to be the front halves of double plays. One of them came after a pass in the seventh and thus a man was moved as far as second base. The only other time a Chicagoan ventured that far was in the fourth when Chandler issued his only other free ticket just ahead of Kuhel's wallop into the right field stands.

Then Came the Storm.

There wasn't much action of any kind until the rain came in the wake of galelike wind that swirled vagrant newspapers and dust about the premises. The Yankees made a slight gesture in the first inning as Henrich doubled to left with two out. Smith shook off this discomfort by fanning Di Maggio. The Sox did nothing in their maiden effort. Then Rosar opened the second with a pop foul to Kuhel and the storm struck, driving umpires, athletes and a good portion of the spectators to cover.

After the one hour, ten minute hiatus, Smitty resumed work by fanning Keller on a fast ball at which the 1939 world series hero merely glanced, but complications set in immediately. Gordon blasted a single into center. Dahlgren hoisted a low, sickly fly over short right center and

MISSES DUDLEY AND WILLIAMS TO MEET FOR TITLE

Fourth Time They've Been Rivals for Crown.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Eleanor Dudley of Ridge and Ellamae Williams of Medinah today will play 36 holes for the annual championship of the Chicago Women's District Golf association at the Northmoor Country club in what should be one of the most interesting matches of the local fairway season. Stanch friends for years, Ellamae, who is the defending champion, and Eleanor will be exchanging swings for the fourth time in a championship final.

Neither experienced any difficulty in working out semi-final victories yesterday. Miss Williams won, 10 and 8, from Virginia Lindlblad of Joliet, while Miss Dudley had to go another three holes in the course of a 6 and 4 triumph over Janet Smith of Rockford. Last year Ellamae won the state final against Virginia. Eleanor's victory over Janet was her third in five meetings.

Rivalry Began in 1935.

The friendly rivalry between the Misses Williams and Dudley began in 1935 at Westmoreland, where Eleanor took the western final from her pal. Two years ago, in the state final at Champaign, the Ridge star repeated with a title match decision over Ellamae. Last month the latter scored her first victory in the series when she won her second state championship by defeating Miss Dudley.

Par in	445	444	535—38—75
Miss Williams out	455	354	345—38
Miss Lindblad out	566	565	456—48
Miss Williams in	4
Miss Lindblad in	5
Miss Dudley out	455	365	254—39
Miss Smith out	476	464	*45— *
Miss Dudley in	544	44
Miss Smith in	456	56

The Williams-Lindblad match was the champion's show all the way. She finished the 10 holes necessary for the decision in one over par, her only bogey occurring at the par 4 second, where she won with a 5 against Miss Lindblad's 6. The latter drew no breaks during the round, particularly in chipping and putting.

Miss Dudley Three Over Par.

Miss Dudley could have retired to the cool of the clubhouse after the 34th, but decided to warm up for today's title match by playing out the four bye holes. She finished the full route with a card of 78, 3 over par, and that included a 7 at the 540 yard sixteenth. Other results:

One Will Be Champion Tonight

Ed Oliver's 66 Leads Field in St. Paul Open

St. Paul, Minn., July 26 (AP).—Ed (Porky) Oliver had a headache today—but it wasn't as bad as the one he handed par and the rest of the field in the opening round of the $7,500 St. Paul Open golf tournament.

The roly-poly pro from Hornell, N. Y., scorched the Keller course with a six under par 66 to grab pace-making honors in a day's play which saw 42 players equal or better regulation figures.

Oliver had such a severe headache he had to take a bromide during his out nine. It didn't stop the rotund 23 year old star from making the turn in 33, nowever, and he duplicated that three under par performance on the trip home. His six birdies—he didn't have a bogey—were traceable to fine approach shots.

Two shots off the pace were four 68 shooters—Bill Kaiser of Louisville, Ky.; Johnny Revolta of Evanston, Ill.; Frank Moore of Detroit, Mich., and Jimmy Hines, Lakeville, N. Y.

Dick Metz of Oak Park, Ill., whose 270 set a tourney record last year, had a 69, as did Jim Ferrier of Australia. Other 69 performers were Jim Foulis, Chicago; Ralph Stonehouse, Chicago; Tony Penna, Dayton, O.; John Bulla, Chicago, and Len Mattson, the home pro. Scores:

Rissman Meets Wils Today for Midwest Crown

Sanford Rissman, 18 year old star from Bryn Mawr, will meet Harry Wils Sr., 38 year old business man from Waveland, in the 36 hole final of the 13th annual Midwest Public Links golf tournament today on the Waveland course in Lincoln park. Rissman moved up to the final by eliminating Ted Brashler of Ridge, 1 up, while Wils defeated another Ridge entrant, John Skworch, 2 and 1, in yesterday's semi-final matches.

After shooting a medal score of 37, one over par, Brashler, who whipped Co-Medalist Fred Hawkins, had a one hole lead at the turn, and increased his margin at the 11th, where the C. D. G. A. junior closed finalist played the traps. Rissman, however, came back to win the 16th and 17th. Brashler lost his chance to even the match on the last hole, where his second shot bounced into the sand.

Skworch evened the other match on the ninth, where Wils' approach was trapped. Wils lost the next hole under the same circumstances, but had more luck on the 11th where he got a birdie on the par 5 hole, then coasted along to take the 13th and 15th.

12 Named to Start Today in Gold Cup Race

Los Angeles, Cal., July 26 (AP).—Twelve candidates, headed by Kayak II and Challedon, were named to race in the $50,000 Gold Cup handicap at Hollywood Park tomorrow.

Kayak II, successor to the top silks of the Charles S. Howard stable with the retirement of the mighty Seabiscuit, captured the 1939 running of the Gold Cup, but the big Argentine remains something of a mystery for the 1940 race. He has not raced since he trailed Seabiscuit to the wire last March in the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap, and has been sick and hampered by a foot injury.

Challedon, newly arrived on the west coast after trailing third to Eight Thirty and Hash in the Massachusetts Handicap—horses that Can't Wait has beaten, incidentally, in recent weeks—also has worked impressively and may pick up where he left off with Kayak II in 1939; namely, by defeating him for the third time.

Coupled with Kayak will be another Howard candidate, Advocator, winner of seven of his last nine starts. He might prove a surprise.

DIETZ AND CLARK MOVE TO PUBLIC LINKS GOLF FINAL

Dietz, playing in a pair of shoes a half-size too small for him, beat Roy Dolce of Denver, 3 and 2. Clark was never behind but nevertheless had to go 38 holes before winning from the favorite, Edward J. Furgol of Utica, N. Y.

Dietz led 152 Detroiters in the public links qualifying round a few weeks back. Until a month ago he worked as a trimmer in the body building division of a Detroit automobile plant.

Clark holds the St. Paul city title. A hardware salesman, he calls himself a week-end golfer. He is the father of two children.

IOWA COUNTS ON NATION'S AID FOR EDDIE ANDERSON

Has Supporters in All Sections of Country.

Kirkwood, Savery, and Fort Des Moines hotel of the Tangey-McGinn chain had their own petitions and all guests and employés voted. Nine theaters—Des Moines, Roosevelt, Paramount, Grand, Ingersoll, Uptown, Hiland, Iowa, and Garden—registered votes six nights a week. The same clerks who registered admissions on Tuesday, which is bank night, presented the petitions to the theaters' patrons.

The Vote Is Tremendous.

Sam and Paul McGinn of the hotel corporation live in Des Moines. They are ardent Iowa and Notre Dame fans and they believe that the Anderson vote will double the vote in the players' poll.

Before the coaches' poll opened, the Register-Tribune had received so many votes for Anderson that no effort was made to count them.

"We just tossed them aside," Sec Taylor said, "until we were able to clear the players' vote."

Joe Shilling and the business men who gather for luncheon each noon in the Chamberlain hotel have the All-Star game figured out already. They have conceded Anderson's election and insist that with Nile Kinnick throwing passes to Prasse and Evans, and with Dean blocking for Kinnick, the Packers will receive the same kind of surprise Iowa handed Minnesota.

"Look what happened to Washington when the college boys threw a lot of passes," Shilling said. "That's what Kinnick will do to Green Bay. And I guess there may be a few more good players on the college squad who can give the Iowans a rest of five minutes or so.

Everybody's for Eddie.

"This state is solidly behind Anderson," Taylor continued. "Make no mistake about that. The players' poll proved to me that Iowa will get out the vote and there can't be any other candidacy in the country which will match Iowa's enthusiasm.

"Not all of Kinnick's vote in the players' poll came from Iowa, of course," Taylor reasoned. "Of his 1,200,000 votes, I'd guess that more than two-thirds were cast in the state. On this basis, there isn't any doubt in my mind but that Iowa will cast a million and a half votes for Anderson. Mind, this is a conservative estimate.

"How about other centers which will turn in a large vote for Anderson? Boston and New England must be for Eddie because of his coaching record at Holy Cross and the lack of any 'hot' candidate in that territory. Chicago should roll up a fine vote for him. He attended medical school in Chicago, played with the Chicago Cardinals, and coached De Paul university football teams.

Wedding Ghosts.

I hear faint sighs as I scent my bouquet
And I remember how I found a love
When summer stars were dancing up above.

My ear is still attuned . . . I hear him sing!
My heart beats in a rhythm memories bring.

But these are ghost-like thoughts that come my way—
Love Spirits—guests, who were not asked to stay.
I take my father's arm to climb the aisle

603 TO COMPETE TODAY IN TRIALS OF 100 YARD SWIM

Open Event in Cermak, Sherman Park Pools.

The weather being what it is, contestants in the 11th annual 100 yard free style Chicagoland swimming championships will be glad to know the first phase of the competition will get under way today.

A field of 603 boys and girls ranging in age from 11 to 19, this afternoon will begin qualifying trials which they hope will land them in the championship finals in Lincoln park lagoon on Aug. 4. Today's activity will be in Cermak pool, 7600 Ogden avenue, Lyons, and Sherman park pool, 52d street and Racine avenue. All contestants are to report by 1 p. m., and the racing will begin shortly afterward. Preliminaries will be concluded tomorrow in the Whealan pool, Milwaukee and Devon avenues, and California park pool, 3901 North California avenue.

100 Finalists to Emerge.

From these four tests will emerge more than 100 finalists, who will win gold qualifying medals and the chance to capture highest honors in the finals in which champions will be crowned in 10 divisions. The boys and girls each will compete in five classes, arranged as to age. They follow:

Class A—11 to 12 years.
Class B—13 to 14 years.
Class C—15 to 16 years.
Class D—17 to 18 years.
Class E—19 years and over.

Each of the qualifiers will be awarded a gold medal. Every boy or girl who negotiates the required 100 yards will be given a bronze souvenir button.

The Chicagoland swimming meet was inaugurated by The Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., 10 years ago. In the first competition there were only two age divisions. The other three were added in 1931 to blend competitors' ages and abilities more closely.

Trials to Show Clubs' Strength.

The qualifying meets are sanctioned by the Central association of the Amateur Athletic union, with the coöperation of the Chicago park district and the Cook county commissioners, who also control the forest preserve district.

The week-end's competition will give at least an indication of the strength of teams entered from the various cities and Chicago parks and clubs. Last year the girls' championship went to the Medinah club, now the Chicago Towers. Men's team honors were won by the Lake Shore Athletic club, now the Lake Shore Club of Chicago, which always has strong representation. Many of the contestants, however, are unattached and frequently land in championship row.

Jaretz, Kiefer to Swim.

Appearance of two of the nation's ranking stars, Adolph Kiefer and Otto Jaretz, Chicago Towers club teammates, adds zest to the championships. Jaretz, who won the class D title last year, moves up to the class E competition, and will swim tomorrow at Whealan pool. The 100 yard free style is one of his specialties, whereas Kiefer has won most of his laurels in the backstroke. Kiefer is one of the contestants this afternoon at Cermak pool.

Another Chicago Towers favorite is Mickey Wichser, who has progressively won several championships in this meet. She took class C honors in 1939 and will be aiming for the class E laurels this time.

Great Neck, Bostwicks to Meet in Polo Final

New York, July 26 [Special].—The final match of the national twenty-goal polo tournament will be played at Bostwick field, Westbury, Sunday, with Stewart Iglehart's Great Neck team opposing Pete Bostwick's four.

East End Park Tennis Meet to Start Today

Play will start at 2 p. m. today in the annual open tennis tournament of the East End Park Tennis club on the courts at 53d street and the lake. The winner will be awarded the Sutton cup.

Higbe Wilts in 7th; Reds Beat Phillies, 9 to 5

Philadelphia, Pa., July 26 (AP).—After giving up only two hits in six innings, Kirby Higbe blew up in the seventh inning tonight and the first place Cincinnati Reds bunched four hits for four runs to beat the Phillies, 9 to 5.

It was the Reds' seventh straight victory.

Going into the seventh inning the Phillies were ahead, 3 to 2, thanks to homers by Bob Bragan and Joe Marty off the Reds' starting pitcher, Paul Derringer.

After Willard Hershberger popped out, Morrie Arnovich and Mike McCormick singled. Pinch Hitter Dean walked to fill the bases. Bragan then fumbled a grounder by Pinch Hitter Ernie Lombardi, tying the score. Bill Werber and Ival Goodman followed with a single and double to drive in three more tallies and retire Higbe.

POSTAL TELEGRAPH.

I bought some Postal Telegraph 7 per cent preferred stock in 1937. The stock dropped to practically nothing and I considered it worthless. Now I see it quoted again. Is the stock quoted the same as the one I own? If not, what has happened to my stock and to the company?—L. F.

Answer: Postal Telegraph and Cable corporation was reorganized in June, 1939, after four years under federal court supervision. The court held the company insolvent and in the reorganization plan eliminated the company's 305,295 shares of 7 per cent preferred stock held by the public and 1,017,650 shares of common stock held by the International Telephone and Telegraph corporation.

Only holders of $50,670,180 in 5 per cent bonds and debenture stock were permitted to participate in the reorganized company. For each $1,000 face value of these bonds and debenture shares, the holders received the following:

[1] Five shares of preferred stock and 20 shares of common stock of the new Postal Telegraph, Inc.

Under the reorganization, the telegraph land line system was separated from the cable and radio system. Four new companies were set up: Postal Telegraph, Inc., received the land line system. Commercial Mackay corporation took the cable and radio system. All America corporation was given the properties of All America Cables and Radio, Inc., and an Argentine radiotelegraph company. The American Cable and Radio corporation was created as a holding company to own the stocks of Commercial Mackay and All America.

The capitalization of Postal Telegraph, Inc., consists of 1,027,080 shares of $1 par common stock and 256,770 shares of $2.40 noncumulative preferred stock of no par value.

The preferred stock has been listed on the New York Stock exchange. The old 7 per cent preferred shares of the previous company which you hold were wiped out in the reorganization.

Postal Telegraph, Inc., now has no financial affiliation with any other company, except thru service contracts with cable and radio firms formerly a part of the old company.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

Light receipts and belief that some relief from the hot weather would increase consumer demand for pork over the week-end, stimulated buying of hogs at higher prices at the stockyards yesterday. The rise was in the face of another serious break in wholesale pork markets, where fresh pork loins tumbled 50 cents to $1 to the lowest point in three weeks.

However, hog buyers took on the scant supply at the yards at 10 to 25 cents higher rates, paying the largest increases for the best of the 180 to 230 pound hogs. Closing prices were the highest of the day.

The $6.75 top equaled the highest price of the week. The average up 20 cents, at $6, was highest since last Friday.

U. S. GYPSUM'S PROFIT FOR SIX MONTHS CLIMBS

Net income of United States Gypsum company and its subsidiaries, largest domestic producer of gypsum building materials, reached $3,536,459 or $2.73 a common share in the first half of the year, Sewell L. Avery, chairman, announced yesterday.

The Gypsum company, which has its general offices and a plant in Chicago, earned $3,117,857 or $2.38 a share in the first six months of 1939, Avery said. For the 12 months ended June 30, net income was $7,784,448 or $6.06 a share, compared with $5,662,135 or $4.28 a share in the preceding 12 month period.

Provides for Tax Boosts.

"Provision has been made against net income for the six months ended June 30, 1940, for increased federal income and capital stock taxes and Canadian income and excess profits taxes, in accordance with revenue laws as amended to date," Avery told stockholders.

Provision of $981,000 was made for federal and Canadian income taxes, compared with $605,000 in the first half of 1939. Net operating profit for the six months was $5,695,276, against $4,866,984 in the six months of 1939, Avery reported.

Walter S. Mack Jr., president of Pepsi-Cola company, soft drink manufactured and distributor, estimated net profit of the company for the six months ended June 30 after income taxes was $2,828,000 or $10.91 a share. In the first half of 1939, net income was $2,437,000 or $9.32 a share.

Dow Chemical Profit Rises.

Dow Chemical company and its subsidiaries had net profit of $7,159,167 or $6.65 a common share after preferred dividends in the 12 months ended May 31, Williard H. Dow, president, reported. This compared with $4,178,485 or $3.76 a share in the preceding 12 months.

Dow said it will be necessary in the near future to provide additional working capital either by loans, sale of debentures, or sale of stock to expand plants to meet the increased demand for the company's products. The company's main plant is at Midland, Mich., and another plant for the extraction of minerals from sea water is under construction at Freeport, Tex.

Net income of Hershey Chocolate corporation in the quarter ended June 30 was $814,881 after a reserve of $200,000 against possible loss on market value of inventory. The profit was equal to 82 cents a common share. The company had net income of $1,051,396 or $1.16 a share in the 1939 June quarter.

Keystone Earnings Higher.

The preliminary report of the Keystone Steel and Wire company, Peoria, Ill., for the fiscal year ended June 30 showed net profit of $1,418,200 after all charges and federal taxes. This was equal to $1.87 a share on the capital stock. It compared with net income of $897,299, or $1.18 a share in the preceding fiscal year.

L. G. Regner, secretary of the Briggs & Stratton corporation, Milwaukee, manufacturer of auto accessories and portable gasoline engines, reported the company earned $670,586, or about $2.23 a common share in the six months ended June 30. This compared with $552,377, or $1.84 a share in the first half of 1939.

RESUME HEARING ON DISPUTE OF MIDLAND FIRMS

Attorneys for Midland Utilities company yesterday introduced voluminous exhibits of annual reports, accounts of meetings, and similar documents at the opening session of the hearing in Chicago on the claims which the Midland Utilities company and the Midland United company have filed against each other.

The hearing was transferred to Chicago from Wilmington, Del., where it started about three weeks ago. It will be continued Monday morning before Special Master Daniel Hastings in the Circuit Court of Appeals. Both companies, big units in the old Insull public utility system, have been in bankruptcy proceedings since June, 1934.

Midland Utilities has filed against Midland United a claim for $24,807,263 in direct indebtedness and $48,742,703 representing the value of certain securities. Midland United in turn has filed exceptions and counterclaims of $24,943,173 against Midland Utilities.

Gains Shown by Studebaker and Packard

Paul G. Hoffman.

Studebaker corporation improved its earnings in the first half of 1940. Packard Motor Car company greatly reduced its net loss, and Noblitt-Sparks Industries, Inc., Indiana auto accessory manufacturer, had larger profits than a year earlier, reports of the three companies disclosed yesterday.

Net profit of Studebaker corporation for the six months was $957,309, or 43 cents a share, against $774,314, or 35 cents a share, in the first half of 1939, Paul G. Hoffman, president, annouhced. The corporation earned $445,806, or 20 cents a share, in the second quarter, compared with $717,400, or 32 cents a share, in the quarter ended June 30, 1939.

Sales Are Compared.

Net sales for the 1940 first half totaled $42,601,060 compared with $37,903,623 in the corresponding period last year, Hoffman said. Sales in the second quarter were $22,103,594, against $22,808,374 in the 1939 second quarter.

Altho Packard Motor Car company continued to operate at a loss for the six months, the amount of the deficit was cut sharply compared with a year earlier.

Net loss for the six months ended June 30 was $102,366, against a net loss of $1,040,616 in the first half of 1939. Officials said the company operated profitably thru the first five months of the year, but sustained a loss in June sufficient to erase the profit.

Inventory Factor in Loss.

They said this June deficit was largely the result of a charge against operations for an inventory of finished cars designed to carry dealers thru the current changeover period.

The company had a June 30 factory inventory of 6,300 finished cars as compared with 300 a year earlier, officials said.

Negotiations between Packard officials and representatives of the United States and British governments on a $150,000,000 contract to produce British Rolls-Royce aviation engines are progressing rapidly and agreements may be reached soon, Packard announced.

"Meanwhile," the announcement said, "Packard is working on many preliminary phases of production. The order calls for 9,000 engines, including 6,000 for the British government and 3,000 for the United States, and carries an option for 10,000 additional engines.

Facilities to Cost 30 Million.

"Tooling and other facilities will cost around $30,000,000, and actual manufacturing, when it reaches a planned peak of 840 engines monthly within 15 to 18 months of the time the contract is signed, will require 14,000 workers in addition to the 10,000 on the company's automotive pay rolls.

"Relatively rapid progress is being made by the company's aviation type marine motor department, which now has unfilled orders approximating $5,000,000 from the United States, British, and Canadian governments. Orders pending aggregate almost as much. Initial shipments of the high speed mosquito boat motors have been made.

For the first six months of 1940, Noblitt-Sparks earned $451,066, or $1.90 a share, after charges and federal income taxes, compared with $332,397, or $1.74 a share, in the first half of 1939. The company manufactures car heaters and radios and other accessories.

American Airlines Gets Four New Douglas Planes

New York, July 26 [Special].—American Airlines, Inc., has accepted delivery of four new 21 passenger flagships from the Douglas Aircraft company, it was disclosed today. These four new flagships are part of the order for 32 flagships which American has placed with the Douglas company.

BUSINESS BOOKS

"Sales Finance Companies and Their Credit Practices," by Profs. W. C. Plummer and Ralph A. Young. [National Bureau of Economic Research, N. Y. $3.]

One of a series of studies of consumer installment financing by the research bureau either published or soon to be issued, this book is a survey and analysis of the business of financial retail instalment sales.

Such subjects as the reasons for good profits, the growth of competition, revenue sources, and major expense categories are dealt with. The authors reach the conclusions that sales finance organizations realize a high rate of return on their invested capital, and that the return is greater for national organizations than for regional and local firms.

The survey states that one of the reasons for the relatively high and stable profits of sales finance companies is that for 20 years there has been an expanding market for their services. Low interest rates in recent years and the companies' ability to reduce operating expenses and raise charges during periods of volume decline are other reasons, it was learned.

Altho retail financing provides the bulk of gross income, the study found, other income sources are wholesale financing, small loans, factoring, and rediscounting the paper of other finance companies. The three principal divisions of expense in the field, according to the report, are operating expense, borrowing cost, and provision for tax-

Plane Doesn't Need Runway; Hops Into Air

Willow Grove, Pa., July 26 (AP).—An airplane that needs no runway for its takeoff was demonstrated sucessfully today by the Pitcairn Autogiro company, pioneer American rotor plane manufacturer.

Product of three years' experimentation, the new machine was hailed by Harold F. Pitcairn, president of the company, as a plane "completely independent of ground obstacles or size" for its takeoff and landing.

Pitcairn said the new giro needs space only one-eighth the size of a regulation airplane field for landing and takeoff. Rotor planes now in use require a field about a fourth as large as a regular air field.

Rises 20 Feet Vertically.

Called the "jump takeoff," the new feature of the plane enables it to rise vertically for 20 feet, then take a normal climbing angle for the further ascent. In today's demonstration, the giro literally hopped into the air, clearing by more than five feet strings attached to poles 18 feet high, before moving forward.

Altho the plane is designed for private use, its use for military scouting is possible. Much larger machines than the 175 horsepower, 2,000 pound experimental ship are feasible.

Like Shifting Auto Gears.

The "jump takeoff" is possible, he explained, by speeding the overhead blades to 300 rotations per minute—50 per cent more than the normal speed—while the blades are held in a horizontal position. The pilot, by automatic hydraulic control, then releases the blades to a half vertical or "lifting" position and simultaneously shifts the full engine power to the propellor in a movement similar to shifting gears in an automobile.

This simultaneous overspeeding and assumption of the "lift" position by the rotor blades, Pitcairn said, causes the giro to shoot into the air.

Engine Behind Pilot.

Aside from its takeoff quality, the new giro includes such innovations as the location of its motor behind instead of in front of the cockpit and starting, lighting and ignition systems like those on automobiles.

The engine was placed at the rear, Chief Engineer Agnew Larsen said, to provide better vision and eliminate a top heavy nose. An airshaft from the front of the fuselage cools the motor.

This new giro can be operated as a land vehicle by simply folding back the rotor blades and using a rear drive shaft operating on a single rear wheel. The steering is done thru the front wheels.

TWA to Take Over Detroit to St. Louis Route Soon

Paul E. Richter, executive vice president of Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc., announced yesterday the line would be ready within three weeks to start passenger operations between St. Louis and Cincinnati, and Cincinnati, Dayton and Detroit under terms of an operating agreement authorized yesterday by the civil aeronautics board. TWA has signed a lease whereby it will take over operations of Marquette Airlines.

U. S. STEEL GETS MORE THAN A THIRD OF ARMY ORDERS OF 60 MILLION

Washington, D. C., July 26 (AP).—The war department announced today contracts totaling $60,866,232, awarded during the first half of July. They included orders to the United States Steel corporation, totaling more than $22,000,000 for projectiles, explosives, ammuniton parts and armor plate.

Other large contracts included a $3,439,000 order for shells awarded to the Budd Wheel company, Detroit. The Harrisburg Steel corporation, Harrisburg, Pa., got orders for explosives, $1,050,000, and ammunition and ammunition parts, $1,961,832.

Other contracts included: Colt's Patent Fire Arms Manufacturing company, Hartford, Conn., machine guns, $981,292; pistols, $50,737; parts for pistols, $40,330. American Woolen company, New York, wool blankets, $1,109,065. Scovill Manufacturing company, Waterbury, Conn., primer heads, $667,500; cartridge cases, $114,000. EQUITABLE ENDS POLICY BANS ON TRAVEL BY AIR

New York, July 26 [Special].—The removal of restrictions on air travel in policies of the Equitable Life Assurance society was announced today by Thomas I. Parkinson, president.

"On this, its eighty-first anniversary," the statement read, "the society announces that no limitations of amount will be imposed and no extra premiums will be charged because of an applicant's past or contemplated flying as a fare paying passenger on scheduled planes operated by commercial airlines within the United States."

Until now the Equitable has imposed restrictions on the amounts of insurance and extra premiums graduated by the number of hours of air travel which the applicant admitted for the year preceding his application.

"The desirability of the change was indicated by the favorable experience both in the Equitable and generally with air risks for some time past," Parkinson said.

OKLAHOMA CUTS AUGUST OIL FLOW 18,100 BARRELS

Oklahoma City, Okla., July 26 (AP).—Oklahoma lopped 18,100 barrels a day from its August oil quota today in the hope it would begin a parade of oil state reductions to bring stabilization of prices.

The Independent Petroleum association yesterday recommended that all oil compact states slash August production by 10 per cent under the bureau's estimated demand.

Andrew F. Schoeppel, chairman of the Kansas conservation commission, said Kansas producers were ready "to go along" with Oklahoma but did not estimate what the reduction might be.

Oklahoma, operating under a 90-day order, now is producing 408,100 barrels of oil daily.

Reveal Details of Oil Export License Order

cial].—President Roosevelt late today defined in a proclamation and regulations the extension of his virtual embargo of exports of certain war commodities to include petroleum products, tetraethyl lead, and iron and steel scrap.

The order restricts the licensing to aviation gasoline, aviation high grade lubricating oil, tetraethyl lead [used in production of high octane aviation gasoline] and No. 1 heavy melting iron and steel scrap.

Defense Need Given as Reason.

The announced reason for the action was that the materials, especially aviation gasoline, should be conserved for national defense needs.

Materials subject to licensing were defined as follows:

"A. Petroleum products:

hydrocarbon mixtures [including crude oils] boiling between 75 degrees and 350 degrees F. which with the addition of tetraethyl lead up to a total content of 3 C. C. per gallon will exceed 87 octane number by the A. S. T. M. knock test method; or any material from which by commercial distillation there can be separated more than 3 per cent of such gasoline, hydrocarbon or hydrocarbon mixture.

High Test Lubricating Oil.

"[2] Aviation lubricating oil, i. e., any lubricating oil of 95 or more seconds Saybolt universal viscosity at 210 degrees F. with a viscosity index of 85 or more.

"B. Tetraethyl lead. Pure tetraethyl lead, ethyl fluid, or any mixture containing more than 3 C. C. of tetraethyl lead per gallon.

"C. Iron and steel scrap. Number one heavy melting scrap."

President Roosevelt meanwhile announced that the coast of the Iberian peninsula will be kept open to American shipping as long as possible, it being the only remaining point of United States contact with Europe.

He had been asked whether Great Britain's announced tightening of its blockade to cover all neutral countries thru which supplies may conceivably reach Germany would lead to a pronouncement that Spain and Portugal are in the combat zone and thus are barred from American shipping.

MINIMUM SOFT COAL PRICES EXPECTED TO BE IN EFFECT SEPT. 3

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 26.—The bituminous coal division hopes to have minimum soft coal prices in effect by Sept. 3, Director Howard A. Gray indicated today. The new price schedule may be announced tomorrow.

Original plans were to have the prices established by Sept. 1. That date falling on Sunday and the following day being Labor day the probable date for the long awaited price schedule placing a floor under soft coal prices will be Sept. 3, it was said.

The new price schedules, which have been in the process of formulation for more than a year, will mean considerably higher prices to consumers. The schedules vary according to producing areas and their distances from consuming markets.

Lets Oil Go to Russia.

The maritime commission, which has refused charters to Spanish and Japanese companies in the last few days, today approved charter of the California Standard Oil company's tanker W. S. Miller to a Russian concern to transport one load of gasoline from California to Vladivostok. The commission made no reference to its previous statement of a policy to keep American oil vessels in western hemisphere trade. Officials said each application is judged on its own merits.

The Spanish embassy claimed that less oil has been imported into Spain from the United States this year than average, and asserted that it was being used solely by Spaniards, not transshipped to Germany and Italy. Spain's oil purchases are one-third higher so far this year than for the corresponding period in 1939, ambassy officials said but the average is still below 1935 figures the last normal trade year.

N. Y. EXCHANGE PLAN TO RETIRE SEATS STUDIED

New York, July 26 (AP).—A proposal to raise a $1,206,000 fund to retire memberships in the New York Stock exchange will be considered by the board of governors next week, brokerage circles reported today.

Under a plan drafted by a group which has been studying ways of reducing the number of seats to conform with the shrinkage in trading in recent years, a loan of $500,000 would be made to the fund by the exchange and the rest would be raised thru levies on members based on the business they handle. Eventually the loan would be repaid out of the levies on members.

At the current quotation for a stock exchange seat—$40,000—only 30 seats could be bought in for retirement but the objective of the plan was said to be 100 seats over a long period. There are 1,375 memberships.

U. S. Outlets Help Central America Trade

[This is the fifth of a series of articles on the economic aspects of the relations of the United States and the countries of South and Central America.]

The nine Central American republics—Costa Rica, Cuba, Dominican Republic, Guatemala, Haiti, Honduras, Nicaragua, Panama, and Salvador—are dependent chiefly on the United States for their foreign trade.

Because these countries have suffered loss and disruption of other markets as a result of the European war, the United States has become even more important to them than ever before as a customer and supplier. The Central American countries count on an increase in trade with the United States to offset trade losses in other directions.

Our Nation Biggest Buyer.

Of the nine republics' $234,064,000 export total in 1939, the United States took 62.4 per cent. The United States took 90.7 per cent of all Honduran exports and 27.1 per cent of the Dominican Republic's. For only two others, Costa Rica and Haiti, did the United States share fall below the 50 per cent mark, and the respective percentages of shipments from Guatemala, Nicaragua, and Panama taken were 65.8, 77.5, and 85.8. Cuba's exports totaled $147,676,000—well above all of the other combined. Oft the Cuban total the United States bought 74 per cent.

Of the $187,365,000 combined imports of eight of the republics [imports for the Dominican Republic are not available] last year, the United States supplied 60 per cent. Cuba, whose total of $105,862,000 again was substantially more than all of the rest together, took 75.3 per cent of her imports from the United States. The shares of the others did not show wide variations, ranging from 45 to 68.4 per cent.

British Buying a Factor.

Altho Great Britain accounted for only 8.3 per cent of the republics' export total and supplied 6.7 per cent of their imports, maintenance of the existing British market and expansion in the future would do much toward easing the loss of European outlets. This particularly applies to Costa Rica, 25 per cent of whose exports, mainly coffee, went to Germany last year, compared with 17 per cent to Great Britain. Increased British demand for coffee has helped to offset the loss of the German market.

The Dominican Republic sent 31.5 per cent of its exports to Great Britain, compared with 27.1 per cent sent to the United States. The country has lost France's 12 per cent share and Germany's comparatively small 2 per cent portion.

Loss of France Hurts Haiti.

The loss of France as a market, however, was more serious for Haiti, since 21 per cent of her shipments, exceeded only by shipments to the United States, were taken by the French in 1939. Similarly Guatemala will feel the pinch of the loss of Germany's 16 per cent share.

All of the Central American republics are primarily agricultural, their major export commodities being coffee, sugar, bananas, tobacco, and cocoa. They would thus be in a position to benefit if a general demand for foodstuffs and higher prices should result from the war.

Chief imports into Central America are machinery, fuel and gasoline, textiles, iron and steel, building materials, and electrical equipment. Germany formerly was an important supply source, especially for Costa Rica, Guatemala, Nicaragua, and Salvador.

German Business Lost.

The loss of Germany as a supplier, however, is not as serious for the nine republics as the disappearance of German purchases of Central American goods. This is because the United States can supply much of the goods which Central America formerly bought from Germany.

Altho Italy did not play a prominent part in the Central American foreign trade, her loss cannot be considered without economic effect. Japan, which has a commercial foothold of one kind or another in the republics, could be looked to and cultivated as the means of helping equalize Italy's disappearance as a market.

Cuba, dominating Central American trade, has been suffering from low sugar prices, large sugar reserves, and curtailed production operations since early in the year. Her tobacco industry has been adversely affected by the increase in taxes on tobacco products by various countries since the outbreak of the war.

OLD VULCAN IRON WORKS SOLD TO MAKE MUNITIONS

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., July 26 [Special].—Control of the Vulcan Iron Works, established in 1849, will be transferred tomorrow and production of arms for the government's defense program begun, it was reported here today.

While the identity of the purchasers was not made public, it was reported they are identified with the Empire Ordnance corporation, which recently leased facilities from the Willys-Overland company at Toledo, O., and acquired a property from the Carnegie Steel corporation at Pencoyd, Pa., to fulfill contracts.

The Vulcan Works has been building locomotives, hoists, and machinery. It was indicated it will manufacture antiaircraft artillery.

Refiner to Make Up Wage Loss of Drafted Workers

Linden, N. J., July 26 [Special].—Refinery employés of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey will receive for as long as three months the difference between army pay of $21 a month and their wage or salary scale at such time as they might be called for military training under the proposed national draft plan, it was announced today by Donald L. Ferguson, general superintendent.

OIL GRAB FAILS TO END MEXICAN UNION WRANGLE

Worker Aid Not Real Aim, Say Observers.

[This is the second of three articles by Mr. Thomis dealing with Mexico's seizure and attempts to operate the foreign owned oil industry within her borders.]

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Mexico City, July 26.—The spectacle is presented here today of Mexico's revolutionary government and powerful labor unions wrangling over the spoils of the nation's declining oil industry. The government seized foreign owned oil properties in 1938 on the pretext that the step was to better the condition of labor in the industry.

Vincent Toledano, boss of radical unions.

Under Mexican control, the once rich industry has been operated at tremendous losses. President Lazaro Cardenas on Wednesday ordered reorganization of the system with further cuts in the wages of the workers.

The order, which would cut the industry's expenses by discharging about 3,500 of the industry's 18,000 workers, intensified the government wrangle with the petroleum workers' union.

Report Monday Strike Order.

The union tonight was reliably reported to have ordered 18,000 members to go on a 24 hour strike Monday in protest against Cardenas' decree.

A union officer said the secretary general had telegraphed all regional committees to call out their workers at 10 a. m. Monday "unless contrary orders should be received."

The federal labor board provisionally authorized the oil administration to modify its contract with the workers to effect economies. A hearing is scheduled for Aug. 5.

In an open letter to Cardenas, the union blamed the government oil sales agency for "economic chaos" in the industry. The railway employes' powerful union, anticipating that Cardenas next would revamp the national railways, announced it would combat any reorganization involving wage cuts or dismissals.

At the time of the seizure of the lands, Mexican officials used the slogan "better labor conditions" to justify their action. Today it is admitted in official quarters here that the real purpose was elimination of foreign management.

According to some observers, two incidents have served to indicate that the betterment of labor conditions was not the major aim of the seizures.

Wage Increase Rejected.

1. The oil companies before the "expropriation" offered to increase wages 26 million pesos yearly. [The peso is about 20½ cents.] The offer was turned down.

2. Vincente Lombardo Toledano, de facto boss of the radical CTM [Mexican Workers Confederation], which instigated the seizure, has since made the following statement: "If we had accepted [the companies' pay raise offer], it would have been a victory of labor over capital within the Mexican oil industry; but by refusing the offer we won a great victory for the Mexican people against foreign imperialism."

Seizure of the properties took place March 19, 1938, but not until elaborate court proceedings and so-called negotiations between the companies and the government had been concluded.

The final phase of the oil companies' efforts to stave off expropriation—which they had seen coming—began with their hearings in 1937 before the Mexican federal labor board.

General Strike Called off.

The hearings were the result of a petition filed by Toledano. He had called a general strike in the oil industry, but after 10 days backed down, asking the labor board to investigate the economic capacity of the industry to meet demands made by the unions.

After a hearing before three board members known to be loyal members of the PRM [Mexican Revolutionary party] and violently anti-foreign in their sympathies, the companies were officially ordered by the board to meet the following demands:

1. Increase wages and social benefits such as free medical services,

Stocks, Bonds

New York Stocks.

New York, July 26 (AP).—Selected stocks enjoyed a small rally in today's market as Wall street exhibited a little more optimism for business prospects and less nervousness over the European war.

Gains for steels, motors, aircrafts, rails and specialties ran to a point or so in the forenoon but were reduced or canceled in many cases at the close.

Volume of 272,810 shares, while nothing to brag about from the standpoint of brokers, was the largest of the week and compared with 244,800 the day before. The Associated Press average of 60 issues held a net advance of 0.1 of a point at 41.4. The lengthy market stalemate was exemplified by the fact this composite stood at 41.3 a month ago.

Speculators were thought to have been aided by British claims of successfully withstanding German air raids and the day-to-day postponement of Hitler's threatened "all out" blast at England.

On top of this, board rooms gave belated attention to the numerous corporation earnings statements, topped off by the latest Chrysler and Bethlehem reports, which confirmed wide industrial increases over 1939.

A drop in this week's automotive output was undisturbing, inasmuch as it was laid to shutdowns for new model changeovers. Copper shares were unresponsive to stiffening prices and broadening demand for this metal.

Retaining portions of their morning upturn were Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, Douglas Aircraft, United Aircraft, General Electric, Texas corporation, Great Northern, Western Union, International Nickel, Pressed Steel Car and White Rock.

New York Bonds.

New York, July 26 (AP).—Selected corporate loans climbed fractions to 6 or more points in today's thin bond market. The few sharply rising issues were an exception, however, and most gainers showed only fractional advances. They included Walworth 6s of '55, closing at 78½, up 6½, and 4s at 69, up 2½. Boston and Maine 5s of '55 were up 4 at 77, and the road's 4¾s of '61 gained 3¼ at 72¼. New York Central 3¼s of '52 rose 1¾ at 84¾, and Commonwealth Edison convertible 3¼s at 121 advanced 1.

Breaking sharply were Cuban issues as payment of June coupons on loans of that country reflected the reduction in interest by governmental decree. Cuba 4½s of '77 at 53¾ lost 1¾, and rail issues fared even worse. Down 2 or more were Rome 6½s at 32½, and Japanese 6½s at 21½. Canada 4s rose ¾ at 79¾.

United States government obligations closed 7-32ds of a point higher to 1-32d lower.

Chicago Stocks.

Prices turned upward on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday, but trading continued light. Of the 60 active issues, 36 advanced, 8 declined, and 16 were unchanged. Transactions totaled 10,000 shares. Chrysler stock jumped 2¾ points, closing at 67, for the largest gain among the favorites.

Bank Stocks.

Northern Trust shares advanced 3 points yesterday in Chicago bank stock trading. First National and Harris Trust gained a point each and Continental Illinois eased half a point. Other leading issues were unchanged.

INDUSTRY HOLDS TO HIGH LEVELS IN CHICAGO AREA

Schaller Reviews Reserve District June Showing.

Industrial activity was maintained at a high rate during June in the seventh federal reserve district, George J. Schaller, president of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago, said yesterday in his monthly report on business and industrial conditions. The district embraces the northern halves of Illinois and Indiana, the lower peninsula of Michigan, the greater part of Wisconsin and Iowa.

George J. Schaller.

Many heavy industries are operating at near capacity, Schaller said, altho a few branches of production, such as the automobile industry, showed some seasonal slackening. The rearmament program is only beginning to have a direct effect on industrial output in the district.

Employment Increases.

There were gains of 1 per cent in industrial employment and 2 per cent in wage payments for June over May, whereas there normally are declines.

Chicago steel mills continued their high operations during June and are now running at 96½ per cent of capacity, Schaller said. District firms report that there has been considerable buying for inventory purposes. Tractor companies are among those reported working at near capacity and machine tool plants are running near capacity.

Automobile companies, which are changing over to the new models somewhat earlier than customary, reported that unexpectedly good sales in June were carried over into July, with the results that stocks of new cars showed substantial reductions.

Furniture Output Eases.

Furniture manufacturers were reported to have made seasonal reductions in operations in June, but shipments continued heavier than last year. Paper mill operations declined from May, but shipments continued high in June. District petroleum refineries continued their unusually high operations, but there were reductions in unwieldy stocks of petroleum products as summer season travel cut into them.

Crops, according to Schaller, made good progress during June, and harvesting of small grains has come along well. Meat packing production has continued heavy and inventories remain high.

Stores' Sales Rise.

Reflecting the increased industrial activity, department store sales were good, with a 6 per cent gain over June 1939. Sales during the month were the best to date for 1940. The larger stores reported that trade in the first half of July was 8 per cent greater than in the like 1939 period.

From the middle of June to the middle of July bank deposits rose to new high record levels. Commercial, industrial, and agricultural loans made by banks in the district showed increases.

Butter Futures Recover After Dip to Week's Low

Butter futures dipped at one time yesterday to the lowest price of the week on the Chicago Mercantile exchange following the break in the heat wave, but government buying on the New York wholesale market had a firming effect and the Chicago futures closed unchanged at 27.25 cents a pound. The government had not previously supported wholesale butter prices since late in June.

People and Events

C. A. Laystrom, who has resigned as controler and a director of Florsheim Shoe company after 29 years of service to devote all of his time to Quality Hardware and Machine corporation, was honored at a surprise dinner dance at the Itasca Country club last night by Florsheim employés. He was presented with a wrist watch.

R. David Crocker, formerly of Stokes, Woolf & Co., and Charles G. Higgins, until recently associated with the Chicago office of R. W. Pressprich & Co., were named comanagers of a new investment department opened in the Chicago office of Fuller, Rodney & Co.

OIL GRAB FAILS TO END MEXICAN UNION WRANGLE

Worker Aid Not Real Aim, Say Observers.

lengthy vacations, and numerous holidays with full pay. The board said this would cost 26,329,393 pesos a year. The companies said the cost would be 40,000,000 pesos a year—the difference between a profit and loss for them.

2. Establish a 40 hour work week with 56 hours pay.

3. Provide free medical and dental service to employés and their families, even great-grandparents.

4. Pay double wages for overtime, triple wages for work on holidays.

5. Grant 16 holidays a year on full pay; give annual vacation on full pay for 21 working days, and, after 10 years' service, an annual vacation of 30 working days. Vacation wages to be paid in advance.

6. The company, on demand, must furnish any worker going on vacation first class transportation to and from any point he chose to visit. Grant any workman, on request, three days leave of absence with full pay at any time, without limiting the number of times.

7. Provide offices and clerical staffs for the labor unions at company expense and pay regular wages to union delegates attending conventions.

Pension Requirements.

8. Grant pension requirements as follows: To superannuated or disabled workers, pensions from 65 to 80 per cent of wages on retirement. In case of disability thru accident or illness from a nonvocational cause, 80 per cent of wages up to 120 days in any 12 months.

In case of death of a worker from occupational cause the company was to pay 1,280 days' wages. For total disability, payment was to be 1,460 days' wages.

These demands were made in the face of company reports that showed an average net profit of 4.25 per cent or 23 million pesos per year for Mexican oil operations over a 10 year period.

In addition the board demanded radical changes in company management, including a provision that honey-combed the executive staffs of the companies with union members and left sole right of hiring and firing in the hands of the union.

Lose Appeal to Court.

The oil companies immediately appealed to the Mexican supreme court to set aside the award. The court—considered by many to be a puppet in the hands of President Cardenas—gave a unanimous decision against the companies.

Following the decision, the oil companies, in a series of negotiations with Cardenas, offered to raise wages to the extent of 26,000,000 pesos annually—taking the labor board's own figure. They refused, however, to brook interference in management.

Final acts in the drama followed swiftly. On March 17, 1938, the oil union petitioned the labor board to void all contracts with the companies. The petition was granted on March 18.

That evening in a radio broadcast Cardenas declared the properties of the 17 companies "expropriated."

Soldiers Take Over.

The next morning union leaders and government police and soldiers moved on the oil properties. They took possession of everything including records, files, mail, checks, and cash on hand and bank accounts.

There were two possible methods of obtaining redress and the oil companies used both. First was an appeal to the Mexican supreme court against expropriation. Second was an appeal to the governments of the United States, Great Britain, and the Netherlands.

The appeal to the Supreme court was based on the plea the expropriation law was unconstitutional. But the court, as in the case of the labor award, ruled against the companies.

Branded Confiscation.

The oil companies asserted that the so-called "expropriation" actually was confiscation, because the Mexican government was unable to make any prompt or adequate payment. The Mexican government did not deny its financial weakness and, in fact, a few months later told the United States government it was even unable to pay Americans $10,000,000 for agricultural lands seized 10 years earlier.

Sharp notes from the English government in April and May, 1938, told the Mexican government the only way of righting the situation was a return of the oil properties. Mexico refused to return the properties. The two countries severed diplomatic relations. The Netherlands government made similar representations to Mexico, but the conquering of Holland by Germany ended these negotiations.

Diplomatic representations have been made by the United States without any open breach in friendly relations, but the American state department has consistently held that legal expropriation requires prompt, adequate and effective compensation.

HUDSON'S 1941 MODELS MAKE BOW IN CHICAGO

Torpedo Motif Is Used in Body Design.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

The 1941 automobile season got off to a start in Chicago yesterday when the Hudson Motor Car company exhibited its new models to a group of Chicago area dealers at the Lake Shore Club of Chicago. Similar groups in Detroit and Cleveland also have seen the new cars.

C. G. Beeching, of Detroit, Hudson's midwest sales manager, said the new models began rolling off the assembly line in the Hudson Detroit plant several weeks ago after many months of preparation. He was accompanied to Chicago by C. R. Collins, regional manager, and other Hudson officials.

Body Lines Changed.

Principal changes in the 1941 models, which are being shown in three lines, were noted in the body lines and in the interior styling. The Hudson designers have adapted the torpedo motif, which has been gaining in favor among automobile makers. The result is that the 1941 Hudson is a car with a new low-swung, racy appearance.

The rear end design embodies the most notable change. The roof slopes somewhat and the trunk continues the slope to the heavy new massive bumpers. Rear windows are of one piece glass and the trunks are unusually roomy.

The Hudson designers are emphasizing what they call "symphonic styling." In this new development buyers are offered at no extra cost—even in the lowest price line—interior color combinations that harmonize with exterior colors.

Three Color Combinations.

Basically the 1941 interiors are styled in three color combinations, gray, green and tan, the combination included in any car being determined by the exterior color. If tan is chosen, for example, carpets, floor mats, instrument panel and panel will be in harmonizing shades. Since women play an important part in the selection of the family car, Hudson officials feel that this innovation will win favor.

The new body design makes possible a 2 inch reduction in over-all height and an increase in body length up to 5½ inches. In the lowest price group for 1941, the Hudson Six, the wheelbase is 116 inches and the engine is 92 horsepower. Just above this line is the 102 horse power Super Six on a 121 inch wheelbase.

Offers a New Line.

A new line is the Commodore Series, the top series in which is the Commodore Eight with a 128 horse power engine and a 121 inch wheel base.

The engines in the new cars will show little change, except for refinements, from the predecessor line. Beeching said that the performance of the engines has been so satisfactory as not to warrant much change.

At the conclusion of a general sales session Beeching presented Earl Butler, head of Butler Motors, Chicago area Hudson distributor, an award from the Hudson company for his record among the sales leaders in the 1940 models.

CHICAGO SALES BY DEPARTMENT STORES DECLINE

Department store sales declined seasonally in Chicago and the 7th, [Chicago] federal reserve district last week, but volume continued well above the corresponding week of last year, the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago reported yesterday.

Sales volume has been declining irregularly since the year's peak the first week in June. In past years, sales have improved the first week in August to break the down trend, but made no marked change until about the last week in August when the opening of school drew near and fall buying began.

Sales last week in the 7th district were 11.8 per cent above the corresponding week a year ago. Chicago store sales were 9.4 per cent higher. National sales were 9 per cent above last year. For the last four weeks sales in the 7th district have increased 8.8 per cent and in Chicago, 8.7 per cent above the corresponding period in 1939.

Study Renewal of Trade Pact with Soviet Russia

Washington, D. C., July 26 (AP).—The question of renewing the Russian-American commercial agreement, which expires on Aug. 6, is now under consideration by the United States government. Sumner Welles, acting secretary of state, disclosed this today in response to an inquiry at his press conference. He did not elaborate.

CONVICT BOEHM OF PERJURY ON 2 OF 5 COUNTS

Utility Official to Be Sentenced Aug. 3.

St. Louis, Mo., July 26 (AP).—Frank J. Boehm, 50 years old, former $42,000 a year executive vice president of the Union Electric company of Missouri, was convicted of perjury on two counts by a federal court jury here today.

The jury found Boehm innocent on three of five counts in the indictment, which resulted from a Securities and Exchange commission investigation of the political and business practices of the utility.

Federal Judge George H. Moore, who will fix the punishment, deferred sentence until Aug. 3.

Denied "Slush" Fund.

Boehm is subject to a maximum sentence of five years in prison and a fine of $2,000 on each count.

The jury found that Boehm committed perjury by testifying falsely in denying that he had padded his expense accounts; that there was a company "slush fund"; that there was a practice of obtaining money thru kickbacks and rebates, and that he had made political contributions on behalf of the company.

The verdict was reached just 30 minutes after Judge Moore had given the jury a new charge urging it to reach an agreement.

Deliberate About 12 Hours.

The case, which attracted nationwide attention, went to the jury yesterday afternoon after 24 days of testimony. Total time spent in deliberation was about 12 hours.

Defense Counsel John S. Leahy said he would file a motion for a new trial. Boehm will be at liberty meanwhile on his earlier bond.

Two other former employés of the Union Electric have been sentenced on perjury charges also growing out of testimony they gave in the SEC investigation of the company's alleged political "slush fund" operations.

They are Albert C. Laun, former vice president and lobbyist, who entered a plea of nolo contendre and was sentenced to a year and a day in Leavenworth penitentiary, and Fred J. Martin, sales engineer, who pleaded guilty and was sentenced to six months in jail. Martin later was placed on probation.

CHICAGOAN BIDS LOW ON GREAT LAKES BARRACKS

Bids for the building program at Great Lakes Naval Training station were opened yesterday. A. Smith & Co., 134 North La Salle street, was the lowest acceptable bidder, at $367,000. The highest bid was for $458,930.

Five large two story frame construction barracks, a subsistence building, and a cooks' quarters will be built as rapidly as possible. Two of the barracks will be finished within 60 days and the others one month later, according to present plans.

The building program is to relieve the crowded condition at the naval station resulting from heavy recruiting. There are now 100 officers and 3,400 enlisted men, compared with 70 officers and 850 enlisted men last October. The station is taking in about 1,000 men a month and turning out trained seamen at the same rate.

ENJOINS 53 AUTO WRECKERS UNDER WAGE-HOURS LAW

Chicago Area Companies Consent to Decree.

Federal Judge William H. Holly yesterday issued a single injunction restraining 53 auto wrecking companies in the Chicago area from further violations of the wage and hour provisions of the Fair Labor Standards act.

All of the companies consented to entry of the injunction which was sought by Alex Elson, regional attorney for the wage and hour division of the department of labor.

Second "Mass" Injunction.

The injunction is the first in this 11th region, which includes Illinois, Indiana, and Wisconsin, and the second in the United States to insure mass compliance with the act on an industry wide basis, according to Elson. In a similar action in the south, the division obtained an injunction against 180 wholesale grocers.

The 53 companies, all members of the Cook County Auto Wreckers' association, agreed to comply with the provisions after they were explained at a meeting but asked protection against possible noncompliance by competitors.

Prepare Other Injunctions.

Injunctions previously had been obtained against the Martin Auto Parts company, Warshawsky and company, and Friedman Auto Wreckers company.

Injunctions are being prepared for other industries also where inspections show widespread violations of the act, Elson asserted.

Among those named in the injunction yesterday are Eureka Auto & Truck Parts, Great Western Auto Parts & Wrecking company, Northwestern Auto Parts company, Sheffield Auto Parts company, Warshawsky and Son, and Superior Auto Parts.

43 Chicagoans to Train for Plane Engineer Jobs

Forty-three young men selected from Chicago firms left here yesterday aboard the Sante Fe Chief, for Pasadena, Cal., where they will attend a special four week course in aerodynamics at the California Institute of Technology. They then will train for another four weeks in the Lockheed Aircraft corporation plant at Burbank. When the two month course is completed they are expected to be employed by the Lockheed corporation. All are college graduates, with from one to five years general engineering experience.

The purchase price offered included $717,000 for fixed assets and $1,452,000 for bulk whisky.

RETAIL RADIO SALESMAN.

One of the nation's leading manufacturers of fine Custom Built radio receivers and record playing combinations now finds it necessary to open an additional salon on North Michigan-avenue about August 15th. As our present force of salesmen is insufficient to handle clients at both our present location and the new downtown studio, we have openings for several high type salesmen with consumer experience. Earnings are quite high (normal weekly compensation of our five Chicago salesmen has averaged $65.00 per week for several years) and as a result there have been very few vacancies on our sales force for the past five years.

Applicants should be between 35 and 40 years of age. Actual consumer sales experience is necessary, although a knowledge of radio is not required. A fairly late model automobile is absolutely essential. Earnings consist of car allowance, commission, and bonus. Applicants will be interviewed Monday only between two and nine P. M.
